ESTABLISHED 1878 — LOWELL MASS. WEDNESDAY SEPTEMBER 25 1912 — PRICE ONE CENT

Candidates Chosen at the Primaries

The chief contests in yesterday's primaries throughout the state were on the head of the ticket in the democratic and republican parties. Governor Foss won by the handsome majority of 26,614 over Pelletier, and will again be the democratic standard bearer. The latter ran well in Boston, receiving 18,473 votes to 25,032 for Foss. Hon. David I. Walsh of Fitchburg is the nominee for lieutenant governor, Frank Donahue of Boston for secretary of state, Joseph L. P. St. Coeur of Cambridge for treasurer, James F. Carens of Newburyport for auditor, and George W. Anderson of Boston for attorney general.

On the republican side there was a hot fight between Col. Benton and Hon. Joseph Walker, the ex-speaker of the house of representatives, who won out. Walker's vote in the state was 53,914, Benton's 43,612. Walker's majority 10,302. Robert Luce of Somerville is the republican candidate for lieutenant governor, Albert Langtry of Springfield for secretary of state, Elmer C. Stevens for treasurer, John E. White for auditor, James M. Swift for attorney general.

For the first time in this state the congressional nominations were made by popular vote, and the results so far as can be ascertained are highly satisfactory throughout the state. There were some hot contests, but today everybody bows to the will of the majority. The chief contests of local interest were on the head of the ticket and for congress. Governor Foss carried Lowell against Pelletier, receiving 3615 to 818 for his opponent. The total vote is remarkably small, showing that after all it is hard to get the people of Lowell out in full numbers at the primaries. Col. Benton got 1878 votes to 1414 for Walker, showing that the republican nominee is not strong in Lowell.

The chief interest locally centered in the congressional contest in the fifth district in which Humphrey O'Sullivan won out by a substantial majority of 638 in the city and over 1400 in the district. Mr. O'Sullivan's fight in the towns counted well in his behalf, but he showed equal strength in the cities. John Jacob Rogers won the republican nomination for congress in the fifth district, receiving over 3900 in the district to 1248 for Bartlett and 1134 for Grimes. He carried Lowell by a majority of 1944 over the vote of both opponents. There were several quiet contests for senatorial and representative nominations in which the voters apparently selected the strongest men.

HON. EUGENE N. FOSS, D.,
Renominated for Governor.

Robert D. Sawyer of Ware was nominated officially by the socialists for governor but the vote was so small that no record was made.

BENCH WARRANT

Sworn Out For Supporter of Former United States Senator Smith Who Was Defeated in Primaries

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 25.—As a result of a wrangle at the polls here yesterday a bench warrant was sworn out today for James R. Nugent, chairman of the democratic county committee and supporter of former United States Senator Smith, who was defeated in the primaries. The warrant charges assault, carrying concealed weapons and rescuing prisoners from the custody of the law. Mr. Nugent was democratic state chairman until ousted after a contest with Gov. Wilson.

IRISH LEAGUE MEETING

Home Rule Was the Subject Discussed

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Speech-making took up almost the entire morning session of the biennial convention of the United Irish Leagues of America. Home Rule for Ireland being the theme of all the addresses. Among the speakers was Sir George Cowdin Marks, a liberal member of the British parliament.

He told the delegates that it was the desire of the liberal party to give to the Irish Home Rule, which, he said, had been withheld from them too long.

Other speakers included Dr. J. F. Gallagher of Boston and Edward O'Meagher Condon, who had investigated conditions in Ireland.

CRISIS IN THE BALKANS

Causes Anxiety Among the Diplomats

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The crisis in the Balkans is causing great disquietude among diplomats here. Incidents such as the arrest today of Austrian soldiers on the Servian frontier and the firing by Turks on a Greek steamer at Samos are exhibiting the peoples of the states directly interested and it will, it is thought, take all the ingenuity of the foreign offices and their representatives in Turkey to avert the Balkan outbreak so often predicted. Turkey's decision to hold military maneuvers in the vilayet of Adrianople, which the Bulgarians are considering as likely to look upon as a threat, leads to the belief that Turkey is not adverse to a diversion which would allow peace to be signed with Italy under cover of the necessity for the protection of the Turkish frontier. The danger of the situation places it in the forefront of the conversations at Balmoral between King George and Sergius Sazonoff, the Russian foreign minister.

Republican Convention

CONVENTION HALL, Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The republican state convention, which is to place a ticket in nomination and adopt a platform, held its opening session today. The keynote speech was delivered shortly after noon by William D. Guthrie of New York, the temporary chairman.

The first real demonstration of the day came when Chairman Guthrie mentioned the name of President Taft.

The chairman's speech was again interrupted by the spectacular entry of the Conkling Unconditional club of Utica, the home city of Vice-President Sherman.

The chairman's speech was long and it was well into the afternoon when he finished.

Committees on resolutions and permanent organization were ready for appointment, after which the convention planned to adjourn until tomorrow.

THE ISSUES OF THE CAMPAIGN

Discussed by President Taft—He Also Refers to the High Cost of Living

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. The Evening World today publishes an interview with President Taft in which the president goes at length into some of the current issues of the campaign. The president promised a revision of the tariff on a scientific basis so to keep the prices of living from being exorbitant. This may be done by the continuance of the tariff investigation into the matter, the president is quoted as saying.

The prosecutor then hinted at an extra tariff revision session in case the republicans should be in control of the next congress.

Referring to the high cost of living, the president expressed the opinion that American workmen were very much better off than the workmen of Europe, not only were they able to pay the high cost of living, he said, but they could also put something aside for a rainy day. The Payne tariff law had more to do with advancing the high cost of living than the latest Atlantic coast tariff, he declared.

Referring to woman suffrage, the president said that this issue would have to be decided by the various states and that he believed women to be as capable of wise use of the ballot as men.

In the matter of the recall of judges the president said that he regarded the maintenance of an independent judiciary as a supreme issue and that the recall applied to judges would tend to deprive the public of judges of ability, character and a high sense of duty.

The republican national headquarters declared today that this interview was authentic.

PRESIDENT OF MEXICO HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Wants to Secure Peace Boy on Bicycle Collided in That Country

With Auto

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25.—A new movement to obtain peace in northern Mexico was made today when President Madero and his cabinet instructed the minister of war to offer amnesty to the followers of Pascual Orozco, the rebel leader.

A boy whose name could not be learned had a narrow escape from serious injury this forenoon when he ran his bicycle in front of Dr. E. J. Clark's automobile at the corner of Decatur and Merrimack streets. The boy was not injured, but the bicycle he was riding was almost completely destroyed.

Dr. Clark was driving his automobile down Merrimack street toward city hall at about 11 o'clock and the boy was going along Decatur street toward Merrimack street. The automobile was being driven at a moderate rate of speed and when it reached the corner of Decatur street the boy, riding the bicycle came from the latter street and rode right in the path of the auto. Dr. Clark applied the brakes but it was too late. The boy was thrown from his bicycle and the auto passed over the front wheel of the bicycle, breaking it into pieces.

The doctor brought his machine to a stop and rushed to the boy's assistance and after a close examination found that he was uninjured, but he was suffering from a bad shaking up. The boy refused to give his name.

The city primaries in this city yesterday developed some surprises. The vote was small, especially on the republican end. Benton carried the city over Speaker Walker by a vote of 1874 to 1414, despite the predictions of the machine men that the former ex-speaker was much better known and would show a majority. Another surprise was given in the republican gubernatorial vote by the lightness of the totals for the head of the ticket which means that there are some Bull Moose voters in Lowell who purposely refrained from going to the polls. Had there been any contests among the republicans for senator and representatives, the Bull Moosers might have been tempted to go against their convictions and mingle just for a day with the old party men, in order to protect the United States senatorship, but there was nothing doing.

The Congressional Contest

The most interesting local contest was the democratic fight for congress between Humphrey O'Sullivan and Col. James H. Carmichael. The wise ones looked to see Carmichael show great strength in this city. There was betting at even money, and of the pools made on the pluralities in Lowell, few had the temerity to go over 300 either way. But once more the prognosticators were off in their reckoning for Mr. O'Sullivan carried Lowell by 638, and the district by 1372, a lead that leaves no doubt as to the party's choice. On the republican end it was a foregone conclusion that John Jacob Rogers would win, but all looked to see ex-Senator Grimes show more strength than he did. Few imagined that William T. S. Bartlett would top the bewhiskered ex-senator from Reading, but the fact that Mr. Bartlett came out flat-footedly for Roosevelt helped

Calls the Liberty Bell a Fake

Statement of Philadelphia Man

THE LIBERTY BELL

What the Liberty bell a fake, a fraud, a delusion, unworthy of the pedestal on which the American public has placed it! Let's go and blow up Plymouth rock and set fire to Mount Vernon. If the Liberty bell is not the real thing, what is?

For decades the venerated relic claiming and receiving the homage of many millions of visitors, has stood in Independence hall, Philadelphia. There it was at last, the goal of pious pilgrimage, the one thing for a sight of which you made the journey to Philadelphia. Before it you stood in reverence, with bared head, conjuring up images of the day when it "proclaimed liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof"—that is, you believed it did so, and you were happy in the thought that you were actually beholding and could almost touch the sacred casting of bronze before which your father and your grandfather had bowed in reverence.

But now comes an iconoclastic Philadelphia historian—a Philadelphian, of all men!—and with his hammer, which he says is forged from the metal of truth, strikes a disrespectful blow upon the Liberty bell, already cracked by time. Boldly he calls the Liberty bell a fraud; loudly he announces to the world that his researches demonstrate that the Liberty bell does not deserve the homage which has been paid to it for many, many years; shamelessly he asserts that it did not proclaim liberty to the people of the revolted colonies on July 4, 1776.

Not even on July 5 did it ring in honor of the Declaration, says Joseph Jackson, delver into the musty records of the City of Brotherly Love. Not until July 8 did it ring at all in honor of the great event, and then only in common with other bells of the city.

Moreover, Mr. Jackson declares that the general belief that an old man stood at the clapper rope of the bell awaiting the word which came from his grandson to "Ring, grandfather, ring for liberty!" as soon as the Declaration of Independence was signed, is totally unfounded. It was not until July 5, asserts this idol breaking and matter of fact historian, that the general public knew of the signing of the immortal document, and it was not formally proclaimed until July 8th. Therefore, don't you see, this defiance of King George could not have been communicated to the people of Philadelphia by the clanging of a bell in the old statehouse tower on July 4th.

Mr. Jackson asserts that the reverence and love for the old bell, which undoubtedly hung in the old statehouse for years prior to the signing of the Declaration, with its prophetic biblical inscription about proclaiming liberty, are matters of comparatively recent growth. As late as 1828, he says, the city council thought of getting a new bell and proposed giving the old one in part payment. This is a suggestion that would nowadays freeze with horror the blood of Americans. What, give up the Liberty bell, the symbol of American patriotism, the visible embodiment of the ideals that have been acquired in almost a century and a half of independence!

You might as well talk of letting out the national capitol.

However it may be with the historical accuracy of Mr. Jackson's history of the Liberty bell, the story of its early days and of its later more placid life is well known. Despite what Mr. Jackson calls historical accuracy, all the books assert that the bell rang to announce the signing of the Declaration.

Here is the history of the bell as given in the Encyclopedia Americana: "Liberty bell, the bell which formerly hung in the dome of the old statehouse (independence hall), Philadelphia, and was rung to announce the signing of the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776. It was cast in England especially for the statehouse, and was brought from there in 1752; in being taken from the ship it met with an accident which spoiled its tone, and it was recast in Philadelphia in 1752, when the words, 'Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof, were inscribed on it. When the British occupied Philadelphia the bell was taken down and hidden in the Delaware river, near Trenton, but was afterward hung in its old position and for several years was rung every Fourth. In 1835 it was broken while tolling for the death of Chief Justice Marshall. In 1854 it was placed in the hall of the old statehouse on a pedestal with thirteen sides, representing the number of original states. In 1895 it was carried to Chicago for the World's fair, and in many cities through which it was carried it was greeted with special demonstrations, and has since been specially exhibited in other cities."

Philadelphia has not abated its love for the old bell, despite Mr. Jackson's assertions. San Francisco wants the bell as an exhibit for the Panama-Pacific exposition, but many Philadelphians oppose the removal of the relic to the Pacific coast, asserting that the crack in the metal is growing wider and longer and that transportation would inevitably harm the bell.

LA PORTE FOUND MONEY

Lowell Man Rewarded For Detective Skill

The great search for the $50 is over and the successful rival of Sherlock Holmes was Nelson A. La Porte, who resides on Marshall street. Mr. La Porte, whose eye is as an X-ray, and whose vision is so keen that he can see around a corner, told the eventful story of his successful search last evening in the office of the Opera House.

Two weeks ago this amateur sleuth came to this city in search of employment and it is evident that at that time he did not possess a full realization of his marvelous talents of detection. Monday night he went to the Kasino dance hall and waited for The Sun reporter with the money order. That time he was fooled and yesterday afternoon shortly before five o'clock he saw a paper with a tip as to the place of concealment and began his search of Central street. He went over the grounds once and then telephoned in to the Sun office and asked if the money had been found. He was told that it had not and immediately Mr. La Porte expressed his strong opinion that the whole thing was a fake. He was advised to look again and he did, with the result that after a thorough examination of all the sewers, cigaret boxes and signs on the street from Power's corner to Merrimack street, and finally reaching up over the barber shop sign of Joe Haley in the door of the Central block he located the reward.

The lucky one lost no time in getting to The Sun office to impart the glad news and was congratulated on his success. He said that he was dead broke and that the fifty came as a godsend.

Last night at the performance of "The Million" the young man was presented the fifty dollars by a member of the company, who spoke in behalf of the management.

A BIG VICTORY FOR WILSON

He Succeeded in Defeating Ex-United States Senator Smith in the Primaries

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 25.—That Gov. Wilson won a sweeping victory in the New Jersey primaries yesterday was evident from the returns which sifted into democratic headquarters here during the early hours today. In his fight to prevent the nomination for United States senator of former Senator James Smith, Jr., Gov. Wilson carried the state by a plurality of about 20,000, winning in every county except Essex, the stronghold of the Smith forces. Returns from 611 of the 1709 districts in the state gave Rep. William Hughes, the Wilson candidate, 17,020 votes to 11,751 for Smith.

Even Essex county, which includes the city of Newark did not pile up for Mr. Smith the overwhelming vote which he had expected to receive from his neighbors. With a few districts missing the vote in Essex showed Smith only about 4000 ahead of his opponent. On the other side was Hudson county with an indicated Hughes plurality of 8000 and 20 other counties with Hughes pluralities of from 200 to 1600 each. Judge Hughes issued the following statement:

"The vote is an absolute expression of the people of New Jersey in favor of the policies of Governor Wilson. On this basis I submitted my candidacy to the people of New Jersey and they supported me admirably. The victory of Mr. Wilson seems now assured at the November election."

It is believed that practically all the Wilson candidates for nomination throughout the state outside of Essex county were successful. All told each party selected 12 candidates for congress, 66 candidates for the state legislature and many local officials. The vote was light all over the state although leaders declared this was due largely to inclement weather.

On the republican side the primaries were uneventful. Senator Frank O. Briggs receiving an uncontested endorsement.

The progressives did not figure in the voting excepting Hudson county, where they defeated the regular organization and nominated their candidates for congress. In other sections of the state they will nominate their candidates by petition.

Mr. Dunigan showed considerable strength in the towns, but was the low man in the city. Mr. Draper carried the district by a safe plurality. In the seventh district Representative Edward Fisher had no opposition.

The Representative Contests

In the 14th district Michael H. Brady defeated Robert F. Conroy by 196 votes. In this district it was significant that Representative Otis Butler received a light vote, while a progressive candidate is in the field. Ward 2, the 15th district, adhered to its time-honored custom of giving a representative two terms and nominated ex-Representative Dennis Murphy in a field of five, receiving more votes than any two of his opponents. Rep. Kearns, the second man, received 198, while Mr. Murphy polled 315. There was much interest in this contest and not a little betting. In the 16th district Rep. Eugene Toomey was renominated by the handsome vote of 805, his nearest competitor, John J. O'Connell, receiving 516.

The 17th and 18th districts were without representative contests, while in the 19th district, Rep. Cuff defeated Thomas Sheridan of North Billerica by a vote of 396 to 225. North Billerica gave Mr. Sheridan a flattering vote. The surprise in this district, however, was furnished by the republicans in a three-cornered representative contest. The wise ones picked Selectman F. A. D. Singhi as the winner. Rev. C. H. Williams showed remarkable strength in ward nine and carried the district by a total vote of 394, against 218 for Mr. Singhi and 217 for Mr. Buck. The last named carried Billerica, but in ward nine Rev. Mr. Williams received 206, against 111 for Singhi and 88 for Buck.

DOMINICAN GOVERNMENT

Not Strong Enough to Suppress Revolution

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The Dominican government is not strong enough to suppress the revolution while the rebels do not possess sufficient power to overthrow the government, so that the outlook is very bad, according to mail advices received from San Domingo today. Intervention from outside is looked for in many quarters which desire a change in this unsatisfactory state of affairs. The opinion is frequently expressed that a provisional government should be appointed and elections held under the efficient control of a third party and the republic would be placed in a position which would lead to prosperity.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT

Is in a Position of Embarrassment

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The state department is said to find itself today in a position of eminent embarrassment because of its obligations to demand from Cuba the monthly instalment of $100,000 on the cost of Havana sewer and paving work. This demand has been voiced by Charge Gibson at Havana. The government has had much trouble in getting money to meet these payments which the state department feels it must collect to protect American contractors and carry out obligations specifically imposed by the treaty.

With internal resources almost exhausted, the Cuban government is in a dilemma. It either must reduce the civil establishment by about 50 per cent. in the interest of economy or secure the consent of the United States to another foreign loan. In the first case, the Gomez government might fear results upon the coming election. In the second, the American government is almost certain to refuse to approve of a new loan without safeguards for its disbursement.

The shrewd Latter Day Saints, or Mormons, of Utah early recognized the value of alfalfa. It is believed that Brigham Young had this plant in mind when he advised his people to let the gentiles engage in the rush for gold, while the "chosen people" devoted their attention to the more profitable field.

TAMMANY BOSS MURPHY

Says He Will Stick by Gov. Dix

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—In an interview here yesterday, Chas. F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, said:

"As a delegate, I intend to vote for the man who is most entitled to the nomination—Governor Dix. I see no reason why the governor, on the record he has made, should not be renominated."

Questioned as to why Senator O'Gorman had not been named as a delegate to the state convention at Syracuse, Mr. Murphy said:

"I have nothing to do with the selection of delegates. That is in charge of the assembly district leaders. I regard Senator O'Gorman as a loyal and consistent democrat and see no reason why he should not go to Syracuse."

"The published statements to the effect that I bore a message yesterday from Gov. Wilson to the committee on the New York situation is wholly erroneous," said Acting Chairman McAdoo. "As a matter of fact, the New York situation was not mentioned at the conference of the campaign committee yesterday."

COLUMBUS DAY

Lowell Council, Knights of Columbus Making Preparations For the Observance

Preparations are in progress for the observance of Columbus day by the local council, Knights of Columbus, and a committee of 25 members is at present engaged in making the necessary arrangements.

It is possible that, owing to the large celebration which is to take place in Boston on October 12, the local council of the Knights of Columbus may hold their observance on Sunday. No definite program has yet been published but the festivities will probably open with a high mass in St. Peter's church in the morning and a speaker will be engaged for this. In the evening a banquet is expected to wind up the celebration but nothing definite has been decided in this regard.

The chairman committee of arrangements at the last meeting appointed sub-committees to take care of the different divisions of the work, such as printing, catering, etc. They will hold another meeting immediately before the gathering of the local council in their rooms next Thursday evening and at this a program will be prepared for the consideration of the members.

MAJOR FRANK MCNEELEY

Murdered and Robbed Say Friends

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Major Frank McNeeley of this city, assistant adjutant-general of the Third brigade, N. Y. N. G., who was found dead in a lodging-house in Boston last Thursday, was killed and robbed, is the belief of relatives and friends. An investigation will be begun immediately. Members of the family say that when Major McNeeley left Albany last Wednesday he carried considerable money and some jewelry. When his body was found, relatives say, there was but ten cents in the pockets and a valuable gold watch and diamond scarf pin were missing. Friends assert that a deep gash on the back of the major's head and an abrasion over his right eye indicate foul play.

COL. ROOSEVELT

Says That He Feels As if He Has Been in a Crusade—Hears Good Reports of Progressive Party

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 25.—"I feel as if I have been in a crusade," said Col. Roosevelt today.

Coming into the old south with his trip through the west at an end, he said he felt that he had been well repaid for his western campaign.

He said that he had heard good reports of the progressive party in the south.

At the bottom, Col. Roosevelt continued, the progressive movement was a religious one. He said that one of the things which had impressed him most was the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldier," at meetings which he has addressed.

"It is pretty hard to improve on the Bible," he said. "All we are trying to do in this 20th century is to apply the only injunction to do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Col. Roosevelt reached Little Rock after a night's run from McAllester, Okla. He was to spend most of the day here, leaving late this afternoon for Memphis.

Jaw Dislocated

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Sept. 25.—When Mrs. John Palmer Dewey "yawned" she dislocated her jaw. A physician was called and reduced the fracture.

Mrs. Palmer said she felt better and the physician departed. He had not gone more than 100 yards from the house when Mrs. Palmer yawned a second time.

The physician was hailed, and, upon returning, found the woman's jaw dislocated again. It was reset, and, fearing the woman would yawn again, the physician remained in the house.

The mysterious disappearance of the priceless picture from the Louvre museum in Paris caused a world-wide agitation in August last year. Search for it has since been made in every country but without success.

Mild and Enjoyable, Cool and Soothing—That is Tuxedo.

Roy McCardell, former editor of Puck, famous humorist and journalist, says:

"It's a great pleasure to recommend a good tobacco, and Tuxedo is the best tobacco I ever smoked. A great favorite with newspaper men."

Roy L. McCardell

If you are a Tuxedo smoker you understand why famous men in every walk of life smoke Tuxedo—because it is the one pipe-tobacco that affords complete enjoyment and satisfaction. Tuxedo cannot sting, bite or irritate the delicate membranes of the mouth or throat—as every Tuxedo smoker knows.

Tuxedo

The Perfect Pipe Tobacco

Eddy Foy, the famous comedian, now starring in "Over the River," says:

"I stand firm for Tuxedo. It's so soothing and comforting it would change the disposition of a chronic grouch."

Eddie Foy

Only the mild, tender, lower leaves of Burley tobacco are used in Tuxedo. Under the famous "Tuxedo process," this high-grade tobacco is made to burn slowly, and the result is a cool, healthful, enjoyable pipe-smoke that soothes and rests, and refreshes the tired business or professional man.

Tuxedo Tobacco is widely imitated, but no other manufacturer has succeeded in discovering the "Tuxedo process." Your first pipeful of Tuxedo will prove this statement.

RED SOX DIVIDE WITH NEW YORK

In Double Header—Capt. Wagner Gets Loving Cup and Bedient Gold Horseshoe

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The Red Sox won and lost in a double header with the New York Highlanders yesterday. New York won the first game, 5 to 2; Boston won the second 3 to 1, scoring two runs in the eighth inning, after which the game was called on account of darkness. O'Brien and Caldwell had pitched through a duel until the second game was decided in Boston's favor, largely on doubles by Hendriksen and Lewis. Bedient was hit hard by the Highlanders in the early innings of the first game, while Boston could not punch hits off McConnell. Captain Wagner was presented a loving cup two feet high and Bedient was given a gold horseshoe in the first game. Each struck out immediately after. The scores:

DIAMOND NOTES

Joe Jackson has taken second place in the batting averages away from Tris Speaker.

Last week was a lean period for Ty Cobb. In all that time he called only three safe hits.

The Moose Jaw team won a pennant last year, but this would be a more appropriate year for that town to win.

It has been voted that Jake Stahl is the greatest person in Boston, but he won't be if Percy Wendell makes a touchdown against Yale.

The Red Sox are 45½ games ahead of the Highlanders, and the Hub is said to be willing to bet 10 to 9 that the Highlanders don't win the world's series.

"There are grave fears," says Jimmy Isaminger, "that the smashed finger sustained by Larry Gardner of the Red Sox will prevent Bis being able to write an account of the world's series."

Inasmuch as several pitchers have been affected by the nervous strain of winning a lot of consecutive games, more than eleven successive innings of play will be barred after this but the players break down.

New, catcher of the Boston Nationals, speaks no English. Spanish is his tongue. One advantage of speaking Spanish is that you may call an umpire a cabeza gordo, and he won't know you mean fathead.

Hal Chase was in town yesterday on his way to Boston. "This Midkiff is a find," says Childe Harold, "and as for Keating, all he needs is experience. He is built on the lines of Jack Quinn, only bigger.

The Philadelphia protest, made in the game of September 5, when the Giants beat the Phillies 8 to 1, has been officially turned down by President Lynch. Magee was called out by Umpire Rigler for interfering with Wilson, and Fogel protested the decision.

STRUCK BY TRAIN

Man Lost a Leg and Passed Away Two Hours Later at the Franklin County Hospital

GREENFIELD, Sept. 25.—Edward P. Frary, aged 60, while on his way yesterday noon to his work as engineer at the Charles R. Field Manufacturing company plant on Power square, crossed the tracks of the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine at the Union station, and in getting out of the way of a train going east stepped in front of a train going west and was struck. He lost a leg and died two hours later at the Franklin County hospital. Mr. Frary was a native of Whately and made his home at 222 Main street. He is survived by a wife and a sister, Mrs. Fred White of Somerville.

Three of Boston Star Pitchers Are Expected to Mow Down Giants

PHOTOS BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Can the Red Sox stop the Giants in the world's series? This question the baseball fans are now asking. Local experts say yes. Jake Stahl has five rattling good tossers—Joe Wood, Ray Collins, "Buck" O'Brien, Bedient and Hall—any one of whom is likely to make McGraw's best stop live-ly. Wood is one of the most wonderful pitchers of the age. He is a speed marvel of the Walter Johnson type. Bedient is another fast ball pitcher, and a dandy, too. Hall is a good curve manipulator. "Bucky" O'Brien, who has just rounded into effectiveness for the first time this season, is one of the greatest spitball flingers in the league. Ray Collins is a southpaw and a crackerjack, too.

REDMOND WAS BEATEN

He Was No Match for "Jack" Britton

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Jack Britton of Chicago outpointed Jack Redmond of Milwaukee in a 10-round bout that went the limit at the New Star A. C. last night. It was a one-sided battle, Redmond being on the receiving end throughout.

Redmond landed but one good blow, a left swing, on the Chicagoan's chin in the eighth that staggered Britton. Britton hammered Redmond severely puffing his eyes and knocking him down in the seventh session.

Young Sammy Smith of Philadelphia stopped Billy West, the local middleweight, in the last round. Smith had the better of the milling all through the early rounds. In the 10th, just before the bell, Smith hooked a hard right to West's chin that knocked him flat. He arose so weak and helpless that Referee Haley stopped the bout.

Walter Moore of Brooklyn earned the verdict over Artie Edwards in a 10-round bout.

Bout Lasts 10 Seconds

NEWBURYPORT, Sept. 25.—The first smoker of the season was held by the Newburyport Athletic club last night. The main bout between Charles Silverig and Joe Kennard of Lynn lasted only 10 seconds, Silverio putting Kennard out. Ah Chung of Salem met Joe Grimm and were scheduled to go six rounds. In the fourth, Ah Chung received a broken nose, putting an end to the match. Young Lebru of Beverly and Young Knockout Brown of Haverhill boxed six rounds to a draw. Teddy Rooney of Fall River and Young Lore of Lawrence boxed four rounds, the decision being in favor of Lore.

SHE COMMITTED SUICIDE

Woman Ended Her Life in Her Home

HUDSON, Sept. 25.—Rose A. Desautels, 24 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Desautels, committed suicide by hanging at her home, 11 Russell street yesterday. She was alone in the house at the time, her parents having gone to attend a funeral at Springfield and the rest of the family were at work. She suffered from nervous prostration several months, and last spring went to Canada to rest. She returned to Hudson in June, apparently in good health.

Her sister, Miss Delia Desautels, left her place of business about 12, and going home, found Rose in the cellar. The sisters spent a few moments together, after which Delia returned to the store. She went back home for dinner soon after 1 and failing to get an answer to calls for Rose, went downstairs and found her sister hanging from a beam. A washtub was placed on the floor and a child's sled upon it, and standing upon these, the girl adjusted the rope and jumped.

Dr. N. M. Hunter, Dr. John F. McGrath, assistant medical examiner, and Chief Magority were called. Dr. McGrath said the girl was dead some hours.

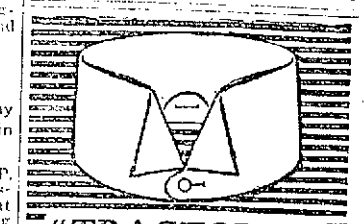

Miss Desautels was well liked by all who knew her. Previously to coming to Hudson she was a resident of Rockland, where she was a music teacher and organist in one of the churches. Her condition was brought on by over study. She leaves her parents, two sisters in Hudson, Misses Delia and Marie Desaultels, and two brothers, William and Edmund.

Anti-Trust Law

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. Sept. 25.—Sec. Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor, was the only speaker at a banquet of the board of trade at the Congress Square hotel last evening. Capt. Walter De C. Moore presided.

He said among other things that he did not believe in a technical construction of the Anti-trust law. He felt that the country has allowed individual states to assume powers that belong to the general government. He made strong appeal for the merchant marine.

THE MANHATTAN TEAM

One of the Best Ever Organized in Lowell

The baseball season is all over and the Manhattans are now the logical champions of the city, winning the title by defeating all comers in some of the best games played this season. The winning of the title, and also the the great amount of the long green captured by the admirers of the team, is the cause of great jubilation in the south section of the city.

While the team that gave the Manhattans the title and the monetary gains played under the name of the South Ends, the Manhattans are the real representatives of the South End. The club house of the Manhattans is located in Gorham street, opposite Blossom, the heart of the south end while the South End teams hails from the vicinity of the post office and the South common.

A meeting was held last evening, and all the business of the team completed with the exception of the calling in of the suits. The latter are the property of the club and will be held until next season. The team was formed at the opening of the season by Leo Crowley, who resigned and the reins were taken by Albert Ohlson, while Paul Clark was chosen captain. The acquisition of Mr. Clark was the real reason for the great spurt that the team took. Capt. Clark took charge of the team on the diamond, while Manager Ohlson looked after the business end. Both worked together and the remarkable record made by the team since they took charge reflects great credit on the magnates. Mr. Crowley, however, who after resigning as manager, took the position of trainer and he, too, is entitled to much praise.

Captain Clark did the catching during the entire season, and his work, on the diamond was one of the bright features of the team. He directed his men in a most satisfactory way, and played a very brilliant game himself, especially so in the pinches.

Peter Condor on the mound was a tower of strength to the team. He pitched wonderful ball as his work in the two recent games demonstrates. Two weeks ago he pitched against the C. M. A. C. team and allowed his opponents but one hit, this coming in the ninth inning, while last Saturday he allowed the South Ends with several professionals in the lineup but three hits. He was a great help to the team and his work was in a large measure responsible for the team winning the city championship.

Archie Ducharme at first base, played his position in a very clever manner, his clever pickups and stops saving his teammates many errors. At the bat he was generally there with a single and his work did considerable to bring the team out on the top of the city ladder.

Jimmy Grant of Y. M. C. A. fame played a very steady game at shortstop, covering a lot of ground and digging 'em out of the ground with great agility. His fine stops and quick and accurate throws nailed many of his opponents at first in a manner that brought the Manhattan rooters to their feet and made some of the local players look like past numbers. Jimmy also was a very good man at the bat, and was especially strong in running bases.

Cushman at second was a very good middle man, covering his position cleverly, and aided greatly in bringing the championship to his team. His quick turns and throws on double plays were responsible many times in putting their opponents out of the running.

Billie Marcotte on third, completed the infield machinery being one of the most important cogs in the lineup. He played the hot corner like a veteran and was particularly strong in getting runners coming into his station. He was a good thrower and knocked down many bangs that looked like sure ones when they left the bats.

The outfield was, without doubt, the best that ever was brought together for a local team. Farrell, in left, Buckley in center and White in right is a trio that cannot be beaten. All are fast fielders, good hitters and clever base runners. All certainly did a great deal to land the title and the bacon.

The following who played on the team during the season, but were not in the big game Saturday are entitled to commendation for their assistance in winning so many games and a chance at the title: Sharkey, Desmond, Harris, Grimwood and O'Brien.

JOE PATCHEN II WINS AGAIN

He Scored Straight Heat Victory in the Hartman at Columbus Yesterday

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25.—Big fields but straight heat racing featured the opening of the two weeks' Grand Circuit meeting at the Driving Park here yesterday.

It was a day on which the pacers were featured strictly, the $5000 Hartman stake for 2.13 pacers and a $3000 event for the 2.07 class being carded.

Joe Patchen II made his record for the season stand 11 victories out of an even dozen starts by landing the Hartman event very easily, while Braden Direct had just as easy a time in taking first money in the event of lesser value.

Both of these were favorites, but in the 2.10 trot Echomore, the first choice, failed to make good, Eva Cord, driven by her millionaire owner, Frank G. Jones, showing the field the way to the wire in three straight heats.

The track was in very bad condition when the racing started, but became fast before the close of the day's sport.

Joe Patchen II was a $50 to $10 favorite over the field for the Hartman stake, while the local four-year-old Wydrad had the call in the pooling, with the "Big Train" barred. Wydrad made a strong bid in the first heat and was only beaten a length, but broke in the second, in which Grand Opera secured the place. In the final Wydrad made the Patchen horse step in 2.04½ to beat him. It was the sixth $5000 stake which Joe Patchen II has won this season, three of them within two weeks.

Eva Cord Was the Real Trotter

Braden Direct, the world's champion 4-year-old, which the critics have all picked as the most likely of the stake pacers to take the measure of Joe Patchen II, was favorite for the 2.07 stake, selling at $25 against $11 for Knight Onwardo and $10 for the field. Like the Hartman stake winner, he took the lead from the start and gave it up but once during the race, Judge Ward leading him for a short distance in the final heat.

In the first two rounds Longworth B from the Murphy stable was his chief opponent, but in the final Nat Ray got his ill-tempered pony Knight Onwardo going right and finished a close second to the colt driven in 2.04½, the fastest heat of the race.

The winner and Joe Patchen II are both named to start in the Tennessee stake during the first week of the Lexington meeting.

Two trotters owned by Frank G. Jones started in the 2.10 trot, the owner having the mount behind Eva Cord and "Pop" Geers teaming Pee Wee. The mare was the real trotter and won in straight heats, while the red flag was the portion of Pee Wee in the second heat.

Newzell, Derby Boy and Marigold took turns in chasing Eva Cord, but she had something on all of them and won handily, traveling two of the heats better than 2.10. The favorite, Echomore, was not a serious factor at any time.

Fourteen pacers, the majority of them half-mile track campaigners, making their debut on the Grand Circuit, scored in the 2.15 class, this being the largest field of the season in the big ring. The Iowa mare, Bessie Bee, who has been winning consistently during the past few weeks, was first choice in the auction, but second in the second heat was the best she could do. Carna G winning the two heats, after which the race was postponed until today.

Big Race Today

The feature of the racing today is the $10,000 Hoster-Columbus stake for 2.14 trotters in which Baden, leading money winner of the season will meet Esther W., Dorsh Medium, Ruth McGregor, Dave Halle, Annie Kohl, The Wanderer and others of the stake brigade.

The Horse Review Futurity for 3-year-old pacers will also be raced. Anna Axmo, winner of the Horseman and Horse Breeders' stake, is named to start, but she will probably be protested as her winnings of last week have been tied up on the grounds that she is a four-year-old. The summary:

Bishop at Centenary

GREENFIELD, Sept. 25.—The centenary of St. James' Episcopal church was observed yesterday with services in the church by Bishop Thomas F. Davies, assisted by Rev. John B. Whitmon, rector, and Rev. Robert Keating Smith of Westfield. Rev. Charles E. Hill of Springfield and Rev. Frank Wheelock of Easthampton were in the chancel. The topic of Bishop Davies' sermon was "What the Home Church Means to Us."

Luncheon was served in the parish hall to more than 150 people. Afterward Bishop Davies spoke again. Rev. Mr. Whitman read letters of congratulation. There were addresses by Rev. James Goodwin of Hartford, Rev. Donald Alexander of Springfield, Charles H. Field of Chicago, formerly a member of the church; Capt. George Pierce, town clerk, and Samuel D. Conant, representing the vestry. Capt. Pierce is the oldest living member of the church and gave reminiscences of Dr. Titus Strong, the first rector.

VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY

Ordered by Court in the Cummings Case

BOSTON, Sept. 25—A verdict of not guilty was ordered by Judge Chase in the case of Charles S. Cummings, former Boston broker, charged with the larceny of $4265.45 from the Hollisten Savings bank at Hollisten, in the superior criminal court, East Cambridge yesterday afternoon. Cummings is now serving a term of from five to eight years in state prison, in connection with town of Framingham cases, in which former Town Treasurer John B. Lombard is serving a sentence of from ten to fifteen years. Cummings was sentenced in January, 1910.

Cummings was brought to court from the prison. According to the testimony of the government, which was represented by Assistant District Attorney Weir, Cummings sold the Hollisten bank, on Sept 16, 1909, a number of city of Lynn bonds, receiving in payment a check, and agreeing to deliver the bonds as soon as he could reasonably do so after having the bonds registered in the bank's favor. It was claimed that although the bank made many requests for the bonds they were never delivered.

Cummings, on the stand, declared that he would have delivered the bonds as agreed, had he not been prevented from doing so by his arrest in connection with the Framingham cases, and further that he had deposited at the Hollisten bank at the time, collateral sufficient to cover the amount of the loan.

After Cashier Phipps of the bank testified that no definite time was set for the delivering of the bonds, Attorney Richardson, representing Cummings, made a second request to have the case taken from the jury.

Judge Chase stated that if any larceny had been committed, it was committed in Suffolk county and not Middlesex, and he therefore ordered the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

HORSE INJURED

Animal Took a Bad Toss at the Corner of Moody and Aiken Streets—Several Men Assisted Driver

A horse owned by Patrick J. Reynolds, took a bad toss at the corner of Moody and Aiken streets this forenoon, but fortunately the animal only suffered slight injuries. The horse hitched to a democrat wagon was being driven along Moody street at a fair rate of speed and when it reached the corner of Aiken street it slipped on the wet pavement and went to the ground. Several men rushed to the driver's assistance and soon had the horse on its feet again. It suffered a bad wound on the left front leg.

The Lamson Company Kept Busy Filling Orders From All Sections of the Country

THE LAMSON CO.'S PLANT

The three hundred employes of the Lamson company on Walker street are rushing at the present time and business at that place is better than ever. For the past month many of the employes have been working until 9.30 every night with the exception of Saturday, and the indications are that the overtime work will be continued for some time.

Orders are being filled for all sections of the country and during the short time that a representative of The Sun was at the plant this morning, two large contracts were received. One came from Los Angeles, California, and the other from Newark, N. J. Both called for an enormous amount of work to be filled in a short time. The orders were immediately sent to the proper authorities and work on them was at once started.

So large has the business increased in the last few months, that the new building which was but recently erected is now packed with material. An addition is being made to the foundry, which when completed will slightly relieve the crowded conditions there. The addition will be 15x100 feet and will be made of wood and glass, a large number of windows and skylights being

COUPLE ELOPED

They Are Over Age, However, and Have a Marriage Certificate But Will Have to Wait Five Days

LAWRENCE, Sept. 25.—Last Monday a young couple presented themselves at the city clerk's office and made application for a marriage license. They gave their address as Biddeford, Me., and complied satisfactorily with all the requirements. Yesterday morning the local authorities received inquiries from Biddeford regarding the couple. The girl, Ida Conway, is said to be the daughter of a prominent family in Biddeford, and is reported to have eloped with Ralph Dorsicane, a clerk.

As both of the young people are over age the police can do nothing. Since five days must elapse between the issuing of the application and the marriage license and since the irate parents of the girl have announced their intention of coming to Lawrence immediately, the prospective bride and groom will have to keep in hiding until Saturday, when they may obtain the license.

Deep Waterways Association

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 25.—Issues of the political campaign were temporarily laid aside by Theodore Roosevelt today when he spoke here before the convention of the Lakes-to-the Gulf Deep Waterways association.

There was no hint of partisan politics in Little Rock's reception of Colonel Roosevelt. Democratic officials joined with the progressives in the welcome. On Colonel Roosevelt's arrival he was driven through the city, escorted by a band, three companies of United States troops from Fort Logan Heights and a number of citizens in automobiles. Then he went to his hotel and had a reception of an hour. Long before the colonel reached the Auditorium, where he was to talk, it was crowded and the former president was cheered for several minutes when he appeared on the platform. His address was devoted in the main to the subject of deep waterways although he referred to some of the broader issues of his campaign.

Dr. J. M. Gray's Statement

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Dr. J. M. Gray of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago today asserted that the address of the Federal evangelistic conference here had been misquoted wholly as a result of a letter which he had read.

"I have been charged with saying that evangelism in the United States had degenerated into commercialism and professionalism" said Dr. Gray. "What I actually said was that there is a class of an evangelist which was developed by other conditions."

Some of the division changes have already been received by the agents, but the one known as the western division which includes Lowell has not as yet been given out.

GIRL KILLED BY AUTO

She Ran in Front of Car in Chelsea

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Five-year-old Helen Clark, of 755 Broadway, Chelsea, was instantly killed yesterday noon, at the corner of Parker street and Broadway, a short distance from her home, by an automobile driven by Albert Mitchell, a chauffeur for Nathan Eiseman of 629 Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

The child ran out from behind a coal wagon directly in the path of the car, and she was under the machine before the chauffeur had a chance to stop it. Mitchell jumped out and took the child in the automobile to the office of Dr. J. J. McPhail, on Broadway, but she was pronounced dead upon her arrival there.

In the automobile at the time of the accident were Mrs. Nathan Eiseman and her daughter, Mrs. Sidney Bernheim.

Mitchell, who is 21 years old and resides at 10 Dundee street, Boston, was arrested charged with manslaughter. He wept bitterly at the police station. He was bailed in $2000 bonds by Mr. Eiseman.

Voted Against Taft

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 25.—A lively session of the republican state convention was in prospect today. Last night the committee on platform and resolutions, by a vote of 11 to 7, defeated a resolution endorsing the Taft administration and pledging the convention to the nimination of Taft electors. This prevented the resolution being brought before the convention and compelled the Taft supporters to hinge their fight on the platform or directly on the nomination of presidential electors.

GAGNON ORDERED TO PAY $50 FINE

He Was Charged With Illegal Keeping and Illegal Sale of Intoxicating Liquors

Alfred Gagnon, who claims to be a vendor of wines, acting as an agent for a Lawrence concern, was arraigned before Judge Enright in police court this morning on complaints charging him with the illegal keeping and sale of intoxicating liquors. He entered a plea of not guilty, but the court found him guilty on the charge of sale, but not guilty of illegal keeping. A fine of $50 was imposed.

Sergt. Alexander Duncan testified, stating that on Sept. 14, he saw the defendant pass through Suffolk street with a dress suit case. When the man reached the entrance to the Tremont & Suffolk mills the witness said he saw the defendant pass a bottle to a man.

During the course of the testimony offered it was brought out that the bottle was passed to Special Officer Regis of the Tremont & Suffolk, who was assisting the police in apprehending the man. William H. Grady, liquor inspector, corroborated the testimony offered by Sergt. Duncan.

The defendant, who was represented by Henry V. Charbonneau, testified that he took orders for wine and was in the employ of Napoleon Guilmette of Lawrence. He claimed that on the seventh of September, he received an order to deliver wine to a man at the entrance to the Tremont & Suffolk mills and admitted that he passed the bottle of wine to Mr. Regis.

The arresting officers, Sergt. Duncan and Inspector Grady, testified that when they placed the man under arrest they found two quart bottles and six half pint bottles of liquor in his possession.

Assault and Battery

Vassilios Kallas, charged with assault and battery on Cornelius B. O'Leary in Allen's box shop, on Sept. 18, was called to trial and although the case proved to be a rather long drawn out affair at the conclusion of the hearing of the testimony Judge Enright found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $6.

It was testified that the defendant requested or ordered the complainant to do certain work and the boy refused ot do so and thereupon the defendant slapped him in the face.

Drunken Offenders

Cornelius Sullivan, charged with being drunk, was ordered to pay a fine of $6. Two first offenders were fined $2 each and several first offenders were released before the opening of the court.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

With a fine cast the four act farce comedy entitled "The Million" which has been delighting theatregoers all over the east won the generous applause of a large audience at the Opera House last night. The piece is brimful of funny and complicated situations which develop out of the search for a winning lottery ticket. The ticket is the winner of $500,000 and is placed in the pocket of a blue blouse. The latter is used as a disguise by a crook who leaves it in a second hand clothing store. The chase for this blouse is the feature on which the plot hinges.

The cast is a first class one and played the piece to perfection. The representation of a palm garden in the last act was especially realistic. The play was full of action, and was a good portrayal of the life of students in the Latin quarter, and that accounts for the hint of roughness which was apparent in places.

Taylor Holmes who took the part of "Lionel Waign," a young medical student with a "compartment" furnished the best comedy that has been seen in Lowell for some time. His every move and word provoked laughter for he is evidently a born comedian and remarkably adapted to a part such as he carried in the piece last night. Edwin Forsberg as "Frank Porter, a noted crook known as the Baron was also especially good and his interpretation of the several parts called for by his disguises in the chase was enthusiastically applauded. Paul Ker, who played the part of an Italian tenor, rendered in a very pleasing manner a song composed by the great Caruso himself, the title of which is "Dreams Of Long Ago." Ker is a good comedian.

"The Million" caste has the real idea of first class comedy and the memory of the performance of last night will linger long with all who were fortunate enough to witness it.

PAUL MARCEL CO.

Paul Marcel and his French dramatic company newly landed from Paris will be seen at the Opera House next Thursday, Sept. 26 for one night. Paul Marcel is an artist of rare attainments as all can vouch who have seen him perform.

"THE COMMON LAW"

Next Saturday, matinee and night, at the Opera House will be presented "The Common Law," a dramatization of the celebrated novel of that name by Robert W. Chambers.

CHRISTIE MACDONALD

According to Miss Christie MacDonald, the fascinating little star of the Viennese masterpiece, "The Spring Maid," which will be seen at the Opera House next Friday evening, grace culture plays a very important part in the training of every woman who has aspirations towards the realms of stardom.

SUNDAY CONCERT

Another big program of vaudeville and pictures will be offered at the Opera House next Sunday afternoon and evening.

Merrimack Square Theatre

Heading an all feature five act bill at the Merrimack Square theatre this week are Miss Marie Horton and players in "The Price Paid." The other four offerings are perhaps none the less pleasing and afford all great enjoyment. The Irish comedy act by Casey and Knowlin is making a great hit. The pictures for the first of the week are also good and contain much which amuses. Performances are continuous from 1 to 10.30. You are never too late.

The Playhouse

The presentation of "The Lion and the Mouse," by The Drama Players, is winning many new admirers at the Playhouse at each succeeding performance, a fact that is not at all surprising when one considers the quality of the entertainment. For the week of Sept. 30, the offering is to be Paul Kester's great costume play, "When Knighthood Was In Flower," a piece in which Julia Marlowe was starred in for two full seasons. Miss Constance Jackson will be seen in the leading character role and she will be surrounded by a large and capable cast, including J. Anthony Smythe and others.

Keith's Theatre

Funny Eddie Ross, who is exhausting his fund of stories at the B. F. Keith theatre this week, is one of the very best blackface comedians in the country. His banjo is positively unique and his whistling is something to marvel at. Gordon Eldrid & Co. in "Won By a Leg," has a real comedy, while the Bernevicci Bros., Italian gondolier violinists, please immensely with their "Night In Venice." The other acts include: LaRey & LaRex, aerialists; Ed. Estus, equilibrist; the Three Brownies, roller skate dancers; Loretta and Budd in a series of poses and Goodall & Lester in "3 P. M." Phone 28.

YOU'RE BILIOUS! YOUR LIVER AND BOWELS ARE INACTIVE—"CASCARETS"

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and constipated bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel cheerful and bully for months.

Don't forget your children—their little insides need a good, gentle, cleansing, too, occasionally.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS

Are Undecided as to Their Candidates

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Only two of the questions to be determined by the republican state convention that meets at noon were settled this morning and these were the names of the temporary and permanent chairmen.

The candidates and the platform remained to be discussed and it may not be until Friday, the day when the nominations are expected to be made that the ticket is determined.

The leaders made no effort to disguise this situation. In fact most of them called attention to it with pride as evidence that the convention was to be "unbossed" and that the delegates themselves would select their nominees. When the convention met it was expected to effect a temporary organization, name committees and then adjourn to let the committee on resolutions prepare the platform.

The alignment of leaders and delegates, nor any such formation could be said to exist, resolve itself first of all into two general camps although between these there was no distinct separation. Some believed that the paramount duty of the convention was to nominate a ticket and adopt a platform which should be most helpful to the national standard bearers. Others said they felt that while the national candidates, of course, should not be lost sight of the main lookout was to elect a republican governor.

William Barnes, jr., state chairman, received visits from various individual leaders last night but so far as could be learned failed to make known his choice for candidates, if he had any choice.

Christabel Pankhurst Continues to Work for Votes for Women

CHRISTABEL PANKHURST

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Miss Christabel Pankhurst, who has been in hiding for several months, has come out from retirement and is often seen in the streets here. She is writing for English publications and is also doing individual work here to advance the votes for women propaganda. After the window breaking in London last spring Miss Christabel escaped from the police, though her mother and many of her associates were arrested and imprisoned. Miss Christabel came to France and for several months remained in a village on the English channel within sight of England. She says now that she has no fear of the English authorities, as the offense with which she is charged is not extraditable, and she does not believe that the British government is eager for her to return to England even as a prisoner.

Lesson in Scientific Complexion Renewing

(From The Family Physician)

Everyone has a beautiful skin underneath the one exposed to view. Bear that in mind and it will be easier to understand the correct principle in acquiring a lovely complexion. Nature is constantly shedding the top skin in flaky particles like dandruff, only much smaller in size. In abnormal conditions, or in advancing age, these particles are not shed as rapidly as in robust youth. The longer they remain the more soiled or faded they become—that's the immediate cause of a "bad complexion."

It has been discovered that ordinary mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, will absorb these worn-out particles. The absorption, while hastening Nature's work, goes on gradually enough to cause no inconvenience. In a week or two the transformation is complete. The fresh, healthy-hued, youthful underskin is then wholly in evidence. You who are not satisfied with your complexions should get an ounce of mercolized wax and try this treatment. Use the wax nightly, like cold cream, washing it off mornings.

THE SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Hearing to Pawtucketville Residents on Friday Evening—Case of Miss Devereaux

At the regular meeting of the school board held last evening, the members voted unanimously to give a hearing in the board rooms on next Friday evening to the Pawtucketville people and others interested in the transfer of the the children from the Bartlett school to the Pawtucket school, and also to request the principals of both schools to be present at the hearing.

Though the meeting was announced for 8 o'clock it was 9.15 when Chairman Farrington called to order. All members were present. Committeeman McKenzie, who has been ill for some time, attending though in rather a weak condition. During the course of the meeting, Dr. O'Connor and Mr. Rogers had a little tilt, following the reading of a communication from Miss Devereaux. Both men rose to their feet and were engaged in a lively discussion, when Chairman Farrington dropped his gavel and instructed the members to address the chair.

After the reading of the secretary's report of the last meeting which was accepted, the first business was to fix the salary of Miss Alice T. Lee at $1000. Miss Lee holds the office of supervisor, being chosen at the meeting at which Miss Devereaux's office was abolished.

Supt. Molloy, secretary of the board, read a list of assignments of teachers and transfers of pupils and other matters which were approved by the board.

At this point Mr. Rogers, asked for information concerning the transference of pupils from the Colburn to the Moody school. He said that he inquired, to be enlightened, owing to the episode in another section of the city and wondered if those children had also been put back.

The superintendent and chairman explained that transfers made without the board's approval were illegal. Supt. Molloy said that he had no data on the matter but that in the course of time all such information will be on hand and that the matter will be adjusted all over the city.

Miss Foss of the Highland school was given leave of absence until February 1st, 1913. The leave of absence of Miss Snow of the Moody school was extended until November 1st.

Permission was given Mr. Green, principal of the Moody school, to conduct an entertainment in the school for the purpose of purchasing a victrola.

Mr. Molloy asked the board if he might be granted permission to omit names of the members making motions, saying that he intended to record the minutes complete, without the name of the maker. Dr. O'Connor said that he was in favor of having the name of the maker of every motion recorded, saying that a short time ago he criticized a certain gentleman for not doing so. He said that the records were for the public and that he thought all motions with the names of those who made them should appear on the secretary's books. Supt. Molloy then inquired for the makers of the motions during the evening, and this system will continue in vogue.

Supt. Molloy read a communication from Principal Purgin of the Normal school, stating that teachers' classes will be resumed in October, and on vote of the board on the superintendent's recommendation, the Lowell teachers will be permitted to leave their schools in time to attend the classes which will begin at 3.50 during the months of October, November, January and February.

Supt Molloy then recommended that the teachers be permitted to absent themselves from their duties to attend the annual teachers' convention of the Middlesex county and it was so voted.

The schedule of office hours arranged by the superintendent was adopted by the board and he was also voted permission on his request to utilize the board suite for classes, conferences, etc. He said that he expected to have occasion to use the rooms at different intervals and wanted to have the authority to do so.

Mr. Molloy recommended that special students be received at the High school on recommendation of the superintendent and the chairman of the High school committee, until the rules are revised to cover this point and it was so voted.

Evening Schools

October 14 was fixed as the date for the opening of the evening schools and the examination of the applicants for teachers in said schools will be held Saturday afternoon, Sept. 28. The latter examinations are for applicants who have not graduated from High school or a school of equal standing.

On the draft of one chapter submitted by Mr. Rogers, dealing with the duties of the superintendent, which Mr. Molloy wanted more clearly defined, Mr. Rogers requested a little time in which to talk matters over with the superintendent and members of the board, and his request was granted.

Pawtucketville Matter

A protest from Pawtucketville citizens criticizing the "action of the school board," and requesting a hearing, signed by W. T. S. Bartlett and others was read by the secretary. The latter said that there were several pages of signatures but as some were very difficult to read, he asked if it was the wish of the board that they be read. The reading was omitted. Dr. O'Connor moved that the letter be laid on the table, and Mr. McKenzie said that he would term the petition "very disrespectful to the members of the board."

Mr. Rogers: "May I ask that at this time the communication from the speaker be read to the board, so that I may speak upon both, as they deal with the same matter?"

Dr. O'Connor: "There is a motion on a petition from Mr. Bartlett and others. I would like that matter acted upon first."

Dr. O'Connor's motion was put and all voted yes, except Mr. Rogers.

Mr. Roger's letter was a request that the parents of the children in the Pawtucket school district be given a hearing. Dr. O'Connor moved that they be given a hearing next Friday evening, and it was so voted.

In talking of the petition, Mr. Rogers said that he did not want to interfere with the action of the Pawtucketville citizens and believed that despite the fact that two members of the committee who were present at a conference when the matter was brought up, said that the petition was not entitled to consideration, he thought differently and wished to make sure there should be no obstacle to the hearing.

Dr. O'Connor said that Mr. Rogers took a different attitude in the inference and said that he (Dr. O'Connor) was surprised when he read in the newspaper the next morning, an interview with Mr. Rogers, said to have taken place over the telephone, after the conference, but the doctor said that the interview was given at city hall.

Mr. Rogers jumped to his feet and said: "If Dr. O'Connor says that interview did not take place over the telephone he says what is not true." The motion was then voted on with all voting "yes."

Case of Miss Devereaux

New business was then called for and Mr. Rogers inquired about a letter he received from Miss Devereaux. He was informed by the chairman that the letter had been turned over to the superintendent. Mr. Rogers wanted to know what action the board proposed to take relative to Miss Devereaux's position.

The chairman said that the list of assignments had been read earlier in the evening by the superintendent, and Mr. Rogers said that he did not hear her name mentioned. The latter then asked that the letter be read. Mr. Molloy brought the letter from his office, which read as follows:

Lowell School Committee, Lowell Mass

Gentlemen:

I am in receipt of a notice dated September 7, which reads as follows:

"At a meeting of the school committee last night, the office of supervisor of kindergartens was abolished. A position as kindergartner was offered you."

Although your letter bears date two weeks ago, and although the full term of the schools began two full weeks ago, I have received no instructions as to what duties I was expected to undertake, or where I was to perform them. I therefore write to inform you that I am awaiting your further action.

Respectfully Yours,
Anna W. Devereaux.

Mr. Rogers inquired as to what the plans were for the future of Miss Devereaux and whether it is the opinion of the board that Miss Devereaux is still under salary.

Mr. Molloy said that the question existed before he took up the matter of assignments and, therefore, he did not consider the case. He said when the Lincoln kindergarten was abolished, Miss Cragin and Miss Roberts, teachers in that kindergarten, were provided for, Miss Roberts being sent to the Pine street school in place of Miss Livingstone who was a temporary teacher, and Miss Cragin being temporarily assigned to a primary school, that being the kind of work she desired. He recommended a certificate of the third grade to Miss Cragin. No motion was made of Miss Devereaux, he said. He would recommend, however, that if some other kindergarten teacher already in that service wished to take up primary work, Miss Devereaux be assigned to her place.

Mr. Rogers: "Do you conceive that Miss Devereaux is under pay of the city of Lowell?"

Mr. Molloy: "I cannot answer that question now. I do not know what was the intent of the information which she received."

Mr. Rogers: "In brief, you have no suggestion as to anything that can be done with or for Miss Devereaux?"

"Nothing specific in mind at this time," said Supt. Molloy.

Dr. O'Connor said that he asked both Miss Cragin and Miss Roberts, when their school was abolished, that they would be provided for, and that they were under pay.

Mr. Rogers: "Have you given Miss Devereaux any such assurance?"

Dr. O'Connor: "She never got any such assurance from me."

"Why not?" asked Mr. Rogers

"Because she never was a kindergarten teacher."

"What difference does that make?"

Both were on their feet making rapid exchanges of words when the chairman's gavel fell, and he requested that the members address the chair.

"Then, through the chair," said Mr. Rogers, "I would like to ask Dr. O'Connor why Miss Devereaux should be treated differently from the other two teachers."

Dr. O'Connor: "Miss Devereaux was deposed as a supervisor of kindergartens, and the board saw fit to hold her as a kindergartner. Nothing else was said, as the vote stands."

Mr. Rogers: "In your opinion, doctor, is Miss Devereaux under pay of the city?"

Dr. O'Connor: "In my opinion she is not under pay, and she will not be if I can stop her."

"I thought so," said Mr. Rogers.

Committeeman McKenzie announced the appointment to the Dutton street school, of Miss Agnes Burns, teacher of dressmaking, and Mr. John Gallagher, electrical department, to serve until regularly elected.

Dr. O'Connor moved that the superintendent be instructed to issue a notice through the press, that any citizen of Lowell be entitled to appear before the board to say why their children should or should not attend any particular school, at the Friday night meeting; and also that Messrs. Barry and Bixby, masters of the Pawtucketville and Bartlett schools, be requested to attend that hearing. It was so voted. Adjourned.

HARD TIMES

MEAT PRICES HIGHER

Prediction Made by Retail Dealers in Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Higher meat prices as soon as winter arrives, were predicted yesterday by retailers. Packers would not admit any certain figure, but all of them agreed that meat prices, which have advanced from 1 to 3 cents a pound in the last two days will go still higher.

Choice sirloins today were 28 cents. Pork chops, which two weeks ago were 22 cents, today are selling at 25 for the best. There is a small supply of "chuck" steaks at 12 to 14 cents, and lamb shoulders at 12 1-2 to 14 1-2, and the next cheapest meats were selling today at 16 to 14 cents a pound.

Added to the climb in meat prices, condensed milk dealers today announced that next week their product, which now sells at 10 cents, will move up to 11 cents.

The packers talk freely about the situation, each exacting a promise that his name is not to be used in any published articles. They see no relief. One of the administrative heads of Swift & Co. today said:

"People are making a mistake in thinking that the packers are arbitrarily axing the price of meats. Supply, which is small, and demand, which is strong, are forcing the prices up. It is true that if the tariff of $12 a car cush on imported cattle were removed, Argentine, Canada and Mexico would ship in large numbers of cattle, but removal of the tariff would demoralize the stock raising business in this country; growers would be discouraged and the supply next year would be shorter than it is this year."

Another representative of a large packing house said:

"The American people have learned to grin and bear a great deal. They will stand for the present high prices and the future higher ones."

Card of Thanks

The undersigned, wishing to show their appreciation for the many kindnesses, words of sympathy and floral offerings, tendered them during the final illness and at the time of the death of a devoted wife and beloved mother, Mrs. Julia A. McDougall, take this means of publicly expressing their heartfelt thanks to all their neighbors and friends, through whose thoughtfulness the burden of grief cast upon them was materially decreased.

(Signed) Mr. Albert McDougall and Family.

THE WORLD'S SERIES

Commission Arranging for the Games

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Members of the National commission with representatives of the Rex Sox and the Giants gathered here today to fix dates for the world's championship series to settle a dispute I question as to how and by whom the sales of tickets to the games shall be conducted, fix the price of seats, formally announce the eligible players and dispose of any other business having upon arrangements for the big games.

Although New York is still in need of two games to clinch the National League pennant the commission will proceed on the supposition that the Championship is assured and devote its main attention to arrangements for a world's series between New York and Boston. The schedule adopted, however, will be announced with a provision in deference to the Chicago Cubs, who have something like 1-900 to 1 chance of displacing the Giants.

After deciding on the dates, the commission will invite Presidents Brush and McAleer of the New York and Boston clubs to toss for the honor of starting the series in their cities. With the latter now the advantage of home supremacy for the first two games if the plans to stage two games in each city, instead of alternating each day, is carried out.

The desire of the commission to have supervision over the sale of the tickets and the fact that the American league has adopted resolutions refusing to be represented in a world series unless accorded sole charge of the sale of tickets to games played on its grounds, may result in a wrangle. It appeared, however, that the commission would let the two clubs handle the tickets as usual, but would assume close supervision.

The three members of the commission, Messrs. Herrmann, Lynch and Johnson and President McAleer and Secretary Mulloy of the Boston club, after gathering in the city planned to go to the home of John T. Brush, president of the New York club at Pelham Manor, a suburb, to hold a meeting there. It was said that no announcements would be made until late in the afternoon.

LARCENY IS CHARGED

Young Man Accused of Taking Horses

WORCESTER, Sept. 25.—Charged with being implicated in the theft of two horses and other property from a Foster street livery and sales stable, Harold White, aged 17, of this city, was arrested in Spencer yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Ramer and booked at the Worcester police station.

The specific charge is breaking, entering and larceny. The police allege that White is one of a party of three men who broke into the Foster street establishment and drove off with two horses.

According to the information received at the police headquarters, the trio drove to Rochdale and then to Spencer, where they were seen by Deputy Sheriff Ramer. The men were driving through the center of the town when Officer Ramer ordered them to stop. He collared White and another of the men. A tussle followed, resulting in Ramer losing his grip on one of the men. The third member of the trio was sitting in the body of the wagon and also escaped.

POLICEMAN WAS KILLED

Policeman George W. Freeman got a fatal shock when he put his key in the call box.

Policeman J. F. McCarthy, a few blocks away, was knocked unconscious, and House Sergeant Fox, who was receiving the calls at the station house, was hurled across the room.

The report showed a great gain in membership all over the state, more particularly in Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill. These three cities are fast coming to the front in membership. The next meeting will be held on Thursday evening, Oct. 10th.

ORIGIN OF WORD TARIFF

It Comes From Name of Town Tarift

The very word tariff is of unsavory origin. It came from the name of the town Tarift, on the Straits of Gibraltar, a strategic point where in ancient times the predatory Moors held up incoming and outgoing ships and levied tribute. In our day, the "tariff wall" has been used by the predatory interests to hold up and levy tribute on the American people. The tariff has been built up and perpetuated by the republican party under the specious guise of protection to American industries. The robbery of the ultimate consumer for years has been carried on under the cloak of protection.

For fifty years the American people have been enslaved and robbed by the interests under the false and misleading belief that "the foreigner pays the tariff tax; that without the protective tariff business manufacturing would not prosper nor wages be sustained." All three of these arguments are false in their very essence, and vicious in their application.

These political jugglers will show you how prosperous the country has been and then assert that it is due to the protective tariff. They never remind you of the great panics that have convulsed this country; they never tell you of the hard times that have cursed the workingmen time and again. They say that the working men of this country are the highest paid in the world because of the tariff; that the farmer is prosperous and thriving because of the tariff; that the business men have grown big because of the protective tariff. These lies have been so often and so loudly repeated that many people have come to believe that there is some truth in them.

William Jennings Bryan was once interrupted in the course of a public speech and asked: "Does not the protective tariff enable manufacturers to pay higher wages?" Mr. Bryan replied: "Yes, it enables them to pay higher wages, but it does not force them to do so, and so they never have done so."

The combination of free trade in the labor market and the high protective tariff on manufactured goods, is the ideal situation for the trusts and corporations. It puts the dollar above the man and enables the manufacturer to defraud both the laborer and the consumer. The American workingmen are the most efficient in the world. Figuring their output against the output of men in other countries the American wage scale is lower than that of England for instance.

The manufacturers have waxed fat under the tariff which in its original conception was designed to "protect industries," but they have not divided fairly with the workingmen who helped them grow.

There are no infant industries now that require protection. The proof of that statement lies in the fact that the steel trust, the harvester trust, the shoe trust and all the great trusts, including Standard Oil, are competing in the markets of the world and in many instances underselling the products of England and Germany, where we have been led to believe wages are low. They add the tariff to the legitimate profit of manufacture in this country, but abroad they are able to compete successfully with countries where there is no tariff. But one conclusion can be drawn from this fact and that is that the trusts do not need the protective tariff and are "gouging" the American people by so much as the difference between the price they accept abroad and the price they extort at home.

That the "protective tariff" has fostered trusts and monopoly which now threaten our very national existence, no one doubts who is honest with himself. The dragon's teeth of our national dissolution are already broadly and deeply sown, and as to whether an awakened people can prevent the logical harvest remains to be demonstrated. Certainly, this is no world for pessimists and quitters. One of the old parties has been extricated by one great soul from out the political slime of special interests, and it is that party that should receive the support of every sensible man of all parties, and thus turning the tide of public affairs sharply against the corrupt current that is heading this nation towards the rocks of centralization, the tombs of all the older republics.

"It takes a soul
To move a body; it takes a high-souled man
To move the masses even to a cleaner sky;
It takes the ideal to blow an inch inside
The dust of the actual."

This inspiring deed was recently done at Baltimore, and unless the ingratitude of republics is again to be exemplified, this high-souled man, Woodrow Wilson, will live to soon see the triumph at the polls of the eternal principles for which he has ever fought.

While history does not necessarily repeat itself there is quite a strong tendency in that direction. To item this old tide that has caught and hurled to utter destruction all the early democracies is by no means an easy task. In Woodrow Wilson the people have a truly great and truly wise leader, in whom never a symptom of eromania has ever been known. Altruism dominates his being and it is this spirit that this nation sorely needs today as its guiding light out of its shameful decline. Such a man as the first man of our nation will act as a leaven in the masses now pessimistic as to attempts of reformers to bring about the realization of the dream of political righteousness.

CURFEW LAW

The Board of Aldermen of Haverhill Has Decided Against it After Investigation.

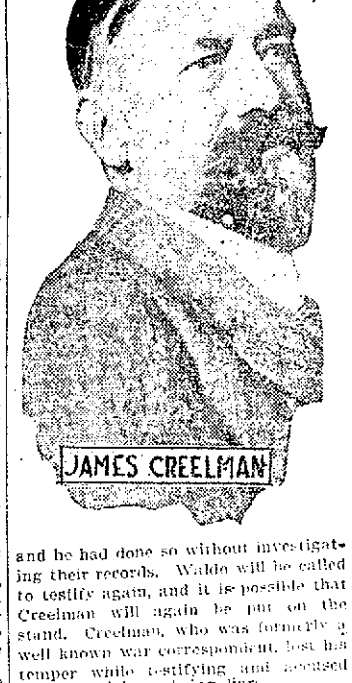

HAVERHILL, Sept. 25.—The movement for the enactment of a curfew law in this city, Alderman Albert L. Bartlett yesterday announced, has been dropped.

The alderman said the action was based on reports received from the police about the moral condition of the city. The police were ordered July 29 to investigate the presence of minors on the streets after 9 p. m., and the reports for the past two months showed no need of a curfew law.

CREELMAN AND WALDO

In a Clash About the Police of New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—James Creelman, president of the civil service commission, "passed the buck" when called before the Curran aldermanic committee investigating the police department and testified that Police Commissioner Waldo had asked him to certify certain applicants for appointment to the force.

and he had done so without investigating their records. Waldo will be called to testify again, and it is possible that Creelman will again be put on the stand. Creelman, who was formerly a well known war correspondent, lost his temper while testifying and accused many officials of being liars.

A Slight Blaze

An alarm from box 75 shortly before six o'clock yesterday afternoon summoned a portion of the fire department to 722 Moody street where there was a slight blaze in progress. The fire was caused by a person searching for a leak in a gas pipe and with the aid of a match succeeded in starting a blaze. The building is owned by the heirs of Hilaire Dezois.

"World's Highest Court" and the Panama Question Arousing Great Interest Because of the Protest That Was Made by Great Britain

Nos. 1 and 7—Scenes in The Hague, home of the permanent court of arbitration. 2—Alfred Mitchell Innes, in charge of British affairs in Washington. 3—Sir Ernest Mason Satow, one of the British members of the court. 4—John W. Griggs, and 5, Judge George Gray, American members of the court. 6—Home of the court, given by Andrew Carnegie.

Now, it being perfectly apparent to all men and to all nations, having been worldwidely proclaimed, that in the month of August, in the year 1911, Brother Jonathan and John Bull had shaken hands ceremoniously and had solemnly promised to refer all matters of dispute to the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague, the aforesaid John Bull has suggested that the question of the Panama canal tolls be taken before that high and mighty tribunal. Whereupon certain Americans of high official standing in Washington promptly said the United States would decline to arbitrate the question of the right of the United States to relieve its own shipping from tolls in the Panama canal. And that is how the matter stands, or did stand when these lines were typewritten.

There is a word that has gained much favor in international legal proceedings of late. That is the perfectly proper word "justiciable," of good standing in the unabridged dictionaries and of irreproachable etymological origin. It means "proper to be examined in a court of justice." The republican platform uses it, and it has found its way into other good society. It explains in a way the difference between the United States and Great Britain over this Panama canal question. Uncle Sam holds that the matter is not justiciable; John Bull says that it is.

On the one hand, the American contention is that the canal has been built with American money, American brains and American energy. It is the outstanding evidence to the world of American enterprise, bringing to completion an undertaking talked about for centuries. It is a permanent monument to the twentieth century activities of Americans. The wedding of the waters of the Pacific and the Atlantic oceans will be a purely American ceremony, with Uncle Sam officiating as the clergyman. Other nations will be represented, but only as guests. The old gentleman wants for his wedding fee the right to name the terms on which the ships of the world, including his own will use the canal. Besides, to carry the metaphor a little further, he will have to support the couple for all time.

Great Britain's Objections

But Great Britain, while not exactly forbidding the banns, has interposed an objection that may delay the solemnization of the marriage. It says in effect: "You were able to build the canal only because I waived my rights in the matter. You could not have gone ahead with it if I had not surrendered my interest in an interoceanic waterway, embodied in the old Clayton-Bulwer treaty. In the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, negotiated in 1901, you recognized anew those rights and promised to permit the nations of the world to use the canal on equal terms. Now you want to let your own ships go through free, while putting a tax on others. Even if you have built the canal and will maintain it, you have no right to violate the treaty in that way."

There is, of course, the question whether the words "all nations," used in the treaty, mean exactly what they say or whether they should be interpreted "all other nations besides the United States." That is one of the matters which will be considered by the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague if things get so far along. The recently deceased session of the senate ratified the arbitration treaties with Great Britain and France, but did so only after modifying the treaties to so great an extent that formal ratifications by the United States and Great Britain on one side and by the United States and France on the other have not been exchanged.

This halts what was hailed as the greatest forward step of the nations in the march which leads to the goal where "the war drum throbs no longer and the battleships are furled, in the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

British writers have waxed sarcastic over the failure of Americans to apply the spirit of these treaties to the Panama canal matter. It has been pointed out that the United States has twenty-five arbitration treaties with other nations, a greater number than has any other country save Brazil. It is recalled to the world's memory that Americans have ever been in the forefront of the world movement for universal peace, that the cause of bloodless settling of international disputes has found some of its most ardent supporters in America, that an American citizen, Andrew Carnegie, has given the money for the erection of the beautiful home of the permanent court of international arbitration at The Hague.

"Highest Court on Earth"

This court is called with justice "the highest court on earth." It is the child of the agreement signed at the international peace conference at The Hague in 1899, and is composed of men of the highest standing in their respective countries. They are chosen for their "known competency in questions of international law, of the highest moral reputation and disposed to accept the duties of arbitrators."

Now, it will be seen that four members of the court, when a dispute arises between two of the signatories to the agreement which created the court, appoint it is to be the tribunal to the party considering itself aggrieved, or by the other if the disagreement of disputed points is declared. One of the articles of the agreement reads:

"With the exception powers desire to have recourse to the permanent court for the settlement of a difference that has arisen between them, the arbitrators called upon to form the competent tribunal to decide this difference must be chosen from the general list of the members of the court. Failing the direct agreement of the parties on the composition of the arbitration tribunal, the following course shall be pursued:

"Each party appoints two arbitrators, and these together choose an umpire. If the votes are equal the choice of the umpire is intrusted to a third power selected by the powers by common accord. If an agreement is not arrived at on this subject each party selects a different power, and the choice of the umpire is made in concert by the powers thus selected."

To date the arbitration court has acted in nine important disputes. The good faith of the powers which constitute the court has been shown by the acceptance of the awards, although some of the matters arbitrated have involved important territorial and property rights.

The list of members embraces many of the world's most noted men, chosen in accord with the conditions stated above. There is an administrative council, which acts as a sort of permanent sitting body at The Hague, to consider the affairs of the court. It is composed of the minister for foreign affairs of the Dutch cabinet and the diplomatic representatives at The Hague of the ratifying powers. There are, besides, a secretary general and a first secretary of the court, both of whom are subjects of Queen Wilhelmina.

American and British Members

The British representatives to the court are the Right Hon. Sir Edward Fry, the Right Hon. Sir Ernest Mason Satow, the Hon. Sir Charles Fitzpatrick and the Earl of Desart. The first named is one of Great Britain's most distinguished lawyers and a member of the king's privy council, to which only those deemed worthy of advising his majesty on matters of grave concern to the empire are admitted. Sir Ernest Mason Satow brings to his work as a member of the arbitration court a long and honorable experience in the British diplomatic service, culminating as minister at Peking during the trying Boxer days. He is also a privy councilor. Sir Charles Fitzpatrick is one of the Dominion's distinguished lawyers and has been chief justice of Canada and deputy governor general since 1906. The Earl of Desart is one of the hardworking members of the British peerage, of very ancient lineage and an ardent toiler in the cause of international peace.

The United States is represented in the court by John W. Griggs, formerly attorney general of the United States and governor of New Jersey; George Gray, former United States senator from Delaware and present United States circuit judge, one of the best known of American jurists, who was mentioned early this year for the democratic nomination for the presidency, and Oscar S. Straus, progressive candidate for governor of New York, three times United States representative at Constantinople, having had the unusual honor of appointment by both democratic and republican presidents. He is the successor at The Hague court of former President Benjamin Harrison.

In the absence from the United States of Ambassador Bryce the British representations on the Panama canal matter have been instructed to the capable hands of Alfred Mitchell Innes, counselor of embassy.

LOWELL MILITARY COMPANIES

C, G and K of 6th Regiment at Milford—Rifle Team of Co. M Went to Wakefield

The members of Companies C, G and K of the Sixth regiment, M. V. M., left Lowell at 7 o'clock this morning for Milford, Mass., to participate in the big celebration, attending the unveiling of a statue of Gen. Draper. The Lowell contingent represents about 200 men, and was in charge of Capt. Peterson of Company C, Capt. Joyce of Company G and Capt. Greig of Company K.

The Lowell soldiers assembled at the armory on Westford street at 6.30 o'clock this morning and after receiving orders from the captains marched to the Middlesex street depot. There they boarded a train at 7 o'clock for Milford. Upon reaching the latter place, the soldiers were assigned to their respective sections, and later marched in parade, with the other company of the Sixth regiment of Massachusetts. After the parade the statue was unveiled. The exercises were very impressive.

Milford was decorated for the occasion, and business practically suspended. The Lowell men will return this evening.

Went to Wakefield

The annual shoot of the Ninth regiment, M. V. M., is being held at Wakefield today with the rifle teams of all companies in the state participating.

The rifle team of Company M of Lowell left this morning for the scene of battle," the members leaving Merrimack square on the 8.15 Reading car. In the local team there were ten regulars and two subs, all in charge of Capt. Philip McNulty. The Lowell men have a very good team and they are confident of putting up a big score.

FINGER PRINT SYSTEM

Explained to Boy Scouts by Supt. Welch

The Eliot Boy Scouts gathered in the vestry of the Eliot Congregational church last evening to listen to a very interesting and instructive lecture by Reginald Welch, chief of the police department, who took for his subject the finger print system of detecting criminals as used at present in all the large cities of this country and others.

The address was very well attended and the vestry was filled to its total capacity with members of the Boy Scouts organization and their friends. They all listened with the greatest enjoyment to Chief Welch and gave the latter a rousing reception.

Mr. Welch began his lecture with an explanation of the term "court record" and the significance of suffering arrest. He told of the great advantage which one has who has never been brought before a court, over the unfortunate who has been forced to face trial. In the application for civil service positions especially is this of importance for the chances of obtaining a position are small for the man or boy with a court record.

The speaker then described in general the laws of the city and the state, outlining the reasons, ends and causes of their existence in a community. He explained the procedure of the police court. He then went directly to his main subject.

In regard to the finger print system he said that the finger prints of all criminals are taken and three copies made, one for the station from which the arrest was made, the second for the state finger print bureau, and the third for the National finger print bureau. The same is done in the case of one who is suspected of being a criminal. As an illustration he cited the case of a pickpocket arrested in Merrimack square a few years ago. The man's finger prints were taken and sent to the New York State bureau, where it was discovered that the man was a notorious thief. He pleaded guilty and served a long term.

In the Bertillon system complicated measurements of the body were necessary but such is not the case in the finger print system, where the mere print of one's thumb fines will identify him.

Finger prints of the boys were taken as an example of how the work is done and John J. Pinder of the police department made several records of them, describing in detail the working of the system. Their undivided attention and evident interest fully repaid the men for their work in giving the address.

KAISER AND HIS SON

Are Reported to be Estranged

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—The gossip concerning the Kaiser's alleged estrangement from his son, Crown Prince Frederick William has been revived. The Wiesbaden Tageblatt says that his majesty, as a consequence of the trouble, refused to attend the birthday feted of the crown princess the other day.

Father and son, the paper says, never correspond and when apart and hardly ever speak when they meet. If the crown prince is compelled to communicate with the emperor he does it through a court official.

His majesty, it is pointed out, did not review the crown prince's regiment during the recent maneuvers. The heir to the throne had the regiment drawn up and awaited the emperor, who finally sent an aid to review it. The prince was deeply offended and complained openly of his treatment.

It is stated that the crown prince's anti-government demonstration in the Reichstag some time ago still rankles his father, who also disapproves of some of his son's companions and his disinclination for certain duties.

Friends of the crown prince have ineffectually tried to effect a reconciliation between him and his father.

MATRIMONIAL

A rather exceptional marriage ceremony was performed on Monday night by Rev. Edward C. Rametre when Jean Bronck, who can converse only in French, and Rebecca Ferris, whose speech is restricted to English were made husband and wife. Rev. Mr. Rametre found it necessary to use both languages. The couple will reside at 334 Moody street.

FARR—CURTIS

Mr. Cayton Favor Farr, oldest son of Mr. John Farr, of 18 Broadway and Miss Maud Ethel Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Curtis, were married Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, 97 Read street, in the presence of the immediate relatives, by Rev. B. R. Harris, pastor of the Paige Street Free Baptist church. The double ring service was used.

The bride wore a gown of white voile, trimmed with Duchesse lace and carried bride's roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Vinnie Adlington of North Billerica, wore a gown of pink messaline, trimmed with chiffon and carried pink roses. Mr. Harold Dalton of Lowell was best man, and little Miss Esther Curtis, a cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. The wedding march was played by Mr. A. W. Henderson. The decorations were of evergreen, autumn leaves and flowers; one especially beautiful feature being the arch under which the young couple were married; the rich colors of the leaves and the graceful structure, making a very handsome effect.

There were very many useful and ornamental presents, among them being an elegant cut glass pitcher, from the bride's Sunday school class, and another, equally elaborate, from the printers of the Merrimack print room, where Mr. Farr is employed. The gift to the bridegroom was a gold chain and pendant; to the best man gold cuff buttons, and to the ring bearer a gold signet ring.

After the ceremony a short reception was held during which there were piano solos by Mr. Henderson and a reading by Mr. Edwin Wells, uncle of the bride.

Among the out-of-town relatives were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Irving Damon from Everett, Mass., and Mrs. Lovejoy from Portland, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Farr left on an early train for a short tour and after their return will reside at 97 Read street, where they will be pleased to meet their friends after October 15th.

GIRL'S NARROW ESCAPE

Early Return of Clerk Saved Typist's Life

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The accidental return of Chas. Leeman, a clerk, was all that saved Miss Georgianna Rhinehardt, 17 years old, a stenographer, from being cremated in the office in which both work in Williamsburg, yesterday.

Leeman, who is the clerk and cashier for the Double Claw Hammer company at 457 Broadway, Williamsburg, returned from the bank without stopping to smoke his usual cigar and gossip with the cigar store owner. He found Miss Rhinehardt gagged and tied to a chair in the office, with a blaze getting a good start in the trash basket in the corner.

Leeman untied the girl, carried her to the street, then called the fire department and the police. The fire was extinguished with little damage and the girl was revived.

LENOX WOMAN ACCUSED

She is Charged With Smuggling

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port last night turned over testimony in the case of Mrs. Ambrose C. Kingsland, a wealthy woman of New York and Lenox, Mass., to United States District Attorney, John B. Vreeland of Jersey City for the purpose of having it brought before the United States grand jury. Mr. Loeb said that Mrs. Kingsland's failure to declare her baggage when she arrived from Europe Saturday will result in an effort to prosecute her on a charge of smuggling and to have all her baggage forfeited, under civil proceedings.

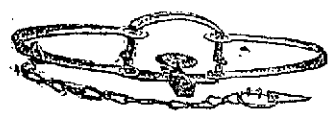

When Mrs. Kingsland arrived in Hoboken on Saturday after 18 months in Europe, she had 24 trunks containing clothes of the costly make. According to Collector Loeb she failed to declare a large quantity of foreign made goods. Mrs. Kingsland explained this by declaring that practically all these had been brought to New York a year ago and duly had been regularly paid then. This explanation did not satisfy the authorities, who concluded that the goods were dutiable.

The value of Mrs. Kingsland's seized luggage is estimated at over $10,000.

The sun crossed the line Monday, and yesterday was the first day of autumn. How about that overcoat?

THE PARTIES AND CANDIDATES

Hitherto the socialist party was considered the most dangerous to this country, although without any chance of getting control of the government; but now practically all that socialism stands for in this country is represented by the Bull Moose party. Col. Roosevelt is declared by the most prominent socialist leaders of the country to be the foremost exponent of the cult this country has produced.

Not only has he undertaken to smash the established custom forbidding a third term for any presidential candidate, but he has taken up every extraneous and outlandish policy that has been foisted upon the world during the last century. On these visionary theories put forward by Roosevelt many voters will be deceived because most of them are wholly impracticable under our constitution. On the other hand, Roosevelt on the tariff and the questions that do vitally concern the people, is evasive and indefinite. On the tariff, for example, he would refer the whole question to a commission for investigation and would base all future action upon the report of such commission. That means that there would be no immediate relief, for these investigations are very tedious. Very few such bodies reach any definite conclusion in less than five or ten years. That would postpone the revision of the tariff which is now most imperatively demanded. The republican party had a commission working on the tariff, but when congress passed the farmers' free list, the woolen bill and several others of equal importance, they were vetoed because the tariff board had not reported upon them.

When the delusive character of the Roosevelt policies is exposed by his opponents, he jumps upon his critic in his braggart style, pouring out the coarsest vituperation instead of argument. Unfortunately there are people who like this method of conducting a campaign, and that is why the honest voter cannot afford to temporize with the Roosevelt stripe of erratic politics.

President Taft, after being forced against his will to fight for the nomination, has decided to adopt the dignified course, and he is not doing much actual campaign work. Taft as president has been a failure, although personally he is a good man; but the most eminently able candidate representing the party allied to the trusts, responsible for their existence and their power, should be buried in ignominious defeat. The time has come to reject the republican party in any form or disguise, and hence the only hope of this nation today lies in the election of Governor Wilson as the next president of the United States.

On every issue of the campaign Governor Wilson holds a sound and democratic position. On the tariff his policy is safe and sensible. He does not favor free trade; he does not favor a cataclysm that would cause a panic among manufacturing concerns; but he does favor the prompt removal of the tariff from the articles of food that are now selling for unprecedented prices. He would have the tariff removed from beef, potatoes and other important items in the daily diet of the masses, articles that are now controlled by trusts and speculative combines.

The republican party in its platform denies that the high cost of living is due to the excessive tariff, thus trying to evade responsibility for present conditions; but the democratic platform charges that "excessive prices result in a large measure from the high tariff laws enacted and maintained by the republican party and from trusts and commercial conspiracies fostered and encouraged by such laws; and that no substantial relief can be secured for the people until import duties on the necessaries of life are materially reduced and these criminal conspiracies broken up."

NOW FOR A DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

The result of the primaries is now known, and for better or worse it must be accepted. The will of the people as expressed by the two political parties is reflected in the candidates who won in yesterday's primaries. The nominees of the democratic party must now be loyally supported by every voter claiming allegiance to that party.

The Sun has taken no part in the anti-primary contests, inasmuch as we believe the people are competent to decide between the rival candidates. It would be unfair for a newspaper to come out to condemn any candidate in his aspiration for public office. The Sun simply presented a few of the leading facts in regard to each candidate in order that the voters might have some knowledge of the men who seek their suffrages.

The renomination of Governor Foss is no surprise as it is difficult to dislodge a high official who has been in office for several years if he has given even reasonable satisfaction.

The governor, we believe, is the strongest candidate who could have been named, and he will carry the state with a whoop. District Attorney Pelletier made a strong and manly fight for the nomination, and in view of the difficulties he had to overcome, it is not at all strange that he was defeated.

District Attorney Pelletier made a good fight, but it was hardly to be expected that he could overcome the strong forces arrayed in support of Governor Foss.

The nomination of Hon. Joseph Walker is perhaps more acceptable to the democrats than would have been that of Col. Benton. Walker has had too many political fights to prove a strong candidate, and with the dissatisfaction caused by the Bull Moose ticket, Mr. Walker's chances of election are indeed very slight.

The nomination of Humphrey O'Sullivan for congress is a guarantee of a vigorous fight for victory on election day. Mr. O'Sullivan is already a sort of national character, owing to his fame as the rubber heel king, and as congressman he would wield a strong influence in behalf of the industries and the interests of the Fifth district.

Mr. O'Sullivan's rattling campaign, not only in Lowell but throughout the district, brought him a signal victory. He avoided personalities and kept to the straight political issues of the campaign. He said that if defeated for the nomination, he would come out and work for the successful candidate. That is the right spirit in which to seek a nomination, and it imposes upon the defeated candidates the duty of loyal support of the nominee which is what is expected of every democrat anyhow.

Before the primaries the candidates said some pretty hard things of one another, always in bad policy, but for the man who makes the charges if he happens to win and bad for the party whether he wins or loses. But after the primaries all these anti-caucus bickerings are to be put aside and forgotten so that all may work loyally and harmoniously for victory at the polls.

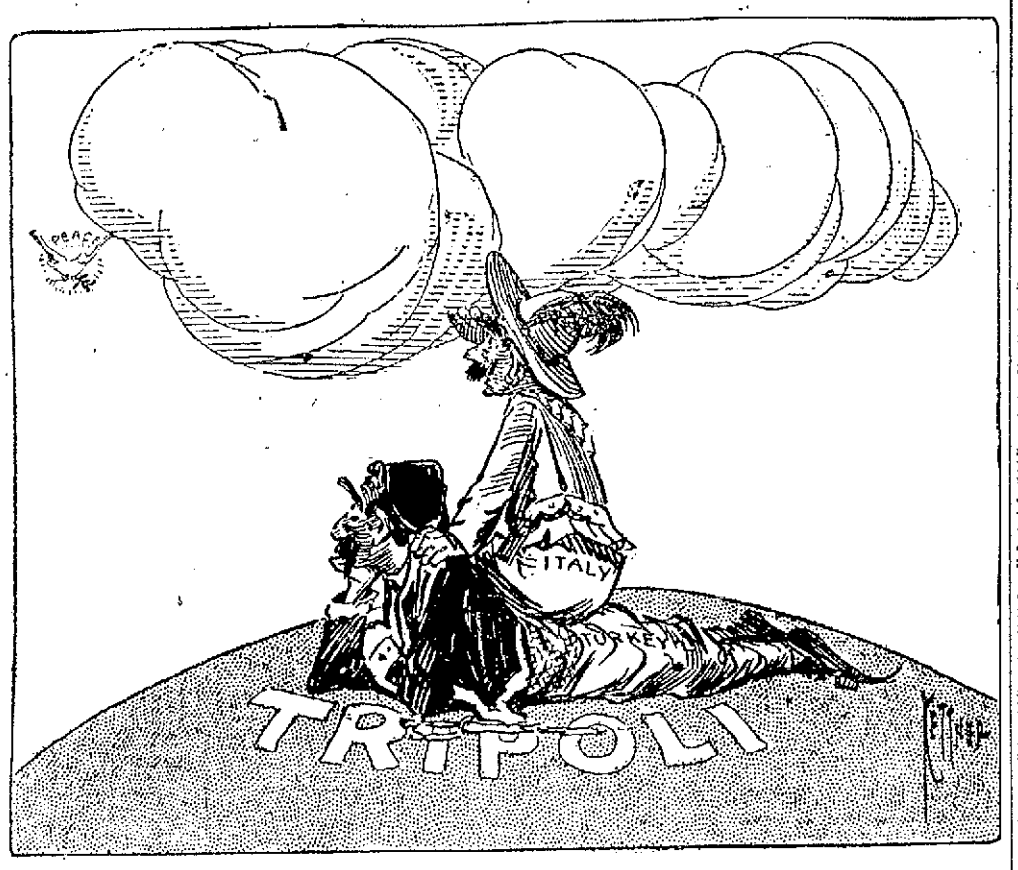

This being a presidential year, it is of the utmost importance that all discord be suppressed, that personal animosities be forgotten and that all hands work for democratic victory, which means a reduction in the cost of living and a policy opposed to the domination of the trusts, to the monopolies that flower the people and to the republican regime in any form regardless of what label it bears.

LATE STREET PAVING

It was supposed that under the new charter the street work that should be done in summer weather would not be allowed to drag into the month of winter. But we are to see smooth paving done in zero weather this year as under the old regime.

The Merrimack River Waterway Board selected a most inopportune time for a hearing in this city, as it is to come here tonight. Everybody interested in Lowell will be absorbed in the primary contests. We do not expect an attendance that will properly represent the importance of the whole subject.

Another sensation is due in the Russell case. It is time something come to light to penetrate the mystery that enshrouds the identity of the two claimants, Dakota Dan and Fresno Dan. It is now alleged a family secret is to be divulged that will explain all.

WAITING

Seen and Heard

I met her first down by the sea—the landlord's lovely daughter, she; the fairest maid along the shore, 'mid other beauteous maids galore. Her eyes were bright, her eyes were blue, her smile was sweet, and good, and true, her cheeks were tanned, but in their wealth suggested an abundant health.

I sought her here, I sought her there, I followed her 'most everywhere, and finally one soft June night I met her in the pale moonlight. Ecstatic, thrilled in soul and heart, I wooed her from the very start, and ere the stars had ceased to shine had begged her to say she would be mine.

A solemn look came in her eye, and then she made me this reply:—

"I do not know if I can say right off the handle if I may. I do not know exactly what engagements are already got, but if perchance you still persist, I'll gladly put you on the list. I have a notion that I'm free from July ten to August three, with possibly a day or two, besides, before the season's through, when I'll be yours with pleasure great—that is, upon the usual rate. I charge ten dollars, cash, per day for serving as a financee."

And ere the silver moon went down I turned and beat it back to town.—John Kendrick Bangs, in September Lippincott's.

"New times demand new measures and new men:
The world advances and in time outgrows
The laws that in our father's day were best;
And, doubtless, after us some purer scheme
Will be shaped out by wiser men than we,
Made wiser by the steady growth of truth."

These words from that eminent poet, James Russell Lowell flashed across my mind the other day as I gazed upon the oldest campaign button that I have ever seen, and I wondered if time had improved very much on the men whose pictures, in minature daguerretotype appeared on the button, Stephen A. Douglas and Herschel W. Johnson. The date on the button was 1860, when Douglas was running for president and Johnson for vice president. The world, of course, has advanced but I doubt if we have improved much upon the men whose faces dimly appear on the old campaign button.

During these days of seething political excitement the campaign button is everywhere in evidence. Buttons of Wilson, of Taft, of Roosevelt and of all the gubernatorial and legislative candidates are flooding the country and when Napoleon J. Harnoise of Salem, N. H., picked up the somewhat rusty button to which we have referred, he was mightily interested, and pardonably so. He had been helping to tear down the old Kimball mansion in Salem, a house said to have been built more than 200 years ago, when he noticed the button in a pile of rubbish. On picking it up and examining it closely he managed to decipher the names of Douglas and Johnson and despite the many years the button had mingled with the dust and dirt the old tintypes of Douglas and Johnson were still quite clear. Mr. Harnoise brought the button to The Sun office, yesterday for our examination.

To the young voters of these times such a button would probably excite but little interest, but to those men bent and gray with the weight of years, who cast their ballots in the elections during the last of slavery days, it would bring vividly to mind that stirring campaign when Stephen Arnold Douglas and Abraham Lincoln roused the country to fever heat by their historic controversy over the proper solution of the slave question.

That Douglas was a worthy opponent to the Great Emancipator seems reflected in the tiny picture. The well developed head, with its deepest eyes and decisive chin gives one an idea of the firmness for which the original was noted, Stephen Arnold Douglas. How quickly his memory has faded from the minds of men. And who can tell but that fifty years hence some other worker, now an urchin, unearthing another button, will look at it and curiously recall to mind that in his schooldays there flourished the man whose name appears upon the button. The name may be Wilson, Roosevelt or Taft. Who knows?

THE TUG

The liner—she's a lady; that's the reason why, no doubt,
She always needs assistance gettin' in an' gettin' out.
She can't come up the river an' she daesn't dock alone
So she whistles for the tugboat in a most implorin' tone,
An' the tugboat takes the hawser an' goes puffin' up the stream
With his stack a-smokin' lively an' his engine spitting' steam,
Then he swings her an' he pulls her—like a cowboy drivin' stock,
An' he hasn't got no manners—but he gits her in the dock!
He's short an' stout an' chunky
Like a fat old goat,
An' he ain't no liner's flunky
He's a free-lance boat;
Yet it's easy, when you view him,
An' you hear him pant,
To see there ain't much to him
But his power plant.

When there's any job to tackle he will take it anyhow
Whether towin' racin' liners er a garbage scow.
You will see him ploddin' heavy with a raft of rollin' logs,
Or a-pantin' down the harbor with a barge of squealin' hogs.
With a string of empty lighters er a ship from 'round the horn,
With a fleet of pleasure barges er a freighter full of corn,
He yanks 'em through the river an' his husky whistle blows
As he tells the other steamers to be lookin' where they goes.
His captain is a feller
That is all there, too,
An' there ain't a streak of yeller
In the tugboat's crew.
What they promise they stand pat on
An' if paid the rate,
They would tow the hull Manhattan
To the Golden Gate.

The Tug—he bucks the river when it's full of grindin' ice.
An' when there's trade to handle, why, you needn't call him twice.
Per he's out a-ridin' coubers maybe fifty miles at sea
An' he doesn't stop for danger when he's looking fer a fee;
He's the little giant helper, he's the live wire of the port,
He's a nervy, nifty snorter an' a winner an' a sport.
He's the snubby nosed exploiter of the chances of the same
An' he's never much on beauty but he gets there just the same!
If there's any job to rustle,
Any chance to take,
You'll see the tugboat hustle
Like his gauge would break;
Two hundred pounds of steam on
Make his engines throb,
He's the busy little demon
An' he's on the job!

CHILD'S BODY BROKE OUT IN TOOTH RASH

From Waist to Feet Covered with Large Blisters. Suffered Dreadfully. Could Not Sleep. In Two Weeks Completely Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

R. F. D.; Box 92, Thornton, R. I.—"When my little girl was two months old she had erythema or tooth rash. The lower part of her body broke out in a rash which started in the form of small pimples. In a day or so the pimples formed a white head which broke causing a watery discharge to run from it. In a week the baby's body from her waist to her feet looked as if it had been burned, being covered with large blisters which broke open leaving the flesh exposed and causing the child intense suffering. I had an ointment to use on her every two hours. It did not do her any good, in fact she seemed to get worse and she suffered dreadfully. Someone told me they had never seen such a bad case on any child. She could not sleep and cried continually. She continued to suffer for five weeks the blisters spreading all the time. Then I tried Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I bathed her in warm water with plenty of Cuticura Soap and covered the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment. The next morning we were surprised at the improvement in her and in two weeks she was completely cured. I have used nothing but Cuticura Soap on my youngest child since its birth." FIRST BUTTERFLY FARM

Started by Man in Yorkshire, England

The claim that the first butterfly farm in the world is to be started in Red Bank, N. J., is apparently not strictly accurate inasmuch as H. W. Head of Yorkshire, England, already has such a farm of between three and four acres in extent. He claims to be the first person to go into the breeding of butterflies in captivity, though there are now in Great Britain a number of butterfly "farmers."

For a matter of twenty-eight years, says the Yorkshire Evening Post, Mr. Head has made a business of butterfly breeding and he now has a wonderful collection of between 300 and 400 varieties of British and foreign butterflies and moths, and a setup stock of 410,000, all produced on his farms at Scarborough and Burlnston.

The farm is stocked with all kinds of trees and weeds—indeed one part is a veritable jungle—for the purpose fileof providing caterpillars and butterflies with the particular food they require. One species of caterpillar thrives upon one kind of plant and another species upon another; and Mr. Head has taken infinite trouble to provide himself with the rarest plants in oder to produce the rarest moths and butterflies.

In the rearing of hybrids Mr. Head has been remarkably successful. He has raised altogether well into a dozen, and he showed a reporter specimens of a yellow form of the green veined white butterfly, the sale price of which is about 30 shillings ($7.30) each. But what he is always on the lookout for are "sports," i. e., butterflies or moths of well known types, but differently marked than the ordinary.

There is a good demand for these and a single specimen will fetch pounds. It is all a matter of luck. Since he has been in the business Mr. Head has tried to breed a black variety of the tiger moth, but he has not succeeded. At the haven live butterflies are not supplied. The live stock does not go beyond the caterpillar or the fertile eggs of any particular kind of butterfly or moth in stock, but his clientele is cosmopolitan and world-wide in extent.

Another English authority tells of a jet black butterfly valued at $5000, as big almost as a robin, with wings measuring 11½ inches from tip to tip, which has been brought to London from New Guinea by A. L. Mock, an explorer in the service of the Hon. Walter Rothschild, millionaire owner of the famous private museum in Tring Park. Several new varieties of butterflies, by far the largest in the world, were discovered in New Guinea by Mock.

"I had to take up from the coast," he says, "cases of pearl shell, tomahawks and heads of all kinds before I could get the assistance of the natives in capturing the butterflies. The natives shoot them with four pronged arrows, which they use for killing birds. The female giant butterflies are black or brown or white, but the males are splendidly marked in green or gold. I brought back also with me a butterfly which has a hairy body on account of the intense coldness of the Snow mountains."

The hairy butterfly described by Mock, now in the Rothschild collection, is almost furry, so thick is its covering, and it has a wonderful appearance. The explorer, who has been twenty-three years in New Guinea, brings back with him also specimens of the famous birds of paradise.

DIPLOMAT PASSED AWAY

German Baron Was Ambassador in London

BADENWEILER, Baden, Germany, Sept. 25.—Germany's most brilliant diplomat, Baron Adolf Marschall von Bieberstein, died yesterday after a short illness.

The baron, who occupied the position of German Ambassador in London since May, came here to take a course of alkaline water treatment and was in comparative good health until a week ago.

Baron Marschall von Bieberstein was regarded as one of the most accomplished diplomats, not only in Germany, but in the world.

He succeeded Bismarck when he left office in 1890, becoming Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and conducted negotiations with many foreign powers for commercial treaties which have been in force since, with few modifications.

In 1894 he became Prussian Minister of State, and three years later the emperor appointed him ambassador to Turkey. He remained at Constantinople 14 years, but was often called to Berlin to confer with the emperor. He was strongly in favor of the extension of Germany's dominions in all parts of the world. His views were so well liked at the court that he was often mentioned for the imperial chancellorship.

When he was nominated for the embassy in London, early this year, it was reported that he would endeavor to bring about an understanding between the two great rivals, Germany and Great Britain.

However well founded the report may have been that it was the emperor's desire that he should try to affect a peaceful arrangement between the two powers, the ambassador had little opportunity to bring it about, for he arrived in London on June 18.

He was born in 1842 in the Grand Duchy of Baden. He became a lawyer when of age, and entered the Grand Ducal service in 1865. In this career he continued until elected a member of the upper house of the Baden diet in 1875. There he distinguished himself as a ready debater and a capable parliamentarian.

In 1878 he was sent to the Reichstag, where he served five years, then receiving the appointment of ambassador of the Grand Duchy of Baden at Berlin. He served in that capacity until he became the successor of Count Herbert Bismarck. After his retirement as minister of foreign affairs he received the appointment of minister to Turkey.

Von Bieberstein was one of the leading men of Germany, prominent in the German-American controversy over the tariff. It was he who said: "The fitful changes which are peculiar to American economic life have had a greater effect upon Prague than all the fluctuations of the German-American tariff legislation."

SENT TO PENITENTIARY

While Also Ordered to Pay Fine of $1000

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 25.—Frank White, leader of a gang of yeggs which burglarized many postoffices in this state, was yesterday sentenced in the United States district court to two years at the Atlanta Penitentiary, and fined $1000. He has already served a year at Atlanta for a similar offense.

Following the dissolution of the White case the indictment returned against the officers and directors of the Patents Security company of Manchester, charging the sending of a fraudulent statement of the company's financial standing through the mails, was taken up.

R. Cordaire, treasurer of the company, was arraigned last week and on a plea of guilty a fine of $100 was imposed.

Yesterday morning, Paul L. LaBonte, Israel Guertin and Joseph Cadotte of the board of directors were called and entered pleas of nolo through counsel. LaBonte was fined $50, and the indictment against the other two was continued for sentence.

Miss Cameron Engaged

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Friends of Miss Catherine N. Cameron, daughter of the late Sir Roderick Cameron, believe that formal announcement will be made in a few days of her engagement to Judah H. Sears of this city and Boston. A few friends were informed of the engagement when Miss Cameron was the guest of Mrs. William B. Leeds in Newport in August.

Mr. Sears is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Zemas Sears of Boston but has resided in New York for some time.

Davis Will Appeal

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 25.—Clark Davis, vice president and general manager of the Alaska Petroleum & Coal Company, said that nine of the Lippy-Davis claimants went on the witness stand at the hearing here and denied that there was an agreement to sell or to combine, prior to location of the claims.

He said also that an appeal would be taken at once and that arguments for reversal of the decision would be presented to the commissioner of the general land office.

THE POLICE

Expect to Make Another Arrest Today in Connection With Looting of Safe

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The Wakefield police expect to make another arrest today in connection with the attempt made to loot the safe of J. S. Stanley on Albion street in that town. They are of the opinion that two young men who were arrested in Wakefield square at 4 o'clock last Sunday morning are responsible. George Odiston of Fosdick place, Lynn, is under arrest.

WOMAN WAS RESCUED

When Fire Broke Out in Revere House

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—One woman was rescued and several diners fled from the Revere house yesterday when a fire starting on the roof worked down through to the employes' quarters, causing a $5000 damage. Several chambers on the French street side were damaged by fire and water.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It was discovered by William Britt and Joseph Santura, who were passing by. They hurried to the Bulfinch st. fire station, gave the alarm, then rushed back to give the alarm to any who might be in the threatened part of the building.

After trying the doors of the rooms on the way upstairs they finally came to that of a woman employe, who, working nights, was asleep with her door locked. They broke down the door and carried her to another part of the hotel, away from the fire, where she was cared for until her clothing could be secured.

Several people who were at lunch in the main cafe rushed to the street to escape the smoke and water.

SAN JOSE, Cal., Sept. 25.—Irregularities of about $200,000 in the accounts of State Senator Marshall Black, secretary of the Palo Alto Mutual Building and Loan association, exist, according to a statement he is alleged to have made at a meeting of the board of directors. Black, it is said, became interested in a colonization land scheme. He and his wife are said to have assigned to the association property of sufficient value to guarantee the company against loss. No arrest has been made.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON

To Speak in New Haven and Hartford This Afternoon and Tonight Planned to Leave Boston at 9.19 a. m.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25.—An afternoon speech at New Haven and a night address at Hartford composed the schedule of Governor Hiram W. Johnson, the progressive vice presidential candidate, for today. He planned to leave Boston at 9.19 a. m. over the Boston and Albany railroad.

Hereafter the governor will not make more than three speeches a day if he can avoid it and he has communicated his desire to the speakers bureau that they confine his work to two addresses a day if possible.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

OH!

Mr. Buzz—Why is the woodpecker so cordially disliked?

Willie Tree Toad—Because he is such a knocker, of course.

ONLY FLATS.

The Bug—Whither goest thou, brother?

The Cricket—Well, you've heard of the cricket on the hearth? There ain't no more hearths around here, so I've got to emigrate.

HATCHED.

The Egg—Say, mother has been looking all over for you and couldn't find you anywhere!

Fresh Chick—Aw, go chase yerself an' tell 'er I'm out!

COMPLETELY REFORMED.

Bill Collie—Bull the Bite used to be such a quarrelsome dog—always fighting.

Henry Dachs—But since he won the middleweight championship he's hired a manager and all he does is to go on exhibition and sit around and bark.

HEREDITARY.

First Bunny—Here comes that grouchy old rabbit. He's too quarrelsome to agree with anyone.

Second Bunny—Well, I suppose he must be a descendant of a Welsh rabbit.

NATURALLY.

First Bug—I met the nerviest bug the other day.

LAMSON COMPANY KEPT BUSY

set in wooden frames. The work on the new addition is well along and Supt. Stevens expects that it will soon be finished and ready for occupancy.

When the popular superintendent was asked how business was, he said: "Not since I came to this city have we enjoyed such a prosperous era, and with the amount of orders on hand, it looks like a very busy winter. We are supplying orders from Maine to California, and hardly have we an order finished when others crowd in on us. We have a very efficient corps of workmen though and are equipped to furnish all orders received.

The superintendent was called to answer a call from the head office in Boston. He was asked to send a man to Newark, N. J., tonight, as the carrier system installed by the Lamson company in one of the largest stores in Newark is to be operated tomorrow, for a demonstration to the owners and friends. The store will not be opened until next month, and while the company had more time to manufacture the devices, all were completed and forwarded to the Newark store and installed ahead of time.

That is one feature of the Lamson company—always carry out what it promises—and the officials strictly enforce this rule. Another reason for shipping the goods as soon as possible is to make room for other orders. For with the new building, there is not any too much room. All available space is occupied and with business increasing at the same ratio that it has during the last few years, more room will soon be needed.

There is still a vacant lot of land in front of the recently erected four story building, and this may soon be utilized for building purposes.

In the new building, the top floor is packed with stock ready to be sent to the assembly room, and here there is a magnificent supply of material, a supply that represents thousands of dollars, but it is absolutely necessary to hold such a quantity, owing to the hurried orders that the company receives.

While the main office of the company is in Boston and the factory here in Lowell, branch offices are located all over the country, and also several in Canada, so that orders are received here from many different places and Lamson products are in evidence in practically all sections. In the shipping department today, cases were being packed for Cleveland, Ohio; Los Angeles, Cal.; Ottawa, Ont.; Newark, N. J. and numerous other places.

In the basement of the new building, the patents are stored and an arrangement for holding the latter that attracted the attention of the writer was the fact that the racks are made of steel, with wire shelves. Each rack is a section, and all shelves bear small brass tags, with numbers that correspond with index checks that are kept in a desk nearby, and when a particular patent is wanted all one must do is to look up on the index cards and then go to the exact section.

The basement is still uncompleted, that is so far as the installation of the racks is concerned, but this work will soon be accomplished. When it is finished this room too, will be crowded to its capacity.

In every department in the establishment, the machines are crowded in as close as possible, but not so close as to be dangerous. The plant is well arranged and owing to the number of windows on both sides of the building it is a very healthful one to work in.

At the present time there are several new devices being experimented on, and much progress along these lines has been made. One of the most recent devices that has been perfected by the company is a newspaper conveyer, and the latter has been installed in many of the larger newspaper offices throughout the country. The attachment will be connected with the new press in the new Sun building.

In passing through one of the rooms of the plant some rather old men were noticed, and it was learned that there are several employes there at the present time who came to the plant when it started. The greater number of the workmen are very skilled and they receive good salaries, and very seldom change positions. While there is also a large number of the younger generation at work there, they, too, in time will become so familiar with their work that they will retain their positions.

The Lamson company has had great success with its employes and little or no trouble was ever experienced there. This fact may be attributed in a large measure to the excellent manner in which all are treated by the men in charge and also to the fact that they are well paid for their work.

Another fact that keeps the men together and satisfied is the plan recently adopted to employ the workmen the year around. Heretofore, during the dull season, the workers were laid off, and taken back when activities were resumed. Now when a dull time arises, the men are put to work, manufacturing general devices and these are shipped to the branch offices, which are at all times equipped with a sufficient supply to accommodate several large orders. This plan is a very good one and keeps the employes at work the entire year.

The local plant is in charge of Supt. Stevens, a very capable official who since coming to this city has met with remarkable success. He takes a keen interest in his work and is anything but a desk man; he goes through the many departments of the plant, and is familiar with all parts of the work. He is a very popular superintendent, among both his superiors in the main office and his subordinates at the Walker street plant.

PRESIDENT'S DAY

Was Observed at the Celebration of Anniversary of Loyal War Governors' Anniversary

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 25.—This was president's and governor's day at the Altoona celebration of the anniversary of the Loyal War Governors' conference, held here 50 years ago to consider the Civil war situation. President Taft and Governor Tener of Pennsylvania were the guests of honor. United States Senator Penrose, members of the congress and the descendants of several of the Civil war governors who participated in the famous conference helped in the celebration. President Taft arrived here at 9 a.m. and remained in the private car for breakfast and a short rest. Although the day was cloudy and rain threatened the big feature of the day, a parade of Civil war veterans, national guardsmen and school children were not seriously interfered with. The president, Governor Tener and other distinguished guests had places in the reviewing stand.

Luncheon for the president and other guests was served in a room in the hotel in which at least one of the conferences between the loyal governors was held half a century ago.

After the luncheon the principal feature was a speech by the president in a big tent. The president expects to leave Altoona late today for Beverly.

Candidates Chosen at the Primaries

The chief contests in yesterday's primaries throughout the state were on the head of the ticket in the democratic and republican parties. Governor Foss won by the handsome majority of 26,614 over Pelletier, and will again be the democratic standard bearer. The latter ran well in Boston, receiving 18,473 votes to 25,032 for Foss. Hon. David I. Walsh of Fitchburg is the nominee for lieutenant governor, Frank Donahue of Boston for secretary of state, Joseph L. P. St. Coeur of Cambridge for Treasurer, James F. Carens of Newburyport for auditor, and George W. Anderson of Boston for attorney general.

On the republican side there was a hot fight between Col. Benton and Hon. Joseph Walker, the ex-speaker of the house of representatives, who won out. Walker's vote in the state was 53,914, Benton's 43,612. Walker's majority 10,302. Robert Luce of Somerville is the republican candidate for lieutenant governor, Albert Langtry of Springfield for secretary of state, Elmer C. Stevens for treasurer, John E. White for auditor, James M. Swift for attorney general.

For the first time in this state the congressional nominations were made by popular vote, and the results so far as can be ascertained are highly satisfactory throughout the state. There were some hot contests, but today everybody bows to the will of the majority. The chief contests of local interest were on the head of the ticket and for congress. Governor Foss carried Lowell against Pelletier, receiving 3615 to 818 for his opponent. The total vote is remarkably small, showing that after all it is hard to get the people of Lowell out in full numbers at the primaries. Col. Benton got 1878 votes to 1414 for Walker, showing that the republican nominee is not strong in Lowell.

The chief interest locally centered in the congressional contest in the fifth district in which Humphrey O'Sullivan won out by a substantial majority of 638 in the city and over 1400 in the district. Mr. O'Sullivan's fight in the towns counted well in his behalf, but he showed equal strength in the cities. John Jacob Rogers won the republican nomination for congress in the fifth district, receiving over 3900 in the district to 1248 for Bartlett and 1134 for Grimes. He carried Lowell by a majority of 1944 over the vote of both opponents. There were several quiet contests for senatorial and representative nominations in which the voters apparently selected the strongest men.

HON. EUGENE N. FOSS, D., Renominated for Governor.

FOSS EASILY DEFEATED PELLETIER

The Governor Had About 27,000 More Votes Than the District Attorney

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The democrats, republicans and socialists, lined up today for the state campaign of 1912, having chosen their party leaders at yesterday's primaries:

Governor Eugene N. Foss, who won the primary contest over District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier of Boston by a margin of 26,614 votes, will head the democratic ticket for the third time.

Former Speaker Joseph Walker of Brookline who defeated Col. Everett C. Benton of Belmont, his opponent in the republican struggle, by 10,302 votes, will lead the republicans.

Robert D. Sawyer of Ware was nominated officially by the socialists for governor but the vote was so small that no record was made.

Revised returns in yesterday's primary for governor from every city in the state follow:

Democratic: Foss, 63,018; Pelletier 36,404.

Republican: Walker, 53,914; Benton, 43,612.

These two parties also chose candidates for other state offices and made nominations in the 16 congressional districts, the 40 senatorial and several score representative districts of the state. These follow:

Governor—Joseph Walker, Brookline, republican; Eugene N. Foss, Boston, democrat.

Lieutenant governor—Robert Luce Somerville, republican, David I. Walsh, Fitchburg, democrat.

Secretary of state—Albert Langtry, Springfield, republican; Frank J. Donohue, Boston, democrat.

Treasurer—Elmer C. Stevens, Somerville, republican; Joseph L. St. Coeur, Cambridge, democrat.

Auditor—John E. Tisbury, republican; James F. Cafens, Newburyport, democrat.

Attorney general—James M. Swift, Fall River, republican; George W. Anderson, Boston, democrat.

Congress

First district—Allen T. Treadway, Stockbridge, republican; Richard J. Morrissey, Greenfield, democrat.

Second district—Frederick H. Gillett, Springfield, republican; William McKechnie, Springfield, democrat.

Third district—William H. Wilder, Gardner, republican; M. Fred O'Connell, Fitchburg, democrat.

Fourth district—Samuel E. Winslow, Worcester, republican; John A. Thayer, Worcester, democrat.

Fifth district—John J. Rogers, Lowell, republican; Humphrey O'Sullivan, Lowell, democrat.

WOMAN RESCUES MEN

Dashed Into the Fire to Arouse Employes

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Two lives were saved yesterday afternoon by the courage and presence of mind of Miss May Williams, a former city hospital nurse, now employed at the Revere house, who rushed through flames, which caused $7000 damage to the hostelry, and rescued Michael Garland, a night clerk, and William Murphy, a night porter. They were sleeping in their rooms on the top floor. By battering the doors she succeeded in arousing them and they promptly escaped to places of safety.

Fearing, too, that some guests might be in their rooms on the other floors, she hastened down to the fifth, fourth and third, giving the house alarm by changing the bell on each floor, while her sister Florence gave similar warning to all on the second floor.

By this time an alarm had been rung in. The firemen combined the flames to several rooms on the top floor in the southwest corner of the building, immediately under the roof, where the fire was discovered and where roofers were at work.

Since the disastrous fire in January, when three lives were lost, the building had been entirely reconstructed and refitted and refurnished throughout, the structure belonging to the Revere House Associates.

THE STREET DEPARTMENT EMPLOYES

Did Not Attend Meeting of the Municipal Council This Afternoon—Order to Borrow $35,000 Was Introduced

At a meeting of the municipal council held this afternoon Commissioner Geo. H. Brown asked for $35,000 for street department maintenance. He said that unless that amount was available about 225 men would be thrown out of work.

It had been reported that a number of street department men would attend the meeting for the purpose of impressing upon the municipal council the necessity of the appropriation and to argue that there was work to be done and that they needed the work, but they did not put in an appearance.

Mayor O'Donnell called to order at 2.30 o'clock.

The first business before the board was a petition of the Bay State Street Railway company for the extension, improvement, alteration and relocations of its tracks in Lowell.

Thomas Lees, division superintendent of the Street Railway company, spoke on the petition and made special reference to switches between Burnside and Pawtucket streets for the purpose of extending their car sheds in Middlesex street.

Commissioner Barrett asked Mr. Lees what he knew about underground trolley systems and Mr. Lees said he didn't know much about them. He knew that the underground system had been experimented with but he did not think it would be practicable in this city. He said that water was one of the objections and besides it would mean a tremendous engineering proposition.

"Do you know that the system is in vogue in Washington?" asked Mr. Barrett.

"I was never in Washington in my life and I do not know," said Mr. Lees.

The order allowing the changes, alterations and extension asked for was unanimously adopted.

Drawing of Jurors

The following traverse jurors to serve at the superior court session to be held in this city in October were drawn by Alderman Cummings:

Richard J. Welch, 540 Andover street, plumber; Joseph B. B. Coburn, 210 Mammoth road, grocer; Arthur J. Drouin, 2 rear of 768 Lakeview avenue, drug clerk; Murdock McKinnon, 14 Bleachery street, marketman; Hugh Maguire, 62 West Third street, bartender; Sidney F. Whipple, 49 Berkley avenue, advertising manager.

Other jurors were drawn for the October term of the superior court in Cambridge, by Alderman Brown, as follows: John E. Maguire, 35 Myrtle street, insurance agent; Cornelius S. Livingston, 298 Branch street, paymaster; Thomas F. Murphy, 159 Parker street, plumber; Chas. A. Parker, 14 Second street, painter; Alfred Harnois, 172 Moody street, agent; John J. Duff, 19 Burns st, wine clerk; John Biggs, 576 School street, carpenter; Joseph Mullin, 232 Moody street, merchant; Michael F. Connor, 220 Thorndike street, printer; J. Edward Gibson, 85 Eleventh street, clerk.

Lawrence Street Bridge

Alderman Brown introduced an order for $35,000, the city's share of the expense of building a bridge over the Wamesit canal in Lawrence street. The bridge, it is estimated, will cost $11,000. The mayor thought that the phraseology of the order was not quite correct, not sufficiently comprehensive. He thought a contract should be drawn by the city solicitor binding the city to pay $35,000 as its proportionate share of the expense of building the bridge. He said that the order was rather ambiguous. The mayor's suggestion was adopted and the city solicitor will prepare the contract.

Order to Borrow $35,000

Alderman Brown's order to borrow $35,000 for the macadamizing of certain streets was read by the mayor at 3.40 o'clock and on motion of Alderman Brown the order was assigned for consideration at the next regular meeting, Oct. 8.

CHARLES D. HILLES

Takes Up Campaign Matters With Prominent Supporters of President Taft

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—Chas. D. Hilles, chairman of the republican national committee, came to Philadelphia today and took up with prominent supporters of President Taft the political situation in Pennsylvania. He said there is reason to believe that the situation with regard to the electoral ticket in the state will be cleared up within a short time.

The list of Taft electors to go on the republican ticket when the Roosevelt men are withdrawn from it will be submitted to Mr. Hilles during his stay here for his approval.

TELEPHONE ALARM

Summoned Fire Apparatus to a Chimney Fire in House in Appleton Street

A telephone alarm at 10.20 o'clock this morning summoned a portion of the fire department to a chimney fire in a house at 36 Chapel street, the property of Michael McDermott. The fire was extinguished before any damage was done.

The insurance on the property was placed through the agency of Fred C. Church.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—"Nowhere have I been more enthusiastically received than in California," said William J. Bryan today when he resumed his campaign. "On the trail of Col. Roosevelt." Mr. Bryan held an informal reception at his hotel and was the guest of the women of the Civil league at luncheon. He spoke to an open air gathering in Oakland this afternoon.

The city primaries in this city yesterday developed some surprises. The vote was small, especially on the republican end. Benton carried the city over Speaker Walker by a vote of 1874 to 1414, despite the predictions of the machine men that the former ex-speaker was much better known and would show a majority. Another surprise was given in the republican gubernatorial vote by the lightness of the totals for the head of the ticket which means that there are some Bull Moose voters in Lowell who purposely refrained from going to the polls. Had there been any contests among the republicans for senator and representatives, the Bull Moosers might have been tempted to go against their convictions and mingle just for a day with the old party men, in order to protect the United States senatorship, but there was no thing doing.

The Congressional Contest

The most interesting local contest was the democratic fight for congress between Humphrey O'Sullivan and Col. James H. Carmichael. The wise ones looked to see Carmichael show great strength in this city. There was betting at even money, and of the pools made on the pluralities in Lowell, few had the temerity to go over 300 either way. But once more the prognosticators were off in their reckoning for Mr. O'Sullivan carried Low'l by 638, and the district by 1572, a lead that leaves no doubt as to the party's choice. On the republican end it was a foregone conclusion that John Jacob Rogers would win, but all looked to see ex-Senator Grimes show more strength than he did. Few imagined that William T. S. Bartlett would top the bewhiskered ex-senator from Reading, but the fact that Mr. Bartlett came out flat-footedly for Roosevelt helped

Calls the Liberty Bell a Fake

THE LIBERTY BELL

What, the Liberty bell a fake, a fraud, a delusion, unworthy of the pedestal on which the American public has placed it! Let's go and blow up Plymouth rock and set fire to Mount Vernon. If the Liberty bell is not the real thing, what is?

For decades the venerated relic claiming and receiving the homage of many millions of visitors has stood in Independence hall, Philadelphia. There it was at last, the goal of pious pilgrimage, the one thing for a sight of which you made the journey to Philadelphia. Before it you stood in reverence, with bared head, conjuring up images of the day when it "proclaimed liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof"—that is, you believed it did so, and you were happy in the thought that you were actually beholding and could almost touch the sacred casting of bronze before which your father and your grandfather had bowed in reverence.

But now comes an iconoclastic Philadelphia historian—a Philadelphian, of all men!—and with his hammer, which he says is forged from the metal of truth, strikes a disrespectful blow upon the Liberty bell, already cracked by time. Boldly he calls the Liberty bell a fraud; loudly he announces to the world that his researches demonstrate that the Liberty bell does not deserve the homage which has been paid to it for many, many years; shamelessly he asserts that it did not proclaim liberty to the people of the revolted colonies on July 4, 1776.

Not even on July 5 did it ring in honor of the Declaration, says Joseph Jackson, a delver into the musty records of the City of Brotherly Love. Not until July 8 did it ring at all in honor of the great event, and then only in common with other bells of the city.

Moreover, Mr. Jackson declares that the general belief that an old man stood at the clapper rope of the bell awaiting the word which came from his grandson to "Ring, grandfather, ring for liberty!" as soon as the Declaration of Independence was signed, is totally unfounded. It was not until July 8, asserts this idol breaking and matter of fact historian, that the general public knew of the signing of the immortal document, and it was not formally proclaimed until July 8th. Therefore, don't you see, this defiance of King George could not have been communicated to the people of Philadelphia by the clanging of a bell in the old statehouse tower on July 4th.

Mr. Jackson asserts that the reverence and love for the old bell, which undoubtedly hung in the old statehouse for years prior to the signing of the Declaration, with its prophetic Biblical inscription about proclaiming liberty, are matters of comparatively recent growth. As late as 1828, he says, the city council thought of getting a new bell and proposed giving the old one in part payment. This is a suggestion that would nowadays freeze with horror the blood of Americans. What, give up the Liberty bell, the symbol of American patriotism, the visible embodiment of the ideals that have been acquired in almost a century and a half of independence! You might as well talk of letting out the national capitol.

However it may be with the historical accuracy of Mr. Jackson's history of the Liberty bell, the story of its early days and of its later more placid life is well known. Despite what Mr. Jackson calls historical accuracy, [illegible] assert that the bell rang to announce the signing of the Declaration.

Here is the history of the bell as given in the [illegible] Americana:

"Liberty bell, [illegible] which formerly hung in the [illegible] of the old statehouse, (Independence hall), Philadelphia, and was rung to announce the signing of the Declaration of Independence, July 4, 1776. It was cast in England especially for the statehouse, and was brought from there in 1752. In being taken from the ship it met with an accident which spoiled its tone, and it was recast in Philadelphia in 1753, when the words, 'Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof,' were inscribed on it. When the British occupied Philadelphia the bell was taken down and hidden in the Delaware river, near Trenton, but was afterward hung in its old position and for several years was rung every Fourth. In 1835 it was broken while tolling for the death of Chief Justice Marshall. In 1854 it was placed in the hall of the old statehouse on a pedestal with thirteen sides, representing the number of original states. In 1893 it was carried to Chicago for the World's fair, and in many cities through which it was carried it was greeted with special demonstrations, and has since been specially exhibited in other cities."

Philadelphia has not abated its love for the old bell, despite Mr. Jackson's assertions. San Francisco wants the bell as an exhibit for the Panama-Pacific exposition, but many Philadelphians oppose the removal of the relic to the Pacific coast, asserting that the crack in the metal is growing wider and longer and that transportation would inevitably harm the bell.

LA PORTE FOUND MONEY

Lowell Man Rewarded For Detective Skill

The great search for the $50 is over and the successful rival of Sherlock Holmes was Nelson A. La Porte, who resides on Marshall street. Mr. La Porte, whose eye is as an X-ray, and whose vision is so keen that he can see around a corner, told the eventful story of his successful search last evening in the office of the Opera House.

Two weeks ago this amateur sleuth came to this city in search of employment and it is evident that at that time he did not possess a full realization of his marvelous talents of detection. Monday night he went to the Kasino dance hall and waited for The Sun reporter with the money order. That time he was fooled and yesterday afternoon shortly before five o'clock he saw a paper with a tip as to the place of concealment and began his search of Central street. He went over the grounds once and then telephoned in to the Sun office and asked if the money had been found. He was told that it had not and immediately Mr. La Porte expressed his strong opinion that the whole thing was a fake. He was advised to look again and he did, with the result that after a thorough examination of all the sewers, closed boxes and signs on the street from Tower's corner to Merrimack street, and finally reaching up over the barber shop sign of Joe Haley in the door of the Central block he located the reward.

The lucky one lost no time in getting to The Sun office to impart the glad news and was congratulated on his success. He said that he was dead broke and that the fifty came as a godsend.

Last night at the performance of "The Million" the young man was presented the fifty dollars by a member of the company, who spoke in behalf of the management.

A BIG VICTORY FOR WILSON

He Succeeded in Defeating Ex-United States Senator Smith in the Primaries

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 25.—That Gov. Wilson won a sweeping victory in the New Jersey primaries yesterday was evident from the returns which sifted into democratic headquarters here during the early hours today. In his fight to prevent the nomination for United States senator of former Senator James Smith, Jr., Gov. Wilson carried the state by a plurality of about 20,000, winning in every county except Essex, the stronghold of the Smith forces. Returns from 511 of the 1799 districts in the state gave Rep. William Hughes, the Wilson candidate, 17,020 votes to 11,751 for Smith.

Even Essex county, which includes the city of Newark did not pile up for Mr. Smith the overwhelming vote which he had expected to receive from his neighbors. With a few districts missing the vote in Essex showed Smith only about 4000 ahead of his opponent. On the other side was Hudson county with an indicated Hughes plurality of 8000 and 20 other counties with Hughes pluralities of from 200 to 1600 each. Judge Hughes issued the following statement:

"The vote is an absolute expression of the people of New Jersey in favor of the policies of Governor Wilson. On this basis I submitted my candidacy to the people of New Jersey and they supported me admirably. The victory of Mr. Wilson seems now assured at the November election."

It is believed that practically all the Wilson candidates for nomination throughout the state outside of Essex county were successful. All told each party selected 12 candidates for congress, 66 candidates for the state legislature and many local officials. The vote was light all over the state although leaders declared this was due largely to inclement weather.

On the republican side the primaries were uneventful, Senator Frank O. Briggs receiving an uncontested endorsement.

The progressives did not figure in the voting excepting Hudson county, where they defeated the regular organization and nominated their candidates for congress. In other sections of the state they will nominate their candidates by petition.

Catholic Charities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Mgr. Giovanni Bonzano, apostolic delegate to the United States, told delegates to the national conference of Catholic charities today that their work was fully as important to humanity as that of the scientists who gathered here in the international congress of hygiene and demography.

"The conferences of these great scientists of the world will no doubt result in good to the cause of science and health," he said, "but as of great importance is this exchange of views and formation of plans to make the lives and homes of the poor better and happier."

Mr. Dunigan showed considerable strength in the towns, but was the low man in the city. Mr. Draper carried the district by a safe plurality. In the seventh district Representative Edward Fisher had no opposition.

The Representative Contests

In the 14th district Michael H. Brady defeated Robert F. Conroy by 106 votes. In this district it was significant that Representative Otis Butler received a light vote, while a progressive candidate is in the field. Ward 2, the 15th district, adhered to its time-honored custom of giving a representative two terms and nominated ex-Representative Dennis Murphy in a field of five, receiving more votes than any two of his opponents. Rep. Kearns, the second man, received 198, while Mr. Murphy polled 315. There was much interest in this contest and not a little betting. In the 16th district Rep. Eugene Toomey was renominated by the handsome vote of 805, his nearest competitor, John J. O'Connell, receiving 516.

The 17th and 18th districts were without representative contests, while in the 19th district, Rep. Cuff defeated Thomas Sheridan of North Billerica by a vote of 336 to 235. North Billerica gave Mr. Sheridan a flattering vote. The surprise in this district, however, was furnished by the republicans in a three-cornered representative contest. The wise ones picked Selectman F. A. D. Singhi as the winner. Rev. C. H. Williams showed remarkable strength in ward nine and carried the district by a total vote of 394, against 218 for Mr. Singhi and 217 for Mr. Buck. The last named carried Billerica, but in ward nine Rev. Mr. Williams received 206, against 114 for Singhi and 88 for Buck.

Returns Came Steadily

The returns began to arrive at city hall shortly after 9 o'clock and continued to come in about as fast as City Clerk Flynn and his force of election inspectors and announcers could handle them. The last returns were in shortly after midnight or four hours after the polls had closed. Quite a gathering heard the returns at city hall.

DOMINICAN GOVERNMENT

Not Strong Enough to Suppress Revolution

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The Dominican government is not strong enough to suppress the revolution while the rebels do not possess sufficient power to overthrow the government, so that the outlook is very bad, according to mail advices received from San Domingo today. Intervention from outside is looked for in many quarters which desire a change in this unsatisfactory state of affairs. The opinion is frequently expressed that a provisional government should be appointed and elections held under the efficient control of a third party and the republic would be placed in a position which would lead to prosperity.

THE STATE DEPARTMENT

Is in a Position of Embarrassment

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The state department is said to find itself today in a position of eminent embarrassment because of its obligations to demand from Cuba the monthly instalment of $100,000 on the cost of Havana sewer and paving work. This demand has been voiced by Charge Gibson at Havana. The government has had much trouble in getting money to meet these payments which the state department feels it must collect to protect American contractors and carry out obligations specifically imposed by the treaty.

With internal resources almost exhausted, the Cuban government is in a dilemma. It either must reduce the civil establishment by about 50 per cent. in the interest of economy or secure the consent of the United States to another foreign loan. In the first case, the Gomez government might fear results upon the coming election. In the second, the American government is almost certain to refuse to approve of a new loan without safeguards for its disbursement.

"Alfalfa Joe" and His Work Will be of Benefit to Soil

JOSEPH E. WING AND STACKING ALFALFA

For many years Joseph E. Wing, [illegible] known familiarly as "Alfalfa Joe," has been pursuing an ideal. He is catching up with it rapidly; it is not far [illegible] now. It is the placing of alfalfa [illegible] every field in the United States where it will grow and benefit the soil. [illegible] Mr. Wing has advanced on [illegible] the [illegible] of his [illegible] from the fact [illegible] farm papers referred to alfalfa [illegible] kind of forage [illegible]. [illegible] declared "It begins to look as if the United States is to become one vast alfalfa field." While [illegible] is the only [illegible] to take off the land [illegible] a good [illegible].

To the city dweller with even a rudimentary idea of what real farming and the exhaustion of fertility mean, this may seem a good deal like a paradox, but the man who has devoted even a very short time to the subject of scientific agriculture knows that alfalfa enriches the soil through its ability to take nitrogen from the air and store it in the ground.

Authorities agree in calling alfalfa, which is known also as lucerne, the most important of American forage crops. As such its cultivation is a matter of importance to all raisers of meat and to all users of dairy products. Besides, efforts have been made [illegible] recently to [illegible] into the [illegible] dietary.

If the efforts [illegible] Joseph E. Wing [illegible]. For years he has [illegible] In teaching alfalfa [illegible] the plant [illegible] into regions where [illegible]. Without irreverence [illegible] called "the apostle of alfalfa." [illegible] the plant in Utah and [illegible] good thing both for himself [illegible] country. At first, of course, [illegible] the [illegible] but alfalfa speaks for itself wherever it is introduced and [illegible].

[illegible] Mr. Wing [illegible] in the [illegible] States [illegible] in the most easterly parts of America. He is [illegible] in western New York [illegible] farmers. [illegible] to Ohio when five years old and [illegible] interested in [illegible] work [illegible] on my father's [illegible]. When a young man [illegible] the west, [illegible] a teacher in Utah four years. There became infatuated with the alfalfa plant, observing its [illegible] importance and value for [illegible]. Home and on the Ohio farm began growing it in 1890. Since then I have studied the plant in nearly every corner of the Union, in Europe and South America.

"[illegible] now on the old farm which has today 150 acres of alfalfa and which through its means has become four times as productive as during our father's day. On alfalfa sod the farm has grown on fifty acres of land more than 5000 bushels of shelled corn. I am now directing the sowing of alfalfa on many farms in many states, especially in the south."

The shrewd Latter Day Saints, or Mormons, of Utah early recognized the value of alfalfa. It is believed that Brigham Young had this plant in mind when he advised his people to let the gentiles engage in the rush for gold, while the "chosen people" devoted their attention to the more profitable fields.

TAMMANY BOSS MURPHY

Says He Will Stick by Gov. Dix

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—In an interview here yesterday, Chas. F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, said:

"As a delegate, I intend to vote for the man who is most entitled to the nomination—Governor Dix. I see no reason why the governor, on the record he has made, should not be renominated."

Questioned as to why Senator O'Gorman had not been named as a delegate to the state convention at Syracuse, Mr. Murphy said:

"I have nothing to do with the selection of delegates. That is in charge of the assembly district leaders. I regard Senator O'Gorman as a loyal and consistent democrat and see no reason why he should not go to Syracuse."

"The published statements to the effect that I bore a message yesterday from Gov. Wilson to the committee on the New York situation is wholly erroneous," said Acting Chairman McAdoo. "As a matter of fact, the New York situation was not mentioned at the conference of the campaign committee yesterday."

COLUMBUS DAY

Lowell Council, Knights of Columbus Making Preparations For the Observance

Preparations are in progress for the observance of Columbus day by the local council, Knights of Columbus, and a committee of 25 members is at present engaged in making the necessary arrangements.

It is possible that, owing to the large celebration which is to take place in Boston on October 12, the local council of the Knights of Columbus may hold their observance on Sunday. No definite program has yet been published but the festivities will probably open with a high mass in St. Peter's church in the morning and a speaker will be engaged for this. In the evening a banquet is expected to wind up the celebration but nothing definite has been decided in this regard.

The chairman committee of arrangements at the last meeting, appointed sub-committees to take care of the different divisions of the work, such as printing, catering, etc. They will hold another meeting immediately before the gathering of the local council in their rooms next Thursday evening and at this a program will be prepared for the consideration of the members.

MAJOR FRANK MCNEELEY

Murdered and Robbed Say Friends

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Major Frank McNeeley of this city, assistant adjutant-general of the Third brigade, N. Y. N. G., who was found dead in a lodging-house in Boston last Thursday, was killed and robbed, is the belief of relatives and friends. An investigation will be begun immediately. Members of the family say that when Major McNeeley left Albany last Wednesday he carried considerable money and some jewelry. When his body was found, relatives say, there was but ten cents in the pockets and a valuable gold watch and diamond scarf pin were missing. Friends assert that a deep gash on the back of the major's head and an abrasion over his right eye indicate foul play.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Leonardo Da Vinci's stolen masterpiece, "Mona Lisa" is hanging on the walls of a private gallery in St. Petersburg, according to a report published in a Russian paper and transmitted today to a news agency here.

The mysterious disappearance of the priceless picture from the Louvre museum in Paris caused a world-wide sensation in August last year. Search for it has since been made in every country but without success.

COL. ROOSEVELT

Says That He Feels As if He Has Been in a Crusade—Hears Good Reports of Progressive Party

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 25.—"I feel as if I have been in a crusade," said Col. Roosevelt today.

Coming into the old south with his trip through the west at an end, he said he felt that he had been well repaid for his western campaign.

He said that he had heard good reports of the progressive party in the south.

At the bottom, Col. Roosevelt continued, the progressive movement was a religious one. He said that one of the things which had impressed him most was the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldier," at meetings which he has addressed.

"It is pretty hard to improve on the Bible," he said. "All we are trying to do in this 20th century is to apply the only injunction to do unto others as you would have them do unto you."

Col. Roosevelt reached Little Rock after a night's run from McAlester, Okla. He was to spend most of the day here, leaving late this afternoon for Memphis.

Jaw Dislocated

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Sept. 25.—When Mrs. John Palmer Dewey "yawned" she dislocated her jaw. A physician was called and reduced the fracture.

Mrs. Palmer said she felt better and the physician departed. He had not gone more than 100 yards from the house when Mrs. Palmer yawned a second time.

The physician was hailed, and, upon returning, found the woman's jaw dislocated again. It was reset, and, fearing the woman would yawn again, the physician remained in the house.

Mild and Enjoyable, Cool and Soothing—That is Tuxedo.

Roy McCardell, famous editor of Puck, famous humorist and journalist, says:
"It's a great pleasure to recommend a good tobacco, and Tuxedo is the best tobacco I ever smoked. A great favorite with newspaper men."

If you are a Tuxedo smoker you understand why famous men in every walk of life smoke Tuxedo—because it is the one pipe-tobacco that affords complete enjoyment and satisfaction. Tuxedo cannot sting, bite or irritate the delicate membranes of the mouth or throat—as every Tuxedo smoker knows.

Tuxedo
The Perfect Pipe Tobacco

Eddy Foy, the famous comedian, now starring in "Over the River," says:
"I stand firm for Tuxedo. It's so soothing and comforting it would change the disposition of a chronic grouch."
Eddie Foy

Only the mild, tender, lower leaves of Burley tobacco are used in Tuxedo. Under the famous "Tuxedo process," this high-grade tobacco is made to burn slowly, and the result is a cool, healthful, enjoyable pipe-smoke that soothes and rests, and refreshes the tired business or professional man.

Tuxedo Tobacco is widely imitated, but no other manufacturer has succeeded in discovering the "Tuxedo process." Your first pipeful of Tuxedo will prove this statement.

Convenient pouch inner-lined with moisture-proof paper . . 5c

RED SOX DIVIDE WITH NEW YORK

In Double Header—Capt. Wagner Gets Loving Cup and Bedient Gold Horseshoe

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The Red Sox won and lost in a double header with the New York Highlanders yesterday. New York won the first game, 5 to 2; Boston won the second 3 to 1, scoring two runs in the eighth inning, after which the game was called on account of darkness. O'Brien and Caldwell had pitched through a duel until the second game was decided in Boston's favor, largely on doubles by Hendriksen and Lewis. Bedient was hit hard by the Highlanders in the early innings of the first game, while Boston could not bunch hits off McConnell. Captain Wagner was presented a loving cup two feet high and Bedient was given a gold horseshoe in the first game. Each struck out immediately after. The scores:

DIAMOND NOTES

Joe Jackson has taken second place in the batting averages away from Tris Speaker.

Last week was a lean period for Ty Cobb. In all that time he rolled only three safe hits.

The Moose Jaw team won a pennant last year, but this would be a more appropriate year for that town to win.

It has been voted that Jake Stahl is the greatest person in Boston, but he won't be if Percy Wendell makes a touchdown against Yale.

The Red Sox are 4½ games ahead of the Highlanders, and the Hub is said to be willing to bet 10 to 9 that the Highlanders don't win the world's series.

"There are grave fears," says Jimmy Isaminger, "that the smashed finger sustained by Larry Gardner of the Red Sox will prevent his being able to write an account of the world's series."

Inasmuch as several pitchers have been affected by the nervous strain of winning a lot of consecutive games, more than eleven successive innings of play will be barred after this lest the players break down.

New, catcher of the Boston Nationals, speaks no English. Spanish is his tongue. One advantage of speaking Spanish is that you may call an umpire a cabeza gordo, and he won't know you mean fathead.

Hal Chase was in town yesterday on his way to Boston. "This Midkiff is a find," says Childe Harold. "And as for Keating, all he needs is experience. He is built on the lines of Jack Quinn, only bigger.

The Philadelphia protest, made in the game of September 5, when the Giants beat the Phillies 8 to 1, has been officially turned down by President Lynch. Magee was called out by Umpire Bigler for interfering with Wilson, and Fogel protested the decision.

STRUCK BY TRAIN

Man Lost a Leg and Passed Away Two Hours Later at the Franklin County Hospital

GREENFIELD, Sept. 25.—Edward P. Frary, aged 60, while on his way yesterday noon to his work as engineer at the Charles R. Field Manufacturing company plant on Power square, crossed the tracks of the Fitchburg division of the Boston & Maine at the Union station, and in getting out of the way of a train going east stepped in front of a train going west and was struck. He lost a leg and died two hours later at the Franklin County hospital. Mr. Frary was a native of Whately and made his home at 222 Main street. He is survived by a wife and a sister, Mrs. Fred White of Somerville.

Three of Boston Star Pitchers Are Expected to Mow Down Giants

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—Can the Red Sox stop the Giants in the world's series? This question the baseball fans are now asking. Local experts say yes. Jake Stahl has five rattling good tossers—Joe Wood, Ray Collins, "Buck" O'Brien, Bedient and Hall—any one of whom is likely to make McGraw's best step lively. Wood is one of the most wonderful pitchers of the age. He is a speed marvel of the Walter Johnson type. Bedient is another fast ball pitcher, and a dandy, too. Hall is a good curve manipulator. "Bucky" O'Brien, who has just rounded into effectiveness for the first time this season, is one of the greatest spitball flingers in the league. Ray Collins is a southpaw and a crackerjack, too.

REDMOND WAS BEATEN

He Was No Match for "Jack" Britton

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Jack Britton of Chicago outpointed Jack Redmond of Milwaukee in a 10-round bout that went the limit at the New Star A. C. last night. It was a one-sided battle, Redmond being on the receiving end throughout.

Redmond landed but one good blow, a left swing, on the Chicagoan's chin in the eighth that staggered Britton. Britton hammered Redmond severely putting his eyes and knocking him down in the seventh session.

Young Sammy Smith of Philadelphia stopped Billy West, the local middleweight, in the last round. Smith had the better of the milling all through the early rounds. In the 10th, just before the bell, Smith hooked a hard right to West's chin that knocked him flat. He arose so weak and helpless that Referee Haley stopped the bout.

Walter Moore of Brooklyn earned the verdict over Artie Edwards in a ten-round bout.

Bout Lasts 10 Seconds

NEWBURYPORT, Sept. 25.—The first smoker of the season was held by the Newburyport Athletic club last night. The main bout between Charles Silverio and Joe Kennard of Lynn lasted only 10 seconds, Silverio putting Kennard out. Ah Chung of Salem met Joe Grimm and were scheduled to go six rounds. In the fourth, Ah Chung received a broken nose, putting an end to the match. Young Lebru of Beverly and Young Knockout Brown of Haverhill boxed six rounds to a draw. Teddy Rooney of Fall River and Young Lore of Lawrence boxed four rounds, the decision being in favor of Lore.

SHE COMMITTED SUICIDE

Woman Ended Her Life in Her Home

HUDSON, Sept. 25.—Rose A. Desautels, 24 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Desautels, committed suicide by hanging at her home, 11 Russell street yesterday. She was alone in the house at the time, her parents having gone to attend a funeral at Springfield and the rest of the family were at work. She suffered from nervous prostration several months, and last spring went to Canada to rest. She returned to Hudson in June, apparently in good health.

Her sister, Miss Delia Desautels, left her place of business about 10, and going home, found Rose in the cellar. The sisters spent a few moments together, after which Delia returned to the store. She went back home for dinner soon after 1 and failing to get an answer to calls for Rose, went downstairs and found her sister, hanging from a beam. A washtub was placed on the floor and a child's sled upon it, and standing upon these, the girl adjusted the rope and jumped.

Dr. N. M. Hunter, Dr. John F. McGrath, assistant medical examiner, and Chief Magority were called. Dr. McGrath said the girl was dead some hours.

Miss Desautels was well liked by all who knew her. Previously to coming to Hudson she was a resident of Rockland, where she was a music teacher and organist in one of the churches. Her condition was brought on by over study. She leaves her parents, two sisters in Hudson, Misses Delia and Marie Desautels, and two brothers, William and Edmund.

Anti-Trust Law

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. Sept. 25.—Sec. Nagel of the Department of Commerce and Labor, was the only speaker at a banquet of the board of trade at the Congress Square hotel last evening. Capt. Walter De C. Moore presided.

He said among other things that he did not believe in a technical construction of the Anti-trust law. He felt that the country has allowed individual states to assume powers that belong to the general government. He made strong appeal for the merchant marine.

THE MANHATTAN TEAM

One of the Best Ever Organized in Lowell

The baseball season is all over and the Manhattans are now the logical champions of the city, winning the title by defeating all comers in some of the best games played this season. The winning of the title, and also the the great amount of the long green captured by the admirers of the team, is the cause of great jubilation in the south section of the city.

While the team that gave the Manhattans the title and the monetary gains played under the name of the South Ends, the Manhattans are the real representatives of the South End. The club house of the Manhattans is located in Gorham street, opposite Blossom, the heart of the south end while the South End teams hails from the vicinity of the post office and the South common.

A meeting was held last evening, and all the business of the team completed with the exception of the calling in of the suits. The latter are the property of the club and will be held until next season. The team was formed at the opening of the season by Leo Crowley, who resigned and the reins were taken by Albert Ohlson, while Paul Clark was chosen captain. The acquisition of Mr. Clark was the real reason for the great sport that the team took. Capt. Clark took charge of the team on the diamond, while Manager Ohlson looked after the business end. Both worked together and the remarkable record made by the team since they took charge reflects great credit on the magnates. Mr. Crowley, however, who after resigning as manager, took the position of trainer and he, too, is entitled to much praise.

Captain Clark did the catching during the entire season, and his work on the diamond was one of the bright features of the team. He directed his men in a most satisfactory way, and played a very brilliant game himself, especially so in the pinches.

Peter Condon on the mound was a tower of strength to the team. He pitched wonderful ball as his work in the two recent games demonstrates. Two weeks ago he pitched against the C. M. A. C. team and allowed his opponents but one hit, this coming in the ninth inning, while last Saturday he allowed the South Ends with several professionals in the lineup but three hits. He was a great help to the team and his work was in a large measure responsible for the team winning the city championship.

Archie Ducharme at first base, played his position in a very clever manner, his clever pickups and stops saving his teammates many errors. At the bat he was generally there with a single and his work did considerable to bring the team out on the top of the city ladder.

Jimmy Grant of Y. M. C. A. fame played a very steady game at shortstop, covering a lot of ground and digging 'em out of the ground with great agility. His fine stops and quick and accurate throws nailed many of his opponents at first in a manner that brought the Manhattan rooters to their feet and made some of the local players look like past numbers. Jimmy also was a very good man at the bat, and was especially strong in running bases.

Cashman at second was a very good middle man, covering his position cleverly, and aided greatly in bringing the championship to his team. His quick turns and throws on double plays were responsible many times in putting their opponents out of the running.

Billie Marcotte on third, completed the infield machinery being one of the most important cogs in the lineup. He played the hot corner like a veteran and was particularly strong in getting runners coming into his station. He was a good thrower and knocked down many bangs that looked like sure ones when they left the bats.

The outfield was, without doubt, the best that ever was brought together for a local team. Farrell, in left, Buckley in center and White in right is a trio that cannot be beaten. All are fast fielders, good hitters and clever base runners. All certainly did a great deal to land the title and the laurels.

The following who played on the team during the season, but were not in the big game Saturday are entitled to commendation for their assistance in winning so many games and a chance at the title: Sharkey, Desmond, Harris, Grinawood and O'Brien.

$140,000 ESTATE

The Will of Manson Haws of Leominster Was Allowed in Probate Court Yesterday

WORCESTER, Sept. 25.—The will of Manson Haws of Leominster, who died Sept. 7, was allowed in probate court yesterday, disposing of an estate of $140,000. Among the bequests Mr. Haws directs that 18 of his old employees in his shoe factory be paid $500 each, that in memory of his mother, Mary Forbush, $1000 be paid to the town of Westminster as a trust fund to care for the buildings and grounds of the Forbush library, and that $100 be paid to the Unitarian Society of Harvard as a fund to care for the church property and to assist in meeting the salary of the pastor.

John W. Haws of Boston, a nephew; Fanny A. Kettle of Lexington and Emma C. Bowen of Leominster are given bequests, and it is then directed that the residue of the estate be paid to the Unitarian society of Leominster to maintain the church property, and any balance that may be left from the income is to go toward the pastor's salary. If the church fails for five consecutive pastor, the legacy is to be added to the Smith fund of the town of Leominster to be used in aid of the worthy poor and such other use as the Smith fund is available.

Harrison Bailey of Leominster is named executor and trustee and he has filed a bond for $170,000.

JOE PATCHEN II WINS AGAIN

He Scored Straight Heat Victory in the Hartman at Columbus Yesterday

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 25.—Big fields but straight heat racing featured the opening of the two weeks' Grand Circuit meeting at the Driving Park here yesterday.

It was a day on which the pacers were featured strictly, the $5000 Hartman stake for 2.13 pacers and a $3000 event for the 2.07 class being carded.

Joe Patchen II made his record for the season stand 11 victories out of an even dozen starts by landing the Hartman event very easily, while Braden Direct had just as easy a time in taking first money in the event of lesser value.

Both of these were favorites, but in the 2.10 trot Echomore, the first choice, failed to make good. Eva Cord, driven by her millionaire owner, Frank G. Jones, showing the field the way to the wire in three straight heats.

The track was in very bad condition when the racing started, but became fast before the close of the day's sport.

Joe Patchen II was a $50 to $10 favorite over the field for the Hartman stake, while the local four-year-old Wydrad had the call in the pooling, with the "Big Train" barred. Wydrad made a strong bid in the first heat and was only beaten a length, but broke in the second, in which Grand Opera secured the place. In the final Wydrad made the Patchen horse step in 2.04½ to beat him. It was the sixth $5000 stake which Joe Patchen II has won this season, three of them within two weeks.

Eva Cord Was the Real Trotter

Braden Direct, the world's champion 4-year-old, which the critics have all picked as the most likely of the stake pacers to take the measure of Joe Patchen II, was favorite for the 2.07 stake, selling at $25 against $14 for Knight Onwardo and $10 for the field. Like the Hartman stake winner, he took the lead from the start and gave it up but once during the race, Judge Ward leading him for a short distance in the final heat.

In the first two rounds Longworth B from the Murphy stable was his chief opponent, but in the final Nat Ray got his ill-tempered pony Knight Onwardo going right and finished a close second to the colt driven in 2.04½, the fastest heat of the race.

The winner and Joe Patchen II are both named to start in the Tennessee stake during the first week of the Lexington meeting.

Two trotters owned by Frank G. Jones started in the 2.10 trot, the owner having the mount behind Eva Cord and "Pop" Geers teaming Pee Wee. The mare was the real trotter and won in straight heats, while the red flag was the portion of Pee Wee in the second heat.

Newzell, Derby Boy and Marigold took turns in chasing Eva Cord, but she had something on all of them and won handily, traveling two of the heats better than 2.10. The favorite, Echomore, was not a serious factor at any time.

Fourteen pacers, the majority of them half-mile track campaigners, making their debut on the Grand Circuit, scored in the 2.15 class, this being the largest field of the season in the big ring. The Iowa mare, Bessie Bee, who has been winning consistently during the past few weeks, was first choice in the auction, but second in the second heat was the best she could do. Carna G winning the two heats, after which the race was postponed until today.

Big Race Today

The feature of the racing today is the $10,000 Hoster-Columbus stake for 2.14 trotters in which Baden, leading money winner of the season will meet Esther W., Dorsh Medium, Ruth McGregor, Dave Hatle, Annie Kohl, The Wanderer and others of the stake brigade.

The Horse Review Futurity for 3-year-old pacers will also be raced. Anna Axme, winner of the Horseman and Horse Breeders' stake, is named to start, but she will probably be protested as her winnings of last week have been tied up on the grounds that she is a four-year-old. The summary:

VERDICT OF NOT GUILTY

Ordered by Court in the Cummings Case

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—A verdict of not guilty was ordered by Judge Chase in the case of Charles S. Cummings, former Boston broker, charged with the larceny of $4265.45 from the Holliston Savings bank of Holliston, in the superior criminal court, East Cambridge yesterday afternoon. Cummings is now serving a term of from five to eight years in state prison, in connection with town of Framingham cases, in which former Town Treasurer John B. Lombard is serving a sentence of from ten to fifteen years. Cummings was sentenced in January, 1910.

Cummings was brought to court from the prison. According to the testimony of the government, which was represented by Assistant District Attorney Weir, Cummings sold the Holliston bank, on Sept. 16, 1909, a number of city of Lynn bonds, receiving in payment a check, and agreeing to deliver the bonds as soon as he could reasonably do so after having the bonds registered in the bank's favor. It was claimed that although the bank made many requests for the bonds they were never delivered.

Cummings, on the stand, declared that he would have delivered the bonds as agreed, had he not been prevented from doing so by his arrest in connection with the Framingham cases, and further that he had deposited at the Holliston bank at the time, collateral sufficient to cover the amount of the loan.

After Cashier Phipps of the bank testified that no definite time was set for the delivering of the bonds, Attorney Richardson, representing Cummings, made a second request to have the case taken from the jury.

Judge Chase stated that if any larceny had been committed, it was committed in Suffolk county and not Middlesex, and he therefore ordered the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty.

HORSE INJURED

Animal Took a Bad Toss at the Corner of Moody and Aiken Streets—Several Men Assisted Driver

A horse owned by Patrick J. Reynolds, took a bad toss at the corner of Moody and Aiken streets this forenoon, but fortunately the animal only suffered slight injuries. The horse hitched to a democrat wagon was being driven along Moody street at a fair rate of speed and when it reached the corner of Aiken street it slipped on the wet pavement and went to the ground. Several men rushed to the driver's assistance and soon had the horse on its feet again. It suffered a bad wound on the left front leg.

THE LAMSON CO.'S PLANT

The three hundred employes of the Lamson company on Walker street are rushing at the present time and business at that place is better than ever. For the past month many of the employes have been working until 9:30 every night with the exception of Saturday, and the indications are that the overtime work will be continued for some time.

Orders are being filled for all sections of the country and during the short time that a representative of The Sun was at the plant this morning, two large contracts were received. One came from Los Angeles, California, and the other from Newark, N. J. Both called for an enormous amount of work to be filled in a short time. The orders were immediately sent to the proper authorities and work on them was at once started.

So large has the business increased in the last few months, that the new building which was but recently erected is now packed with material. An addition is being made to the foundry, which when completed will slightly relieve the crowded conditions there. The addition will be 15x100 feet and will be made of wood and glass, a large number of windows and skylights being

This prevented the resolution being brought before the convention and compelled the Taft supporters to hinge their fight on the platform or directly on the nomination of presidential electors.

COUPLE ELOPED

They Are Over Age, However, and Have a Marriage Certificate But Will Have to Wait Five Days

LAWRENCE, Sept. 25.—Last Monday a young couple presented themselves at the city clerk's office and made application for a marriage license. They gave their address as Biddeford, Me., and complied satisfactorially with all the requirements. Yesterday morning the local authorities received inquiries from Biddeford regarding the couple. The girl, Ida Conway, is said to be the daughter of a prominent family in Biddeford, and is reported to have eloped with Ralph Dinsmore, a clerk.

As both of the young people are over age the police can do nothing. Since five days must elapse between the issuing of the application and the marriage license and since the irate parents of the girl have announced their intention of coming to Lawrence immediately, the prospective bride and groom will have to keep in hiding until Saturday, when they may obtain the license.

Deep Waterways Association

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 25.—Issues of the political campaign were temporarily laid aside by Theodore Roosevelt today when he spoke here before the convention of the Lakes-to-the Gulf Deep Waterways association.

There was no hint of partisan politics in Little Rock's reception of Colonel Roosevelt. Democratic officials joined with the progressives in the welcome. On Colonel Roosevelt's arrival he was driven through the city, escorted by a band, three companies of United States troops from Fort Logan Heights and a number of citizens in automobiles. Then he went to his hotel and had a reception of an hour. Long before the colonel reached the Auditorium, where he was to talk, it was crowded and the former president was cheered for several minutes when he appeared on the platform. His address was devoted in the main to the subject of deep waterways although he referred to some of the broader issues of his campaign.

The child ran out from behind a coal wagon directly in the path of the car, and she was under the machine before the chauffeur had a chance to stop it. Mitchell jumped out and took the child in the automobile to the office of Dr. J. J. McPhail, on Broadway, but she was pronounced dead upon her arrival there.

In the automobile at the time of the accident were Mrs. Nathan Eiseman and her daughter, Mrs. Sidney Bernheim.

GAGNON ORDERED TO PAY $50 FINE

He Was Charged With Illegal Keeping and Illegal Sale of Intoxicating Liquors

Alfred Gagnon, who claims to be a vendor of wines, acting as an agent for a Lawrence concern, was arraigned before Judge Enright in police court this morning on complaints charging him with the illegal keeping and sale of intoxicating liquors. He entered a plea of not guilty, but the court found him guilty on the charge of sale, but not guilty of illegal keeping. A fine of $50 was imposed.

Sergt. Alexander Duncan testified, stating that on Sept. 14, he saw the defendant pass through Suffolk street with a dress suit case. When the man reached the entrance to the Tremont & Suffolk mills the witness said he saw the defendant pass a bottle to a man.

During the course of the testimony offered it was brought out that the bottle was passed to Special Officer Regis of the Tremont & Suffolk, who was assisting the police in apprehending the man. William H. Grady, liquor inspector, corroborated the testimony offered by Sergt. Duncan.

The defendant, who was represented by Henry V. Charbonneau, testified that he took orders for wine and was in the employ of Napoleon Guilmette of Lawrence. He claimed that on the seventh of September, he received an order to deliver wine to a man at the entrance to the Tremont & Suffolk mills and admitted that he passed the bottle of wine to Mr. Regis.

The arresting officers, Sergt. Duncan and Inspector Grady, testified that when they placed the man under arrest they found two quart bottles and six half pint bottles of liquor in his possession.

Assault and Battery

Vassilios Kallas, charged with assault and battery on Cornelius B. O'Leary in Allen's box shop, on Sept. 18, was called to trial and although the case proved to be a rather long drawn out affair at the conclusion of the hearing of the testimony Judge Enright found the defendant guilty and ordered him to pay a fine of $6.

It was testified that the defendant requested or ordered the complainant to do certain work and the boy refused ot do so and thereupon the defendant slapped him in the face.

Drunken Offenders

Cornelius Sullivan, charged with being drunk, was ordered to pay a fine of $6. Two first offenders were fined $2 each and several first offenders were released before the opening of the court.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

Lowell Opera House

With a fine cast the four act farce comedy entitled "The Million" which has been delighting theatregoers all over the east won the generous applause of a large audience at the Opera House last night. The piece is brimful of funny and complicated situations which develop out of the search for a winning lottery ticket. The ticket is the winner of $500,000 and is placed in the pocket of a blue blouse. The latter is used as a disguise by a crook who leaves it in a second hand clothing store. The chase for this blouse is the feature on which the plot hinges.

The cast is a first class one and played the piece to perfection. The representation of a palm garden in the last act was especially realistic. The play was full of action, and was a good portrayal of the life of students in the Latin quarter, and that accounts for the hint of roughness which was apparent in places.

Taylor Holmes who took the part of "Lionel Walsh," a young medical student with a "temperament" furnished the best comedy that has been seen in Lowell for some time. His every move and word provoked laughter for he is evidently a born comedian and remarkably adapted to a part such as he carried in the piece last night. Edwin Forsberg as "Frank Porter," a noted crook known as the Baron was also especially good and his interpretation of the several parts called for by his disguises in the chase was enthusiastically applauded. Paul Ker, who played the part of an Italian tenor, rendered in a very pleasing manner a song composed by the great Caruso himself, the title of which is "Dreams Of Long Ago." Ker is a good comedian.

"The Million" caste has the real idea of first class comedy and the memory of the performance of last night will linger long with all who were fortunate enough to witness it.

PAUL MARCEL CO.

Paul Marcel and his French dramatic company newly landed from Paris will be seen at the Opera House next Thursday, Sept. 26 for one night. Paul Marcel is an artist of rare attainments as all can vouch who have seen him perform.

"THE COMMON LAW"

Next Saturday, matinee and night, at the Opera House will be presented "The Common Law," a dramatization of the celebrated novel of that name by Robert W. Chambers.

CHRISTIE MACDONALD

According to Miss Christie MacDonald, the fascinating little star of the Viennese masterpiece, "The Spring Maid," which will be seen at the Opera House next Friday evening, grace culture plays a very important part in the training of every woman who has aspirations towards the realms of stardom.

SUNDAY CONCERT

Another big program of vaudeville and pictures will be offered at the Opera House next Sunday afternoon and evening.

Merrimack Square Theatre

Heading an all feature five act bill at the Merrimack Square theatre this week are Miss Marie Horton and players in "The Price Paid." The other four offerings are perhaps none the less pleasing and afford all great enjoyment. The Irish comedy act by Casey and Knowlin is making a great hit. The pictures for the first of the week are also good and contain much which amuses. Performances are continuous from 1 to 10.30. You are never too late.

The Playhouse

The presentation of "The Lion and the Mouse," by The Drama Players, is winning many new admirers at the Playhouse at each succeeding performance, a fact that is not at all surprising when one considers the quality of the entertainment. For the week of Sept. 30, the offering is to be Paul Kester's great costume play, "When Knighthood Was In Flower," a piece in which Julia Marlowe was starred in for two full seasons. Miss Constance Jackson will be seen in the leading character role and she will be surrounded by a large and capable cast, including J. Anthony Smythe and others.

Keith's Theatre

YOU'RE BILIOUS! YOUR LIVER AND BOWELS ARE INACTIVE—"CASCARETS"

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and constipated bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box will keep your head clear, stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular and make you feel cheerful and bully for months.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS

Are Undecided as to Their Candidates

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 25.—Only two of the questions to be determined by the republican state convention that meets at noon were settled this morning and these were the names of the temporary and permanent chairmen.

The candidates and the platform remained to be discussed and it may not be until Friday, the day when the nominations are expected to be made that the ticket is determined.

The leaders made no effort to disguise this situation. In fact most of them called attention to it with pride as evidence that the convention was to be "unbossed" and that the delegates themselves would select their nominees. When the convention met it was expected to effect a temporary organization, name committees and then adjourn to let the committee on resolutions prepare the platform.

The alignment of leaders and delegates, nor any such formation could be said to exist, resolve itself first of all into two general camps although between these there was no distinct separation. Some believed that the paramount duty of the convention was to nominate a ticket and adopt a platform which should be most helpful to the national standard bearers. Others said they felt that while the national candidates, of course, should not be lost sight of the main lookout was to elect a republican governor.

William Barnes, jr., state chairman, received visits from various individual leaders last night but so far as could be learned failed to make known his choice for candidates, if he had any choice.

Lesson in Scientific Complexion Renewing

(From The Family Physician)

Everyone has a beautiful skin underneath the one exposed to view. Bear that in mind and it will be easier to understand the correct principle in acquiring a lovely complexion. Nature is constantly shedding the top skin in flaky particles like dandruff, only much smaller in size. In abnormal conditions, or in advancing age, these particles are not shed as rapidly as in robust youth. The longer they remain the more soiled or faded they become—that's the immediate cause of a "bad complexion."

It has been discovered that ordinary mercolized wax, to be had at any drug store, will absorb these worn-out particles. The absorption, while hastening Nature's work, goes on gradually enough to cause no inconvenience. In a week or two the transformation is complete. The fresh, healthy-hued, youthful underskin is then wholly in evidence. You who are not satisfied with your complexions should get an ounce of mercolized wax and try this treatment. Use the wax nightly, like cold cream, washing it off mornings.

Christabel Pankhurst Continues to Work for Votes for Women

CHRISTABEL PANKHURST

PARIS, Sept. 25.—Miss Christabel Pankhurst, who has been in hiding for several months, has come out from retirement and is often seen in the streets here. She is writing for English publications and is also doing individual work here to advance the votes for women propaganda. After the window breaking in London last spring Miss Christabel escaped from the police, though her mother and many of her associates were arrested and imprisoned. Miss Christabel came to France and for several months remained in a village on the English channel within sight of England. She says now that she has no fear of the English authorities, as the offense with which she is charged is not extraditable, and she does not believe that the British government is eager for her to return to England even as a prisoner.

THE SCHOOL BOARD MEETING

Hearing to Pawtucketville Residents on Friday Evening—Case of Miss Devereaux

At the regular meeting of the school board held last evening, the members voted unanimously to give a hearing in the board rooms on next Friday evening to the Pawtucketville people and others interested in the transfer of the the children from the Bartlett school to the Pawtucket school, and also to request the principals of both schools to be present at the hearing.

Though the meeting was announced for 8 o'clock it was 9.15 when Chairman Farrington called to order. All members were present. Committeeman McKenzie, who has been ill for some time, attending though in rather a weak condition. During the course of the meeting, Dr. O'Connor and Mr. Rogers had a little tilt, following the reading of a communication from Miss Devereaux. Both men rose to their feet and were engaged in a lively discussion, when Chairman Farrington dropped his gavel and instructed the members to address the chair.

After the reading of the secretary's report of the last meeting which was accepted, the first business was to fix the salary of Miss Alice T. Lee at $1600. Miss Lee holds the office of supervisor, being chosen at the meeting at which Miss Devereaux's office was abolished.

Supt. Molloy, secretary of the board, read a list of assignments of teachers and transfers of pupils and other matters which were approved by the board.

At this point Mr. Rogers, asked for information concerning the transference of pupils from the Colburn to the Moody school. He said that he inquired, to be enlightened, owing to the episode in another section of the city and wondered if those children had also been put back.

The superintendent and chairman explained that transfers made without the board's approval were illegal. Supt. Molloy said that he had no data on the matter but that in the course of time all such information will be on hand and that the matter will be adjusted all over the city.

Miss Foss of the Highland school was given leave of absence until February 1st, 1913. The leave of absence of Miss Snow of the Moody school was extended until November 1st.

Permission was given Mr. Greeu, principal of the Moody school, to conduct an entertainment in the school for the purpose of purchasing a victrola.

Mr. Molloy asked the board if he might be granted permission to omit names of the members making motions, saying that he intended to record the minutes complete, without the name of the maker. Dr. O'Connor said that he was in favor of having the name of the maker of every motion recorded, saying that a short time ago he criticised a certain gentleman for not doing so. He said that the records were for the public and that he thought all motions with the names of those who made them should appear on the secretary's books. Supt. Molloy then inquired for the makers of the motions during the evening, and this system will continue in vogue.

Supt. Molloy read a communication from Principal Dargin of the Normal school, stating that teachers' classes will be resumed in October, and on vote of the board on the superintendent's recommendation the Lowell teachers will be permitted to leave their schools in time to attend the classes which will begin at 3.30 during the months of October, November, January and February.

Supt. Molloy then recommended that the teachers be permitted to absent themselves from their duties to attend the annual teachers' convention of the Middlesex county and it was so voted.

The schedule of office hours arranged by the superintendent was adopted by the board and he was also voted permission on his request to utilize the board suite for callers, conferences, etc. He said that he expected to have occasion to use the rooms at different intervals and wanted to have the authority to do so.

Mr. Molloy recommended that special students be received at the High school on recommendation of the superintendent and the chairman of the High school committee, until the rules are revised to cover this point and it was so voted.

Evening Schools

October 14 was fixed as the date for the opening of the evening schools and the examination of the applicants for teachers in said schools will be held Saturday afternoon, Sept. 28. The latter examinations are for applicants who have not graduated from High school or a school of equal standing.

On the draft of the chapter submitted by Mr. Rogers, dealing with the duties of the superintendent, which Mr. Molloy wanted more clearly defined, Mr. Rogers suggested a little time in which to talk matters over with the superintendent and members of the board, and his request was granted.

Pawtucketville Matter

A protest from Pawtucketville residents criticising the "action of the school board," and requesting a hearing signed by W. T. S. Bartlett and others was read by the secretary. The latter said that there were several names of signatures but as some were very difficult to read, he asked if it was the wish of the board that they be read. The reading was omitted. Dr. O'Connor moved that the letter be laid on the table, and Mr. McKenzie said that he would term the petition "very disrespectful to the members of the board."

Mr. Rogers: "May I ask that at this time the communication from the speaker be read to the board, so that I may speak upon both, as they deal with the same matter?"

Dr. O'Connor: "There is a motion on a petition from Mr. Bartlett and others. I would like that matter acted upon first."

Dr. O'Connor's motion was put and all voted yes, except Mr. Rogers.

Mr. Roger's letter was a request that the parents of the children in the Pawtucket school district be given a hearing. Dr. O'Connor moved that they be given a hearing next Friday evening, and it was so voted.

In talking of the petition, Mr. Rogers said that he did not want to interfere with the action of the Pawtucketville citizens and believed that despite the fact that two members of the committee who were present at a conference when the matter was brought up, said that the petition was not entitled to consideration, he thought differently and wished to make sure there should be no obstacle to the hearing.

Dr. O'Connor said that Mr. Rogers took a different attitude in the inference and said that he (Dr. O'Connor) was surprised when he read in the newspaper the next morning, an interview with Mr. Rogers, said to have taken place over the telephone, after the conference, but the doctor said that the interview was given at city hall.

Mr. Rogers jumped to his feet and said: "If Dr. O'Connor says that interview did not take place over the telephone he says what is not true." The motion was then voted on with all voting "yes."

Case of Miss Devereaux

New business was then called for and Mr. Rogers inquired about a letter he received from Miss Devereaux. He was informed by the chairman that the letter had been turned over to the superintendent. Mr. Rogers wanted to know what action the board proposed to take relative to Miss Devereaux's position.

The chairman said that the list of assignments had been read earlier in the evening by the superintendent, and Mr. Rogers said that he did not hear her name mentioned. The latter then asked that the letter be read. Mr. Molloy brought the letter from his office, which read as follows:

Lowell School Committee, Lowell Mass.

Gentlemen:

I am in receipt of a notice dated September 7, which reads as follows:

"At a meeting of the school committee last night, the office of supervisor of kindergartens was abolished. A position as kindergartner was offered you."

Although your letter bears date two weeks ago, and although the fall term of the schools began two full weeks ago, I have received no instructions as to what duties I was expected to undertake, or where I was to perform them. I therefore write to inform you that I am awaiting your further action.

Respectfully Yours,
Anna W. Devereaux.

Mr. Rogers inquired as to what the plans were for the future of Miss Devereaux and whether it is the opinion of the board that Miss Devereaux is still under salary.

Mr. Molloy said that the question existed before he took up the matter of assignments and, therefore, he did not consider the case. He said when the Lincoln kindergarten was abolished, Miss Cragin and Miss Roberts, teachers in that kindergarten, were provided for, Miss Roberts being sent to the Pine street school in place of Miss Livingstone who was a temporary teacher, and Miss Cragin being temporarily assigned to a primary school, that being the kind of work she desired. He recommended a certificate of the third grade to Miss Cragin. No mention was made of Miss Devereaux, he said. He would recommend, however, that if some other kindergarten teacher already in that service wished to take up primary work, Miss Devereaux be assigned to her place.

Mr. Rogers: "Do you conceive that Miss Devereaux is under pay of the city of Lowell?"

Mr. Molloy: "I cannot answer that question now. I do not know what was the intent of the information which she received."

Mr. Rogers: "In brief, you have no suggestion as to anything that can be done with or for Miss Devereaux?"

"Nothing specific in mind at this time," said Supt. Molloy.

Dr. O'Connor said that he assured both Miss Cragin and Miss Roberts, when their school was abolished, that they would be provided for, and that they were under pay.

Mr. Rogers: "Have you given Miss Devereaux any such assurance?"

Dr. O'Connor: "She never got any such assurance from me."

"Why not?" asked Mr. Rogers.

"Because she never was a kindergarten teacher."

"What difference does that make?"

Both were on their feet making rapid exchanges of words when the chairman's gavel fell, and he requested that the members address the chair.

"Then, through the chair," said Mr. Rogers, "I would like to ask Dr. O'Connor why Miss Devereaux should be treated differently from the other two teachers."

Dr. O'Connor: "Miss Devereaux was deposed as a supervisor of kindergartens, and the board saw fit to hold her as a kindergartner. Nothing else was said, as the vote stands."

Mr. Rogers: "In your opinion, doctor, is Miss Devereaux under pay of the city?"

Dr. O'Connor: "In my opinion she is not under pay, and she will not be if I can stop her."

"I thought so," said Mr. Rogers.

Committeeman McKenzie announced the appointment to the industrial school of Miss Agnes Burns, teacher of dressmaking, and Mr. John Gallagher, electrical department, to serve until regularly elected.

Dr. O'Connor moved that the superintendent be instructed to issue a notice through the press, that any citizen of Lowell be entitled to appear before the board to say why their children should or should not attend any particular school, at the Friday night meeting; and also that Messrs. Barry and Bixby, masters of the Pawtucketville and Bartlett schools, be requested to attend that hearing. It was so voted. Adjourned.

HARD TIMES

MEAT PRICES HIGHER

Prediction Made by Retail Dealers in Chicago

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Higher meat prices as soon as winter arrives, were predicted yesterday by retailers. Packers would not admit any certain figure, but all of them agreed that meat prices, which have advanced from 1 to 3 cents a pound in the last two days will go still higher.

Choice sirloins today were 25 cents. Pork chops, which two weeks ago were 22 cents, today are selling at 28 for the best. There is a small supply of "chuck" steaks at 12 to 14 cents, and lamb shoulders at 12 1-2 to 14 1-2, and the next cheapest meats were selling today at 16 to 14 cents a pound.

Added to the climb in meat prices, condensed milk dealers today announced that next week their product, which now sells at 10 cents, will move up to 14 cents.

The packers talk freely about the situation, each expecting a promise that his name is not to be used in any published articles. They see no relief. One of the administrative heads of Swift & Co. today said:

"People are making a mistake in thinking that the packers are arbitrarily fixing the price of meats. Supply, which is small, and demand, which is strong, are forcing the prices up. It is true that if the tariff of 51% on cash on imported cattle were removed, Argentine, Canada and Mexico would ship in large numbers of cattle, but removal of the tariff would demoralize the stock raising business in this country; growers would be discouraged and the supply next year would be shorter than it is this year."

Another representative of a large packing house said:

"The American people have learned to grin and bear a great deal. They will stand for the present high prices and the future higher ones."

Card of Thanks

The undersigned, wishing to show their appreciation for the many kindnesses, words of sympathy and floral offerings, tendered them during the final illness and at the time of the death of a devoted wife and beloved mother, Mrs. Julia A. McDougall, take this means of publicly expressing their heartfelt thanks to all their neighbors and friends, through whose thoughtfulness the burden of grief cast upon them was materially decreased.

THE WORLD'S SERIES

Commission Arranging for the Games

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Members of the National commission with representatives of the Rex Sox and the Giants gathered here today to fix dates for the world's championship series to settle a disputed question as to how and by whom the sales of tickets to the games shall be conducted, fix the price of seats, formally announce the eligible players and dispose of any other business bearing upon arrangements for the big games.

Although New York is still in need of two games to clinch the National League pennant the commission will proceed on the supposition that the championship is assured and devote its main attention to arrangements for a world's series between New York and Boston. The schedule adopted, however, will be announced with a proviso in deference to the Chicago Cubs, who have something like a 1000 to 1 chance of displacing the Giants.

After deciding on the dates, the commission will invite Presidents Brush and McAleer of the New York and Boston clubs to toss for the honor of starting the series in their cities. With the honor goes the advantage of home sympathy for the first two games if the plans to stage two games in each city, instead of alternating each day, is carried out.

The desire of the commission to have supervision over the sale of the tickets, and the fact that the American league has adopted resolutions refusing to be represented in a world series unless it recorded sole charge of the sale of tickets to games played on its grounds, may result in a wrangle. It appeared, however, that the commission would let the two clubs handle the tickets as usual, but would assume close supervision.

The three members of the commission, Messrs. Herrmann, Lynch and Johnson and President McAleer and Secretary Meiler of the Boston club, after gathering in the city planned to go to the home of John T. Brush, president of the New York club at Pelham Manor, a suburb, to hold a meeting there. It was said that no announcements would be made until late in the afternoon.

LARCENY IS CHARGED

Young Man Accused of Taking Horses

WORCESTER, Sept. 25.—Charged with being implicated in the theft of two horses and other property from a Foster street livery and sales stable, Harold White, aged 17, of this city, was arrested in Spencer yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Ramer and booked at the Worcester police station.

The specific charge is breaking, entering and larceny. The police allege that White is one of a party of three men who broke into the Foster street establishment and drove off with two horses.

According to the information received at the police headquarters, the trio drove to Boylston and then to Spencer, where they were seen by Deputy Sheriff Ramer. The men were driving through the center of the town when Officer Ramer ordered them to stop. He collared White and another of the men. A tussle followed, resulting in Ramer losing his grip on one of the men. The third member of the trio was sitting in the body of the wagon and also escaped.

Policeman George W. Freeman got a fatal shock when he put his key in the call box.

Policeman J. F. McCarthy, a few blocks away, was knocked unconscious, and House Sergeant Fox, who was receiving the calls at the station house, was hurled across the room.

The report showed a great gain in membership all over the state, more particularly in Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill. These three cities are fast coming to the front in membership. The next meeting will be held on Thursday evening, Oct. 10th.

Pilgrim Fathers

A meeting of the Bay State colony, U. O. P. F., 71, was held last evening and the election of the officers for the ensuing year took place. The officers who were elected last evening are to be installed October 8. After the business session of the meeting an entertainment followed.

ORIGIN OF WORD TARIFF

It Comes From Name of Town Tarift

The very word tariff is of unsavory origin. It came from the name of the town Tarift, on the Straits of Gibraltar, a strategic point where in ancient times the predatory Moors held up incoming and outgoing ships and levied tribute. In our day, the "tariff wall" has been used by the predatory interests to hold up and levy tribute on the American people. The tariff has been built up and perpetuated by the republican party under the specious guise of protection to American industries. The robbery of the ultimate consumer for years has been carried on under the cloak of protection.

For fifty years the American people have been enslaved and robbed by the interests under the false and misleading belief that "the foreigner pays the tariff tax; that without the protective tariff business manufacturing would not prosper nor wages be sustained." All three of these arguments are false in their very essence, and vicious in their application.

These political jugglers will show you how prosperous the country has been and then assert that it is due to the protective tariff. They never remind you of the great panics that have convulsed this country; they never tell you of the hard times that have cursed the workingmen time and again. They say that the working men of this country are the highest paid in the world because of the tariff; that the farmer is prosperous and thriving because of the tariff; that the business men have grown big because of the protective tariff. These lies have been so often and so loudly repeated that many people have come to believe that there is some truth in them.

William Jennings Bryan was once interrupted in the course of a public speech and asked: "Does not the protective tariff enable manufacturers to pay higher wages?" Mr. Bryan replied: "Yes, it enables them to pay higher wages, but it does not force them to do so, and so they never have done so."

The combination of free trade in the labor market and the high protective tariff on manufactured goods, is the ideal situation for the trusts and, corporations. It puts the dollar above the man and enables the manufacturer to defraud both the laborer and the consumer. The American workingmen are the most efficient in the world. Figuring their output against the output of men in other countries the American wage scale is lower than that of England for instance.

The manufacturers have waxed fat under the tariff which in its original conception was designed to "protect industries," but they have not divided fairly with the workingmen who helped them grow.

There are no infant industries now that require protection. The proof of that statement lies in the fact that the steel trust, the harvester trust, the shoe trust and all the great trusts, including Standard Oil, are competing in the markets of the world and in many instances underselling the products of England and Germany, where we have been led to believe wages are low. They add the tariff to the legitimate profit of manufacture in this country, but abroad they are able to compete successfully with countries where there is no tariff. But one conclusion can be drawn from this fact and that is that the trusts do not need the protective tariff and are "gouging" the American people by so much as the difference between the price they accept abroad and the price they extort at home.

That the "protective tariff" has fostered trusts and monopoly which now threaten our very national existence, no one doubts who is honest with himself. The dragon's teeth of our national dissolution are already broadly and deeply sown, and as to whether an awakened people can prevent the logical harvest remains to be demonstrated. Certainly, this is no world for pessimists and quitters. One of the old parties has been extricated by one great soul from out the political slime of special interests, and it is that party that should receive the support of every sensible man of all parties, and thus turning the tide of public affairs sharply against the corrupt current that is heading this nation towards the rocks of centralization, the tombs of all the older republics.

"It takes a soul
To move a body; it takes a high-souled man
To move the masses even to a cleaner sky;
It takes the ideal to blow an inch inside
The dust of the actual."

This inspiring deed was recently done at Baltimore, and unless the ingratitude of republics is again to be exemplified, this high-souled man, Woodrow Wilson, will live to soon see the triumph at the polls of the eternal principles for which he has ever fought.

While history does not necessarily repeat itself there is quite a strong tendency in that direction. To stem this old tide that has caught and hurled to utter destruction all the early democracies is by no means an easy task. In Woodrow Wilson the people have a truly great and truly wise leader, in whom never a symptom of eronania has ever been known. Altruism dominates his being and it is this spirit that this nation sorely needs today as its guiding light out of its shameful decline. Such a man as the first man of our nation will act as a leaven in the masses now pessimistic as to attempts of reformers to bring about the realization of the dream of political righteousness.

CURFEW LAW

The Board of Aldermen of Haverhill Has Decided Against it After Investigation.

HAVERHILL, Sept. 25.—The movement for the enactment of a curfew law in this city, Alderman Albert L. Bartlett yesterday announced, has been dropped.

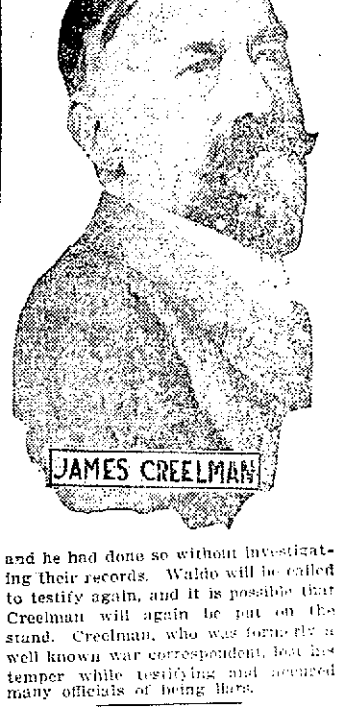

The alderman said the action was based on reports received from the police about the moral condition of the city. The police were ordered July 29 to investigate the presence of minors on the streets after 9 p. m., and the reports for the past two months showed no need of a curfew law.

CREELMAN AND WALDO

In a Clash About the Police of New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—James Creelman, president of the civil service commission, "passed the buck" when called before the Curran aldermanic committee investigating the police department and testified that Police Commissioner Waldo had asked him to certify certain applicants for appointment to the force, and he had done so without investigating their records. Waldo will be called to testify again, and it is possible that Creelman will again be put on the stand. Creelman, who was formerly a well known war correspondent, lost his temper while testifying and accused many officials of being liars.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you cannot find a single trace of Dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes, that really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine will immediately double the beauty of your hair. If you will but try a little Danderine.

THE ISSUES OF THE CAMPAIGN

Discussed by President Taft—He Also Refers to the High Cost of Living

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The Evening World today publishes an interview with President Taft in which the president goes at length into some of the current issues of the campaign. The president promised a revision of the tariff on a scientific basis so to keep the prices of living from being exorbitant. This may be done by the continuance of the board's investigation into the facts, the president is quoted as saying.

The president then hinted at an extra tariff revision session in case the republicans should be in control of the next congress.

Referring to the high cost of living, the president expressed the opinion that American workmen were very much better off than the workmen of Europe; not only were they able to pay the high cost of living, he said, but they could also put something aside for a rainy day. The Payne tariff law had no more to do with advancing the high cost of living than the latest Atlantic cable tariff, he declared.

Referring to woman suffrage, the president said that this issue would have to be decided by the various states and that he believed women to be as capable of wise use of the ballot as men.

In the matter of the recall of judges the president said that he regarded the maintenance of an independent judiciary as a supreme issue and that the recall applied to judges would tend to deprive the public of judges of ability, character and a high sense of duty.

The republican national headquarters declared today that this interview was authentic.

Republican Convention

CONVENTION HALL, Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 25.—The republican state convention, which is to place a ticket in nomination and adopt a platform, held its opening session today. The keynote speech was delivered shortly after noon by William D. Guthrie of New York, the temporary chairman.

The first real demonstration of the day came when Chairman Guthrie mentioned the name of President Taft.

The chairman's speech was again interrupted by the spectacular entry of the Conkling Unconditional club of Utica, the home city of Vice-President Sherman.

The chairman's speech was long and it was well into the afternoon when he finished.

Committees on resolutions and permanent organization were ready for appointment, after which the convention planned to adjourn until tomorrow.

Other speakers included Dr. J. F. Gallagher of Boston and Edward O'Meagher Condon, who had investigated conditions in Ireland.

STANDARD SHARES

RECOVERED THEIR BEST PRICES IN LAST HOUR OF TRADING

Extensive Profit-taking Finally Told—Reading and N. P. Sold Under Yesterday's Close—Union Pacific a Feature Of Trading

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Considerable activity and an irregular undertone marked the opening dealings on the stock exchange today. Great Northern Ore, Western Maryland and Woolworth were up a point with fractional advances in other specialties. Reading, Great Northern, Lehigh Valley and Atchison were fractionally lower.

Realizing continued in the leading issues with the continuance of yesterday's brisk inquiry for low-priced metal stocks, including Bethlehem Steel and Lead.

Reading, Union Pacific and the Hill shares reflected further realizing sales. Steel, which made up a large part of the 250,000 shares sold in the first hour, yielded a substantial fraction of its high price of the year. Bethlehem Steel was strongest of the independent steel interests and Canadian was heaviest of the active specialties. Call money opened at five per cent.

Buying orders were distributed in the important stocks at midday and the whole market moved upwards in a vigorous fashion. Union Pacific crossing 175.

Activity slackened and in the late afternoon call money rose to five per cent. Recessions were only nominal.

The market closed irregular. Although some of the standard shares recovered their best prices in the last hour the hardening tendency of money and extensive profit-taking finally told. Reading and Northern Pacific sold under yesterday's close and Union Pacific receded over a point from its highest quotation of the year.

THE GOVERNMENT'S SUIT

To Dissolve American Sugar Refining Co.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Hearings in the government's suit to dissolve the American Sugar Refining Co. testimony which is being taken before a special examiner were resumed in New York today. Assistant United States attorneys Knapp and Smith appeared for the government; Frank L. Crawford represented the American Sugar Refining Co. John Jurgeson, a former director of the company, was the first witness.

LARGE FORCES OF TROOPS

To be Moved Into Belfast on Sept. 28

BELFAST, Ireland, Sept. 25.—Large forces of troops are to be moved into Belfast in preparation for Ulster day, Sept. 28, when the anti-Home rule convention is to be signed by the unionists of that province.

Orders were sent from headquarters at Dublin castle today to Brig.-Gen. Count Gleichen, in command here, to that effect. He was informed that the first battalions would reach Belfast on the evening of Sept. 27. The lord mayor of Belfast, on whose requisition such steps are usually taken, has been informed that the troops are coming.

PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 25.—A new movement to obtain peace in northern Mexico was made today when President Madero and his cabinet instructed the minister of war to offer amnesty to the followers of Pascual Orozco, the rebel leader.

CRISIS IN THE BALKANS

Causes Anxiety Among the Diplomats

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The crisis in the Balkans is causing great disquietude among diplomats here. Incidents such as the arrest today of Austrian soldiers on the Servian frontier and the firing by Turks on a Greek steamer at Samos are embittering the peoples of the states directly interested and it will, it is thought, take all the ingenuity of the foreign offices and their representatives in Turkey to avert the Balkan outbreak so often predicted. Turkey's decision to hold military maneuvers in the vilayet of Adrianople, which the Bulgarians are considering as likely to look upon as a threat, leads to the belief that Turkey is not adverse to a diversion which would allow peace to be signed with Italy under cover of the necessity for the protection of the Turkish frontier. The danger of the situation places it in the forefront of the conversations at Balmoral between King George and Sergius Sazonoff, the Russian foreign minister.

CHEERING THRONG

Greeted Gov. Wilson, the Democratic Candidate, on His Arrival in Hartford

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 25.—When Gov. Wilson reached here this afternoon he was greeted by a cheering throng. Enthusiastic crowds along the route gave the governor a warm reception. At Meriden Congressman Reilly introduced the governor as "the next president."

"I am sure that you believe everything Mr. Reilly says in this community where you know him so well," said the governor, "therefore I will take his word for it that I am going to be the next president of the United States—but not without your assistance, for it will be necessary if that event is to be celebrated. And I want to say very frankly that I do not want you to take part in it unless you actually believe in it—unless you actually believe that the democratic party stands for bringing the government back to the people themselves, because that is the only safe thing for every member of the community. We cannot afford to let some people play the game that all of us ought to play in order to control the government."

Blame Aviators

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Officials of the Aero club of Illinois today placed blame on the aviators at the continuation of the inquest of Howard Gill, who was killed when his biplane collided with a monoplane driven by George Mestach at the Cicero aviation meet. D. D. Griffith, member of the contest committee and starter of the race on Sept. 24 in which Gill was killed, testified that no aviator was ordered into the air that day.

HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Boy on Bicycle Collided With Auto

A boy whose name could not be learned had a narrow escape from serious injury this forenoon when he ran his bicycle in front of Dr. E. J. Clark's automobile at the corner of Decatur and Merrimack streets. The boy was not injured, but the bicycle he was riding was almost completely destroyed.

Dr. Clark was driving his automobile down Merrimack street toward city hall at about 11 o'clock and the boy was going along Decatur street toward Merrimack street. The automobile was being driven at a moderate rate of speed and when it reached the corner of Decatur street the boy, riding the bicycle came from the latter street and rode right in the path of the auto. Dr. Clark applied the brakes but it was too late. The boy was thrown from his bicycle and the auto passed over the front wheel of the bicycle, breaking it into pieces.

The doctor brought his machine to a stop and rushed to the boy's assistance and after a close examination found that he was uninjured, but he was suffering from a bad shaking up. The boy refused to give his name.

THE OPENING GAME

Of the World's Series in New York

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The opening game of the world's baseball series will be held in this city on Tuesday, Oct. 8. The games will alternate between here and Boston, one game in each city until the series is concluded.

The toss of a coin decided which city was to get the opening game. President McAleer of the Boston club chose heads, the coin fell tails and the game went to New York.

The second toss, with similar result, fixed the opening game for Tuesday, Oct. 8. The Boston club preferred Monday, Oct. 7.

The umpires selected were: National league, Klem and Rigler; American league, O'Loughlin and Evans.

The Boston club will control the sale of tickets in that city. This is a victory for Ban Johnson in the American league.

In New York the sale of tickets will be handled by the national commission Boston has worked out a plan whereby tickets will be delivered so far as is practicable to persons who have already made application. Their applications have been filed and they will be notified to send the money. Tickets good for three games each will be issued.

In the event of rain it was decided that the visiting team should remain in town until the game is played. Among the reserved seats will be a block of 75 for the national commission, two each to each member of the opposing teams and not over 50 tickets for members of the local press.

The number to be allotted to out-of-town correspondents was not announced. The list will be approved by the Baseball Writers' association.

President Herrmann of the national commission, who was spokesman for the conferes added that "Every effort would be made to prevent tickets from falling into the hands of speculators."

In New York, with a view to defeating the speculators the only seats reserved will be a block of 5500 in the upper grand stand. Seats in the lower grand stand and bleachers will be sold at the Polo grounds and each person purchasing a ticket must pass directly into the grounds.

LOWELL MILITARY COMPANIES

C, G and K of 6th Regiment at Milford—Rifle Team of Co. M Went to Wakefield

The members of Companies C, G and K of the Sixth regiment, M. V. M., left Lowell at 7 o'clock this morning for Milford, Mass., to participate in the big celebration, attending the unveiling of a statue of Gen. Draper. The Lowell contingent represents about 200 men, and was in charge of Capt. Peterson of Company C, Capt. Joyes of Company G and Capt. Greig of Company K.

The Lowell soldiers assembled at the armory on Westford street at 6.30 o'clock this morning and after receiving orders from the captains marched to the Middlesex street depot. There they boarded a train at 7 o'clock for Milford. Upon reaching the latter place, the soldiers were assigned to their respective sections, and later marched in parade, with the other company of the Sixth regiment of Massachusetts. After the parade the statue was unveiled. The exercises were very impressive.

Milford was decorated for the occasion, and business practically suspended. The Lowell men will return this evening.

Went to Wakefield

The annual shoot of the Ninth regiment, M. V. M., is being held at Wakefield today with the rifle teams of all companies in the state participating.

The rifle team of Company M of Lowell left this morning for the "scene of battle," the members leaving Merrimack square on the 8.15 Reading car. In the local team there were ten regulars and two subs, all in charge of Capt. Philip McNulty. The Lowell men have a very good team and they are confident of putting up a big score.

FINGER PRINT SYSTEM

Explained to Boy Scouts by Supt. Welch

The Eliot Boy Scouts gathered in the vestry of the Eliot Congregational church last evening to listen to a very interesting and instructive lecture by Redmond Welch, chief of the police department, who took for his subject the finger print system of detecting criminals as used at present in all the large cities of this country and others.

The address was very well attended and the vestry was filled to its total capacity with members of the Boy Scouts organization and their friends. They all listened with the greatest enjoyment to Chief Welch and gave the latter a rousing reception.

Mr. Welch began his lecture with an explanation of the term "court record" and the significance of suffering arrest. He told of the great advantage which one has who has never been brought before a court, over the unfortunate who has been forced to face trial. In the application for civil service positions especially is this of importance for the chances of obtaining a position are small for the man or boy with a court record.

The speaker then described in general the laws of the city and the state, outlining the reasons, ends and causes of their existence in a community. He explained the procedure of the police court. He then went directly to his main subject.

In regard to the finger print system he said that the finger prints of all criminals are taken and three copies made, one for the station from which the arrest was made, the second for the state finger print bureau, and the third for the National finger print bureau. The same is done in the case of one who is suspected of being a criminal. As an illustration he cited the case of a pickpocket arrested in Merrimack square a few years ago. The man's finger prints were taken and sent to the New York State bureau, where it was discovered that the man was a notorious thief. He pleaded guilty and served a long term.

In the Bertillon system complicated measurements of the body were necessary but such is not the case in the finger print system, where the mere print of one's thumb lines will identify him.

Finger prints of the boys were taken as an example of how the work is done and John J. Pinder of the police department made several records for them, describing in detail the working of the system. Their undivided attention and evident interest fully repaid the men for their work in giving the address.

KAISER AND HIS SON

Are Reported to be Estranged

BERLIN, Sept. 25.—The gossip concerning the Kaiser's alleged estrangement from his son, Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm has been revived. The Wiesbaden Tageblatt says that his majesty, as a consequence of the trouble, refused to attend the birthday fetes of the crown princess the other day.

Father and son, the paper says, never correspond when apart and hardly ever speak when they meet. If the crown prince is compelled to communicate with the emperor he does it through a court official.

His majesty, it is pointed out, did not review the crown prince's regiment during the recent maneuvers. The heir to the throne had the regiment drawn up and awaited the emperor, who finally sent an aid to review it. The prince was deeply offended and complained openly of his treatment.

It is stated that the crown prince's anti-government demonstration in the Reichstag some time ago still rankles his father, who also disapproves of some of his son's companions and his disinclination for certain duties.

Friends of the crown prince have ineffectually tried to effect a reconciliation between him and his father.

MATRIMONIAL

A rather exceptional marriage ceremony was performed on Monday night by Rev. Edward C. Ramette when Jean Brouck, who can converse only in French, and Rebecca Ferris, whose speech is restricted to English were made husband and wife. Rev. Mr. Ramette found it necessary to use both languages. The couple will reside at 334 Moody street.

FARR—CURTIS

Mr. Cayton Favor Farr, oldest son of Mr. John Farr, of 18 Broadway and Miss Maud Ethel Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leland Curtis, were married Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, 97 Read street, in the presence of the immediate relatives, by Rev. B. R. Harris, pastor of the Paige Street Free Baptist church. The double ring service was used.

The bride wore a gown of white voile, trimmed with Duchesse lace and carried bride's roses. The bridesmaid, Miss Vinnie Adlington of North Billerica, wore a gown of pink messaline, trimmed with chiffon and carried pink roses. Mr. Harold Dalton of Lowell was best man, and little Miss Esther Curtis, a cousin of the bride, was ring bearer. The wedding march was played by Mr. A. W. Henderson. The decorations were of evergreen, autumn leaves and flowers; one especially beautiful feature being the arch under which the young couple were married; the rich colors of the leaves and the graceful structure, making a very handsome effect.

There were very many useful and ornamental presents, among them being an elegant cut glass pitcher, from the bride's Sunday school class, and another, equally elaborate, from the printers of the Merrimack print room, where Mr. Farr is employed. The gift to the bridemaid was a gold chain and pendant; to the best man gold cuff buttons, and to the ring bearer a gold signet ring.

After the ceremony a short reception was held during which there were piano solos by Mr. Henderson and a reading by Mr. Edwin Wells, uncle of the bride.

Among the out-of-town relatives were: Mr. and Mrs. W. Irving Damon from Everett, Mass., and Mrs. Lovejoy from Portland, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Farr left on an early train for a short tour and after their return will reside at 97 Read street, where they will be pleased to meet their friends after October 15th.

GIRL'S NARROW ESCAPE

Early Return of Clerk Saved Typist's Life

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The accidental return of Chas. Leeman, a clerk, was all that saved Miss Georgianna Rhinehardt, 17 years old, a stenographer, from being cremated in the office in which both work in Williamsburg, yesterday.

Leeman, who is the clerk and cashier for the Double Claw Hammer company at 453 Broadway, Williamsburg, returned from the bank without stopping to smoke his usual cigar and gossip with the cigar store owner. He found Miss Rhinehardt gagged and tied to a chair in the office, with a blaze getting a good start in the trash basket in the corner.

Leeman untied the girl, carried her to the street, then called the fire department and the police. The fire was extinguished with little damage and the girl was revived.

LENOX WOMAN ACCUSED

She is Charged With Smuggling

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—William Loeb, Jr., collector of the port last night turned over testimony in the case of Mrs. Ambrose C. Kingsland, a wealthy woman of New York and Lenox, Mass., to United States District-Attorney John B. Vreeland of Jersey City for the purpose of having it brought before the United States grand jury. Mr. Loeb said that Mrs. Kingsland's failure to declare her baggage when she arrived from Europe Saturday will result in an effort to prosecute her on a charge of smuggling and to have all her baggage forfeited, under civil proceedings.

When Mrs. Kingsland arrived in Hoboken on Saturday after 18 months in Europe, she had 24 trunks containing clothes of the costly make. According to Collector Loeb she failed to declare a large quantity of foreign made goods. Mrs. Kingsland explained this by declaring that practically all these had been brought to New York a year ago and duty had been regularly paid then. This explanation did not satisfy the authorities, who concluded that the goods were dutiable.

The value of Mrs. Kingsland's seized luggage is estimated at over $10,000.

THE PARTIES AND CANDIDATES

Hitherto the socialist party was considered the most dangerous to this country, although without any chance of getting control of the government: but now practically all that socialism stands for in this country is represented by the Bull Moose party. Col. Roosevelt is declared by the most prominent socialist leaders of the country to be the foremost exponent of the cult this country has produced.

Not only has he undertaken to smash the established custom forbidding a third term for any presidential candidate, but he has taken up every extraneous and outlandish policy that has been foisted upon the world during the last century. On these visionary theories put forward by Roosevelt many voters will be deceived because most of them are wholly impracticable under our constitution. On the other hand, Roosevelt on the tariff and the questions that do vitally concern the people, is evasive and indefinite. On the tariff, for example, he would refer the whole question to a commission for investigation and would base all future action upon the report of such commission. That means that there would be no immediate relief, for these investigations are very tedious. Very few such bodies reach any definite conclusion in less than five or ten years. That would postpone the revision of the tariff which is now most imperatively demanded. The republican party had a commission working on the tariff, but when congress passed the farmers' free list, the woolen bill and several others of equal importance, they were vetoed because the tariff board had not reported upon them.

When the delusive character of the Roosevelt policies is exposed by his opponents, he jumps upon his critic in his braggart style, pouring out the coarsest vituperation instead of argument. Unfortunately there are people who like this method of conducting a campaign, and that is why the honest voter cannot afford to temporize with the Roosevelt stripe of erratic politics.

President Taft, after being forced against his will to fight for the nomination, has decided to adopt the dignified course, and he is not doing much actual campaign work. Taft as president has been a failure, although personally he is a good man; but the most eminently able candidate representing the party allied to the trusts, responsible for their existence and their power, should be buried in ignominious defeat. The time has come to reject the republican party in any form or disguise, and hence the only hope of this nation today lies in the election of Governor Wilson as the next president of the United States.

On every issue of the campaign Governor Wilson holds a sound and democratic position. On the tariff his policy is safe and sensible. He does not favor free trade; he does not favor a cataclysm that would cause a panic among manufacturing concerns; but he does favor the prompt removal of the tariff from the articles of food that are now selling for unprecedented prices. He would have the tariff removed from beef, potatoes and other important items in the daily diet of the masses, articles that are now controlled by trusts and speculative combines.

The republican party in its platform denies that the high cost of living is due to the excessive tariff, thus trying to evade responsibility for present conditions; but the democratic platform charges that "excessive prices result in a large measure from the high tariff laws enacted and maintained by the republican party and from trusts and commercial conspiracies fostered and encouraged by such laws; and that no substantial relief can be secured for the people until import duties on the necessaries of life are materially reduced and these criminal conspiracies broken up."

NOW FOR A DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

The result of the primaries is now known, and for better or worse it must be accepted. The will of the people as expressed by the two political parties is reflected in the candidates who won in yesterday's primaries. The nominees of the democratic party must now be loyally supported by every voter claiming allegiance to that party.

The Sun has taken no part in the anti-primary contests, inasmuch as we believe the people are competent to decide between the rival candidates. It would be unfair for a newspaper to come out to condemn any candidate in his aspiration for public office. The Sun simply presented a few of the leading facts in regard to each candidate in order that the voters might have some knowledge of the men who seek their suffrages.

The renomination of Governor Foss is no surprise as it is difficult to dislodge a high official who has been in office for several years if he has given even reasonable satisfaction.

The governor, we believe, is the strongest candidate who could have been named, and he will carry the state with a whoop. District Attorney Pelletier made a strong and manly fight for the nomination, and in view of the difficulties he had to overcome, it is not at all strange that he was defeated.

District Attorney Pelletier made a good fight, but it was hardly to be expected that he could overcome the strong forces arrayed in support of Governor Foss.

The nomination of Hon. Joseph Walker is perhaps more acceptable to the democrats than would have been that of Col. Benton. Walker has had too many political fights to prove a strong candidate, and with the dissatisfaction caused by the Bull Moose ticket, Mr. Walker's chances of election are indeed very slight.

The nomination of Hon. Jeremiah O'Sullivan for congress is a guarantee of a vigorous fight for victory on election day. Mr. O'Sullivan is already a sort of national character, owing to his fame as the rubber heel king, and as congressman he would wield a strong influence in behalf of the industries and the interests of the Fifth district.

Mr. O'Sullivan's rattling campaign, not only in Lowell but throughout the district, brought him a signal victory. He avoided personalities and kept to the straight political issues of the campaign. He said that if defeated for the nomination, he would come out and work for the successful candidate. That is the right spirit in which to seek a nomination, and it imposes upon the defeated candidates the duty of loyal support of the nominee which is what is expected of every democrat anyhow.

Before the primaries the candidates said some pretty hard things of one another, always bad policy, bad for the man who makes the charges if he happens to win and bad for the party whether he wins or loses. But after the primaries all these anti-caucus bickerings are to be put aside and forgotten so that all may work loyally and harmoniously for victory at the polls.

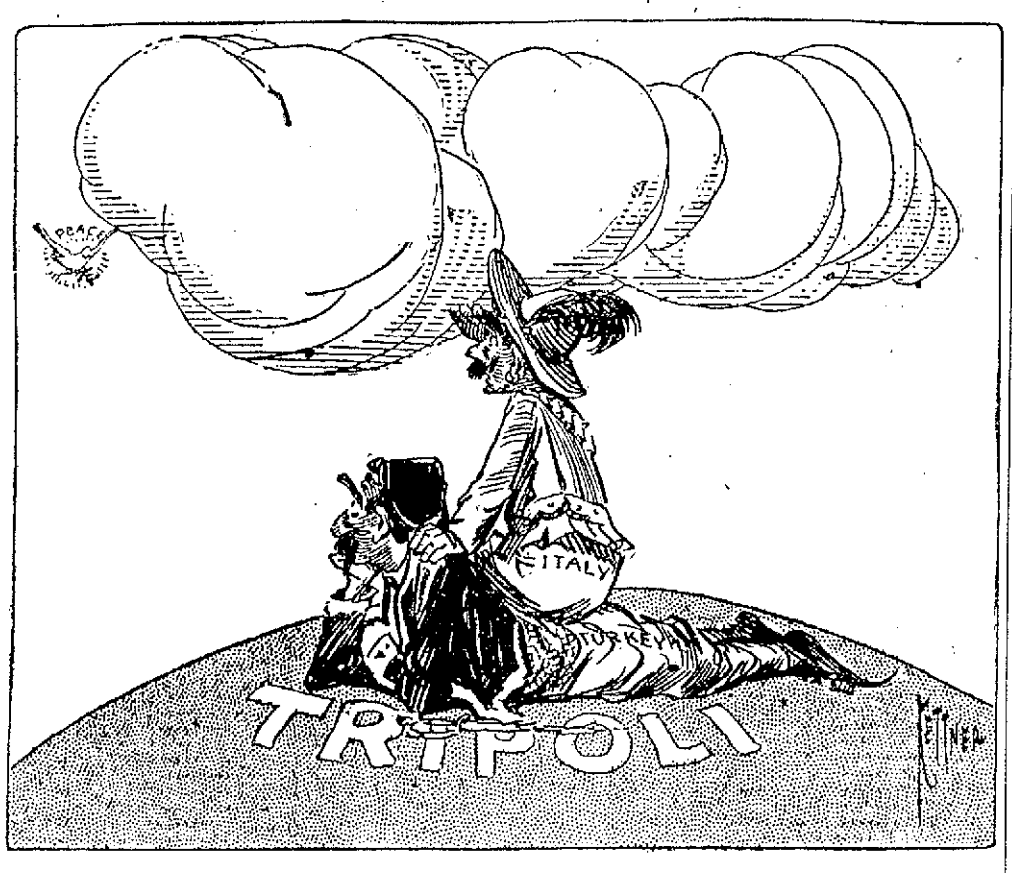

This being a presidential year, it is of the utmost importance that all discord be suppressed, that personal animosities be forgotten and that all hands work for democratic victory, which means a reduction in the cost of living and a policy opposed to the domination of the trusts, to the monopolies that fleece the people and to the republican regime in any form regardless of what label it bears.

LATE STREET PAVING

It was supposed that under the new charter the street work that should be done in summer weather would not be allowed to drag into the mouth of winter. But we are to see smooth paving done in zero weather this year as under the old regime.

The Merrimack River Waterway Board selected a most inopportune time for a hearing in this city, as it is to [illegible]. Everybody interested in Lowell [illegible] absorbed in the primary contests. We do not expect an attendance that will properly represent the importance of the whole subject.

Another sensation is due in the Rumsell will case. It is time something came to light to penetrate the mystery that enshrouds the identity of the two claimants, Dakota Dan and Fresno Dan. It is now alleged a family secret is to be divulged that will explain all.

WAITING

Seen and Heard

I met her first down by the sea—the landlord's lovely daughter, she; the fairest maid along the shore, 'mid other beauteous maids galore. Her eyes were bright, her eyes were blue, her smile was sweet, and good, and true, her cheeks were tanned, but in their wealth suggested an abundant health.

I sought her here, I sought her there. I followed her 'most everywhere, and finally one soft June night I met her in the pale moonlight. Ecstatic, thrilled in soul and heart, I wooed her from the very start, and ere the stars had ceased to shine had begged her to say she would be mine.

A solemn look came in her eye, and then she made me this reply:—

"I do not know if I can say right off the handle if I may. I do not know exactly what engagements are already got, but if perchance you still persist, I'll gladly put you on the list. I have a notion that I'm free from July ten to August three, with possibly a day or two, besides, before the season's through, when I'll be yours with pleasure great—that is, upon the usual rate. I charge ten dollars, cash, per day for serving as a financee."

And ere the silver moon went down I turned and beat it back to town.—John Kendrick Bangs, in September Lippincott's.

"New times demand new measures and new men;
The world advances and in time outgrows
The laws that at in our father's day were best;
And, doubtless, after us some purer scheme
Will be shaped out by wiser men than we,
Made wiser by the steady growth of truth."

These words from that eminent poet, James Russell Lowell flashed across my mind the other day as I gazed upon the oldest campaign button that I have ever seen, and I wondered if time had improved very much on the men whose pictures, in miniature daguerretoype appeared on the button, Stephen A. Douglas and Herschel W. Johnson. The date on the button was 1860, when Douglas was running for president and Johnson for vice president. The world, of course, has advanced but I doubt if we have improved much upon the men whose faces dimly appear on the old campaign button.

During these days of seething political excitement the campaign button is everywhere in evidence. Buttons of Wilson, of Taft, of Roosevelt and of all the gubernatorial and legislative candidates are flooding the country and when Napoleon J. Harnoise of Salem, N. H., picked up the somewhat rusty button to which we have referred, he was mightily interested, and pardonably so. He had been helping to tear down the old Kimball mansion in Salem, a house said to have been built more than 200 years ago, when he noticed the button in a pile of rubbish. On picking it up and examining it closely he managed to decipher the names of Douglas and Johnson and despite the many years the button had mingled with the dust and dirt the old tintypes of Douglas and Johnson were still quite clear. Mr. Harnoise brought the button to The Sun office, yesterday for our examination.

To the young voters of these times such a button would probably excite but little interest, but to those men bent and gray with the weight of years, who cast their ballots in the elections during the last of slavery days, it would bring vividly to mind that stirring campaign when Stephen Arnold Douglas and Abraham Lincoln roused the country to fever heat by their historic controversy over the proper solution of the slave question.

That Douglas was a worthy opponent to the Great Emancipator seems reflected in the tiny picture. The well developed head, with its deepest eyes and decisive chin gives one an idea of the firmness for which the original was noted. Stephen Arnold Douglas. How quickly his memory has faded from the minds of men. And who can tell but that fifty years hence some other worker, now an urchin, unearthing another button, will look at it and curiously recall tonmind that in his schooldays there flourished the man whose name appears upon the button. The name may be Wilson, Roosevelt or Taft. Who knows?

THE TUG

The liner—she's a lady; that's the reason why, no doubt,
She always needs assistance gettin' in an' gettin' out,
She can't come up the river an' she dassn't dock alone
So she whistles for the tugboat in a most implorin' tone,
An' the tugboat takes the hawser an' goes puffin' up the stream
With his stack a-smokin' lively an' his engine spittin' steam,
Then he swings her an' he pulls her—like a cowboy drivin' stock,
An' he hasn't got no manners—but he gits her in the dock!
He's short an' stout an' chunky
Like a fat old goat,
An' he ain't no liner's flunky
He's a free-lance boat;
Yet it's easy, when you view him,
An' you hear him pant,
To see there ain't much to him
But his power plant.

When there's any job to tackle he will take it anyhow
Whether towin' racin' liners er a garbage scow.
You will see him ploddin' heavy with a raft of rollin' logs,
Or a-pantin' down the harbor with a barge of squealin' hogs,
With a string of empty lighters er a ship from 'round the horn,
With a fleet of pleasure barges er a freighter full of corn,
He yanks 'em through the river an' his husky whistle blows
As he tells the other steamers to be lookin' where they goes.
His captain is a feller
That is all there, too,
An' there ain't a streak of yeller
In the tugboat's crew,
What they promise they stand pat on
An' if paid the rate,
They would tow the hull Manhattan
To the Golden Gate.

The Tug he bucks the river when it's full of grindin' ice,
An' when there's trade to handle, why, you needn't call him twice,
Fer he's out a-ridin' combers maybe fifty miles at sea.
An' he doesn't stop fer danger when he's looking for a fee;
He's the little giant helper, he's the live wire of the port,
He's a nervy, nifty snorter an' a winner an' a sport,
He's the snubby-nosed exploiter of the chances of the game
An' he's never much on beauty but he gets there just the same!
If there's any job to rustle,
Any chance to take,
You'll see the tugboat hustle
Like his gauge would break;
Two hundred pounds of steam on
Make his engines throb,
He's the busy little demon
An' he's on the job!

From Waist to Feet Covered with Large Blisters. Suffered Dreadfully. Could Not Sleep. In Two Weeks Completely Cured by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

R. F. D., Box 92, Thornton, R. I.—"When my little girl was two months old she had erythema or tooth rash. The lower part of her body broke out in a rash which started in the form of small pimples. In a day or so the pimples formed a white head which broke causing a watery discharge to run from it. In a week the baby's body from her waist to her feet looked as if it had been burned, being covered with large blisters which broke open leaving the flesh exposed and causing the child intense suffering. I had an ointment to use on her every two hours. It did not do her any good, in fact she seemed to get worse and she suffered dreadfully. Someone told me they had never seen such a bad case on any child. She could not sleep and cried continually. She continued to suffer for five weeks the blisters spreading all the time. Then I tried Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment. I bathed her in warm water with plenty of Cuticura Soap and covered the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment. The next morning we were surprised at the improvement in her and in two weeks she was completely cured. I have used nothing but Cuticura Soap on my youngest child since its birth." (Signed) Mrs. Sara Richmond, Jan. 11, 1912.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

FIRST BUTTERFLY FARM

Started by Man in Yorkshire, England

The claim that the first butterfly farm in the world is to be started in Red Bank, N. J., is apparently not strictly accurate inasmuch as H. W. Head of Yorkshire, England, already has such a farm of between three and four acres in extent. He claims to be the first person to go into the breeding of butterflies in captivity, though there are now in Great Britain a number of butterfly "farmers."

For a matter of twenty-eight years, says the Yorkshire Evening Post, Mr. Head has made a business of butterfly breeding and he now has a wonderful collection of between 300 and 400 varieties of British and foreign butterflies and moths, and a setup stock of 440,000, all produced on his farms at Scarborough and Burinston.

The farm is stocked with all kinds of trees and weeds—indeed one part is a veritable jungle—for the purpose ofleof providing caterpillars and butterflies with the particular food they require. One species of caterpillar thrives upon one kind of plant and another species upon another; and Mr. Head has taken infinite trouble to provide himself with the rarest plants in oder to produce the rarest moths and butterflies.

In the rearing of hybrids Mr. Head has been remarkably successful. He has raised altogether well into a dozen, and he showed a reporter specimens of a yellow form of the green veined white butterfly, the sale price of which is about 30 shillings ($7.30) each. But what he is always on the lookout for are "sports," i. e., butterflies or moths of well known types, but differently marked than the ordinary.

There is a good demand for these and a single specimen will fetch pounds. It is all a matter of luck. Since he has been in the business Mr. Head has tried to breed a black variety of the tiger moth, but he has not succeeded. At the haven live butterflies are not supplied. The live stock does not go beyond the caterpillar or the fertile eggs of any particular kind of butterfly or moth in stock, but his clientele is cosmopolitan and world-wide in extent.

Another English authority tells of a jet black butterfly valued at $5000, as big almost as a robin, with wings measuring 11½ inches from tip to tip, which has been brought to London from New Guinea by A. L. Mock, an explorer in the service of the Hon. Walter Rothschild, millionaire owner of the famous private museum in Tring Park. Several new varieties of butterflies, by far the largest in the world, were discovered in New Guinea by Mock.

"I had to take up from the coast," he says, "cases of pearl shell, tomahawks and heads of all kinds before I could get the assistance of the natives in capturing the butterflies. The natives shoot them with four pronged arrows, which they use for killing birds. The female giant butterflies are black or brown or white, but the males are splendidly marked in green or gold. I brought back also with me a butterfly which has a hairy body on account of the intense coldness of the Snow mountains."

The hairy butterfly described by Mock, now in the Rothschild collection, is almost furry, so thick is its covering, and it has a wonderful appearance. The explorer, who has been twenty-three years in New Guinea, brings back with him also specimens of the famous birds of paradise.

DIPLOMAT PASSED AWAY

German Baron Was Ambassador in London

BADENWEILER, Baden, Germany, Sept. 25.—Germany's most brilliant diplomat, Baron Adolf Marschall von Bieberstein, died yesterday after a short illness.

The baron, who occupied the position of German Ambassador in London since May, came here to take a course of alkaline water treatment and was in comparative good health until a week ago.

Baron Marschall von Bieberstein was regarded as one of the most accomplished diplomats, not only in Germany, but in the world.

He succeeded Bismarck when he left office in 1890, becoming Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and conducted negotiations with many foreign powers for commercial treaties which have been in force since, with few modifications.

In 1894 he became Prussian Minister of State, and three years later the emperor appointed him ambassador to Turkey. He remained at Constantinople 14 years, but was often called to Berlin to confer with the emperor. He was strongly in favor of the extension of Germany's dominions in all parts of the world. His views were so well liked at the court that he was often mentioned for the imperial chancellorship.

When he was nominated for the embassy in London, early this year, it was reported that he would endeavor to bring about an understanding between the two great rivals, Germany and Great Britain.

However well founded the report may have been that it was the emperor's desire that he should try to affect a peaceful arrangement between the two powers, the ambassador had little opportunity to bring it about, for he arrived in London on June 18.

He was born in 1842 in the Grand Duchy of Baden. He became a lawyer when of age, and entered the Grand Ducal service in 1865. In this career he continued until elected a member of the upper house of the Baden diet in 1875. There he distinguished himself as a ready debater and a capable parliamentarian.

In 1878 he was sent to the Reichstag, where he served five years, then receiving the appointment of ambassador of the Grand Duchy of Baden at Berlin. He served in that capacity until he became the successor of Count Herbert Bismarck. After his retirement as minister of foreign affairs he received the appointment of minister to Turkey.

Von Bieberstein was one of the leading men of Germany, prominent in the German-American controversy over the tariff. It was he who said: "The fitful changes which are peculiar to American economic life have had a greater effect upon Prague than all the fluctuations of the German-American tariff legislation."

CONCORD, N. H., Sept. 25.—Frank White, leader of a gang of yeggs which burglarized many postoffices in this state, was yesterday sentenced in the United States district court to two years at the Atlanta Penitentiary, and fined $1000. He has already served a year at Atlanta for a similar offense.

Following the disposition of the White case the indictment returned against the officers and directors of the Patents Security company of Manchester, charging the sending of a fraudulent statement of the company's financial standing through the mails, was taken up.

R. Cordaire, treasurer of the company, was arraigned last week and on a plea of guilty a fine of $100 was imposed.

Yesterday morning, Paul L. LaBonte, Israel Guertin and Joseph Cadotte of the board of directors were called and entered pleas of nolo through counsel. LaBonte was fined $50, and the indictment against the other two was continued for sentence.

Davis Will Appeal

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 25.—Clark Davis, vice president and general manager of the Alaska Petroleum & Coal Company, said that nine of the Lippy-Davis claimants went on the witness stand at the hearing here and denied that there was an agreement to sell or to combine, prior to location of the claims.

He said also that an appeal would be taken at once and that arguments for reversal of the decision would be presented to the commissioner of the general land office.

THE POLICE

Expect to Make Another Arrest Today in Connection With Looting of Sale

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—The Wakefield police expect to make another arrest today in connection with the attempt made to loot the safe of J. S. Straley on Albion street in that town. They are of the opinion that two young men who were arrested in Wakefield square at 4 o'clock last Sunday morning are responsible. George Ohlund of Fordick place, Lynn, is under arrest.

WOMAN WAS RESCUED

When Fire Broke Out in Revere House

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—One woman was rescued and several diners fled from the Revere house yesterday when a fire starting on the roof worked down through to the employes' quarters, causing a $5000 damage. Several chambers on the French street side were damaged by fire and water.

The cause of the fire is unknown. It was discovered by William Britt and Joseph Santura, who were passing by. They hurried to the Bulfinch st. fire station, gave the alarm, then rushed back to give the alarm to any who might be in the threatened part of the building.

After trying the doors of the rooms on the way upstairs they finally came to that of a woman employe, who, working nights, was asleep with her door locked. They broke down the door and carried her to another part of the hotel, away from the fire, where she was cared for until her clothing could be secured.

Several people who were at lunch in the main cafe rushed to the street to escape the smoke and water.

Black, it is said, became interested in a colonization land scheme. He and his wife are said to have assigned to the association property of sufficient value to guarantee the company against loss. No arrest has been made.

We have a very efficient corps of workmen though and are equipped to furnish all orders received.

The superintendent was called to answer a call from the head office in Boston. He was asked to send a man to Newark, N. J., tonight, as the carrier system installed by the Lamson company in one of the largest stores in Newark is to be operated tomorrow, for a demonstration to the owners and friends. The store will not be opened until next month, and while the company had more time to manufacture the devices, all were completed and forwarded to the Newark store and installed ahead of time.

That is one feature of the Lamson company—always carry out what it promises—and the officials strictly enforce shit rule. Another reason for shipping the goods as soon as possible is to make room for other orders. For with the new building, there is not any too much room. All available space is occupied and with business increasing at the same ratio that it has during the last few years, more room will soon be needed.

There is still a vacant lot of land in front of the recently erected four story building, and this may soon be utilized for building purposes.

In the new building, the top floor is packed with stock ready to be sent to the assembly room, and here there is a magnificent supply of material, a supply that represents thousands of dollars, but it is absolutely necessary to hold such a quantity, owing to the hurried orders that the company receives.

While the main office of the company is in Boston and the factory here in Lowell, branch offices are located all over the country, and also several in Canada, so that orders are received here from many different places and Lamson products are in evidence in practically all sections. In the shipping department today, cases were being packed for Cleveland, Ohio; Los Angeles, Cal.; Ottawa, Ont.; Newark, N. J. and numerous other places.

In the basement of the new building, the patents are stored and an arrangement for holding the latter that attracted the attention of the writer was the fact that the racks are made of steel, with wire shelves. Each rack is a section, and all shelves bear small brass tags, with numbers that correspond with index checks that are kept in a desk nearby, and when a particular patent is wanted all one must do is to look up on the index cards and then go to the exact section.

The basement is still uncompleted, that is so far as the installation of the racks is concerned, but this work will soon be accomplished. When it is finished this room too, will be crowded to its capacity.

In every department in the establishment, the machines are crowded in as close as possible, but not so close as to be dangerous. The plant is well arranged and owing to the number of windows on both sides of the building it is a very healthful one to work in.

At the present time there are several new devices being experimented on, and much progress along these lines has been made. One of the most recent devices that has been perfected by the company is a newspaper conveyer, and the latter has been installed in many of the larger newspaper offices throughout the country. The attachment will be connected with the new press in the new Sun building.

In passing through one of the rooms of the plant some rather old men were noticed, and it was learned that there are several employes there at the present time who came to the plant when it started. The greater number of the workmen are very skilled and they receive good salaries, and very seldom change positions. While there is also a large number of the younger generation at work there, they, too, in time will become so familiar with their work that they will retain their positions.

The Lamson company has had great success with its employes and little or no trouble was ever experienced there. This fact may be attributed in a large measure to the excellent manner in which all are treated by the men in charge and also to the fact that they are well paid for their work.

Another fact that keeps the men together and satisfied is the plan recently adopted to employ the workmen the year around. Heretofore, during the dull season, the workers were laid off, and taken back when activities were resumed. Now when a dull time arises, the men are put to work, manufacturing general devices and these are shipped to the branch offices, which are at all times equipped with a sufficient supply to accommodate several large orders. This plan is a very good one and keeps the employes at work the entire year.

The local plant is in charge of Supt. Stevens, a very capable official who since coming to this city has met with remarkable success. He takes a keen interest in his work and is anything but a desk man; he goes through the many departments of the plant, and is familiar with all parts of the work. He is a very popular superintendent, among both his superiors in the main office and his subordinates at the Walker street plant.

PRESIDENT'S DAY

Was Observed at the Celebration of Anniversary of Loyal War Governors' Anniversary

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 25.—This was president's and governor's day at the Altoona celebration of the anniversary of the Loyal War Governors' conference, held here 50 years ago to consider the Civil war situation. President Taft and Governor Tener of Pennsylvania were the guests of honor. United States Senator Penrose, members of the congress and the descendants of several of the Civil war governors who participated in the famous conference helped in the celebration. President Taft arrived here at 9 a.m. and remained in the private car for breakfast and a short rest. Although the day was cloudy and rain threatened the big feature of the day, a parade of Civil war veterans, national guardsmen and school children were not seriously interfered with. The president, Governor Tener and other distinguished guests had places in the reviewing stand.

Luncheon for the president and other guests was served in a room in the hotel in which at least one of the conferences between the loyal governors was held half a century ago.

After the luncheon the principal feature was a speech by the president in a big tent. The president expects to leave Altoona late today for Beverly.

Russell sang "The Homeland," "Shall We Meet Beyond the River" and "Christian, Good Night." There was a profusion of beautiful floral offerings. The bearers were John Hutchinson, Mark O. Batchelder, Nelson D. Kraekles and Clarence Stevens. The burial took place in the family lot in the Edson cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Mr. Harris. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Undertaker William H. Saunders. Mrs. Guild was born at Sapleigh, Me., in 1824, but had been a resident of this city almost all her life. She is survived by one son, Alfonse B. Guild of Boston; two grandchildren, Miss Eva Guild and Chester A. Guild, both of this city.
